CQ CQ CQ::: CALLING ON ALL DXERS
Recently we gave birth to a DX Group of a new kind, born from the (very deep ! !) reflexions of a group of Dxer friends, whose first avocation is innovation and conviviality on the air, quality of the contacts and of their confirmation. Indeed some will answer us that there already is a plethora of DX Groups, so additionally to being a new Group we will try our best efforts to bring something new to our beloved hobby. But what can still be new on 11m, and after asking ourselves this question we came to the answer that all had not yet been done , the best example being the success encountered by the DR Group with their Castles activations..
Seeing the enthousiasm among our cousins radio hams for the Lighthouses activations, and also that this kind of activity had never outside some rare and particular initiatives been practized on 11m, we decided to introduce them to our band as well, there are lists of Lighthouses in many places and we adapted them to our needs. So far they encomprise over 7000 lights over 6 continents and we have still a long way to go to complete them, so there is ground for lots of activations still even as the propagation is in a diminishing cycle ! !
These listes are at the disposal of anyone who asks for them, we are not more owners than neither are we going to do these activations all on our own, and here You all will have Your role to play, be You independent Dxer, affiliated to a Group of whatever size, You even are all welcome to be part of our Group if You wish so, everyone can do such activations, we on our side are founding a QSL Bureau able to take charge of editing QSL cards and replying to any activations, or the different Groups existing may also manage them by themselves, we sure do not wish to supplant the need for DX Groups ! !

Let us also think for a moment that Lighthouses have for centuries been guides for seamen, some of them are real pieces of architectural art and they need to be protected from destruction in some cases. Also the Lighthouses are most often on IOTAs and some even are inside rare divisions, so there will be enough to satisfy all amateurs of beautiful QSL cards or divisions chasers. So we do send an invitation to all the Radio operators in order to take part , and then we will have done something positive for 27Mhz in general.
Indeed anyone who would like to join us in this venture is most heartily welcome to do so, we are not an elitistic Group boasting of any exclusivity, quite the opposite, we would like to bring something to RADIO ! The adhesion is yearly renewable, costs 25 US$, 25 Euros or 150FF and will give You a CQ call, 20 QSL cards of Your choice, the use of our Po Box and the right to make or take part in Lighthouses activations, get personal QSL cards printed with the use of our LOTA logo. When our financial means will allow for it we will edit a booklet containing tons of info, lighthouses lists, IOTA lists and plenty other useful infos such as QSL Managers and groups addresses lists. The call is made, and the door is open to anyone with a good will ! ! ! We also stand at Your disposal for any complementary informations if needed, don't be shy to ask us Your questions ! !<<<<<

I have had a pair in a QRO HF-2500DX for over 4 years, and they are still running at or very close to full initial output. I seldom run more than 1200 w pep, but can go to 2+ KW plus into a dummy.

Non-Svetlana branded NOS Russian surplus GU-74B tubes can be purchased from eastern European sources for around $80 each delivered to the USA. If you are nervous about sending a money order to Lithuania (you shouldn't be) there is a domestic source who gets about $100 each.

Sad to say but the post that started this thread is a forgery. If you really want to find more background then check out the "rec.radio.cb" news group. This is not the first time that myself, and several other Hams, have had messages posted using our callsigns and or names in an attempt to discredit our points of view in that group by a very persisted, and dirty handed, group of outlaw CB radio operators. The original post starting this thread is just one example of their tactics.

Me thinks that you should have an MRI, find out for sure if your cranium is actually vacant or if your brain is just lying dormant.

Let's see, the stuff sent to Daschle's office had a chemical additive found only in the U.S., Russia, and Iraq. Being that I live near a major city and have access to many retail stores, I do not recall seeing a "Chemical Additives are Us" outlet. Being that much ado was made about the relative scarcity of the "chemical additive", one could suppose that it is not freely available on the streets to the average schmuck, otherwise it wouldn't be scarce in other countries.

The media and others also indicated that the person responsible would likely be a microbiologist. If you've listened to the shows that are labeled as "Right Wing Extremist", it is patently evident that most of these guys probably had trouble graduating from High School.

The odd thing is that the "nuts" on shortwave have basically called the progression of events correctly. There would be a "major disaster" (of course the FBI had no advance warning), people would beg for the government to protect them, offering their freedoms in exchange, and somehow the government would link some aspect of it to domestic sources.

Viola, all three have come true. Alex Jones has been stating this for months before Sept. 11th. Others have also voiced these concerns. If the government really feared additional events, they would pull the immigration visas to those students from countries currently manifesting aggressive policies towards the U.S.

Rest of bullshit snipped from the Madison Soviet Socialist Republic.

---This article by Bob Morning Wood Woodward is the biggest bunch of propaganda since Pravda was doing it for the Soviets. There is not ONE OUNCE of proof that there is ANY connection to right-wing groups. In fact, Woodward's own article says so throughout! This piece is being used for two reasons:

1) To plant in people's minds that this "threat" from the right is bigger than Jihad!
2) Because they cannot directly attack George W. and his conservatism at the current time, for fear of being labeled unpatriotic, they must attack someone or something else on the right.

Let's face it, if this were really a domestic right-wing threat, the so-called watch dog agencies listed in Woodward's article would be under attack! Not these little do nothing politicians and tabloid news agencies!

For a much clearer picture of were the threat is coming from, please follow up with these two investigative columns:

http://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/0,,2001350026-2001372638,00.html

Those are awful long links, so I will personally test them to make sure I've posted them correctly. If there is a mistake, I'll correct it with a follow up post.

I'be been out of radio for awhile now and just recently bought a 706mk2g and a ah-4 I want to use this setup for my main station in the house. My question is which antenna should I use? Right now I have about 65 ft of wire up about 25ft feed directly to the ah-4 then a 8' ground rod 4' from the ah-4. I like to use 75-15 meters If anyone has suggestions please post them.

Aslo has anyone used coax to connect to their AH-4? If so does it work well?

Now, I won't say that Citizen-of-convenience Murdoch's New York Post is God's gift to journalism.

But at least it IS, arguably, a newspaper.

The last time I looked at a cover of a Weekly World News on a newsstand, something I try to avoid, it had a story about Hillary making it with a space alien.

Now why the hell would someone attack the producers of these ink-on-wood-pulp products? Could it be the Pullitzer Prize committee? (not that Joseph Pullitzer always raised the standards of journalism) Camera shy Martians?

OK, OK, I should know better. This is really a dumb question, but I really don't know the answer:

If I have an audio RECORDING of a SSB reception from a non-SSB regular-AM shortwave radio, is there any way (digital or otherwise) to "manipulate" the recording to recover the original audio (voice)?

On my shortwave, I just turn on the BFO and tune around a little to hear it, but that function injects a carrier before it gets to the audio section of the receiver. I'm wondering if there's a way to decipher the audio without having the original radio signal.

I don't see any way of this working.

A single sideband signal is only audio translated to radio frequencies.
When you receive it, you turn on the BFO (Beat Frequency Oscillator), it beats against the incoming signal, and translates it back to audio.
If you don't have the BFO tuned right, you translate the audio to the wrong frequencies, and it sounds funny (or, if you have the BFO tuned too far off, you can't understand what's being said),

If you put an SSB signal through an AM detector, as you've done, you haven't translated the RF back to audio, you've recovered the amplitude variation of the incoming signal. It's a completely different thing.

Now, if your audio recorder was able to record signals up into the radio spectrum, and you had hooked that up to your receiver before the detector, then you could play it back through a product detector and BFO combination, and you would be able to hear what was said.

The only coax attached to the AH4 (like the SGC auto tuners) should go between the tuner and the rig. The tuner is designed to feed a single wire antenna directly. Coax between the tuner and the antenna will be very lossy on those frequencies where the impedance is far from 50 ohms.

As for the actual antenna, basically you want to get as much wire in the air as possible. On the lower frequencies a good ground becomes more important as well. Burry as many radials as possible and attach to the ground lug of the tuner.

It gives creedence to the idea that the anthraxers are not Americans and probably haven't been in the country long enough to realize that its NOT a real newspaper. I suspect some gang of terrorist nuts figured they would poison the "American Media" and looked it up on the internet just like you did and thats what they came up with. :-)

What is actually happening is that the SSB sig and the BFO sig are combined at or before going into the detector while the sig is still at RF.
It would be interesting to try using an audio beat of some sort on top of an SSB recording to see what comes out. I suspect it could be made to work...somehow.
Surely somebody has tried it.

I get a gut feeling that this process is something like trying to get an unfocused photograph back into focus with processing after it's been developed. I don't think it can be done.

But then, when I was kid, I also thought I'd NEVER learn how to tie shoelaces either, but I'm getting much better at it ..

I keep thinking about using the audio to amplitude-modulate a 455KHz carrier and then do the BFO-and rectify thing to pull the audio back out. Anyone got two signal generators that'll put out at 455 KHz, one of them doing AM from an external input?

Here's a different, even more fundamental SSB question, from a relative newbie. I know that some transmissions are in LSB or USB only, such as ham operators. But what about using SSB to tune "regular" programs. I find that on my DX398, sometimes I can use the USB to pull in a weak signal, especially by being able to tune at finer resolution. Is this something that's standard practice?

I wasn't aware of this fact. This might persuade me to get my licence more than anything else. I just don't have a compelling reason to TALK to anyone else all that much. I've been around my ham friends on field day, but besides that day, I never hear any meaningful conversations over the amateur bands....it's just geeks talking to geeks on a radio. It doesn't hold any appeal to me at all. I get more satisfaction out of my phone...I don't feel compelled to strike up conversations with total strangers over the airwaves.

No won't work because your missing critical components in the signal that cannot be recorded in audio. Therefore it's not possible to recombine through adding another audio frequency to recombine and recover the intellegence. It would be nice if it could be done but unfortunately not! It's not a stupid question and i'm sure many have pondered the same thing.

No such thing as a stupid question. In fact, it's a good one!

Anyway... Here's my incredibly stupid answer. <g>

I don't know how much the technique is used by others, but I use it on some SW rigs that have sloppier AM bandwidth skirts.

The bandwidth of SSB IF filters (typically 1.8 or 2.4 KHz) is much narrower than AM, which generally run 4-6 Khz. This sharper cutoff reduces or eliminates bleed from stations that are near the frequency of the one you're tuned to.

It works nicely on AM signals in crowded conditions, provided the receiver tunes in small enough steps to eliminate the hetrodyne whistle, and is stable enough listen without constantly fine-tuning.

Of course, listening to an AM signal using a narrow filter leaves a lot to be desired in the fidelity, but if it enables you to hear a station while a nearby station is bleeding over it, or bring it marginally above the noise it's worth it.

You don't have to pray for QSO's! My AH-4 only has 35 feet of wire 10 feet

Very true, and a good reason to listen to "regular" stations in SSB mode.

There's another good reason:

The fading that's common on shortwave is not the same at all frequencies - at any given time, some frequencies are fading more than others. Sometimes, the difference in fading is extreme at frequencies that are very close to each other. If the "carrier" frequency of a station fades more than its "sidebands" - a very common occurence - reception will become very distorted. It's like if you shout into the microphone of a CB radio, and get distortion and "splatter" - indeed, it's exactly the same phenomonon, except that it's happening in the atmosphere instead of the transmitter.

When you switch to SSB mode, the BFO circuit provides a "carrier" signal of constant strength. It doesn't matter how much the carrier transmitted by the station fades, the carrier provided locally by the BFO is constant.
This "selective fading" distortion won't be nearly as bad.

The process is known as "exalted carrier" reception. I use it quite a bit when DXing standard AM broadcast stations with my ham gear.

Are you saying there are ultrasonic componants missing? Or would they,

Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band
(R. Xemblinosky/P. McCartney)

It was twenty years ago today,
Roger Wiseman forced the boys to be gay
He's been going in and outa their rears
And he's made them into ravin' queers.
So watch out or I'll force on you
The act we've hated all these years,
Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band.

We're Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band, Disciples of the Bucktoothed Choad,
Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band,
Sit back and watch us shoot a load.
Roger Wiseman's Greyhound, Roger Wiseman's Greyhound, Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band.
It's wonderful to be here,
But Wiseman's full of crap,
The dirty goddamn pederast:
That fucker gave us syphilis,
That fucker gave us clap.

I don't really want to stop the show,
But I thought you had all better know,

That Wiseman's going to play a song,
On a stickpin that he stuck through his schlong.
So let me introduce to you
The one and only Bucktoothed Choad
And Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band.

Imagine
(R. Xemblinosky/J. Lennon)

Imagine Roger Wiseman
It's not so hard to do
Kneeling in the boys' room
Slurping down some spoo
Imagine all the Cub Scouts
He has done this to!

Imagine Marshall County
A breeding ground for hicks
When they hear how Roger Gets his seedy kicks
Imagining old Wiseman
Gumming winos' dicks!

Imagine West Vagina Contagious black lung
No more coal to shovel
So Roger gets by with his tongue
Imagine him paying rent
With free shots at his bung!

We all know Wiseman is a reamer
But he's useful just the same
Where else would the Nose find a patsy Half as sad or half as lame?

I downloaded the Palm RX-320 software a couple of weeks ago. Now I can play with the radio without the computer being attached. It's really nice to use just before snoozing off. The only drawback I can see is that it's possible to fall asleep and get poked by the Palm stylus...

I think that is called "exalted carrier reception" but I haven't heard that term in at least 25 years. If you can zero-beat the carrier so that you get no tone, you can improve the quality of reception.

As to the first question about recording SSB then playing it back, you might get one of those voice inversion decoders from a place like Ramsey Electronics and see if that would work. Probably not, but you might be able to clear it up just a little bit.

Well, here's goes a hare-brained theory from someone who knows little about SSB:

Using a special computer program, increase the frequency of the audio by 10KHz. Then, overlay a 10KHz audio signal onto it. This is the tricky part, as you will probably need to adjust the phase and exact frequency of the injected 10KHz signal to get it to create intelligable audio. Then you will have to decrease the resulting audio by 10KHz in order to make it audible again.

I have no idea if this will really work, but it might. I used 10KHz because that is well beyong the audio-range of an AM signal and most computers can only manipulate files with a frequency range of up to 20KHz. And finding a program that can do this is a different story altogether.

Without the carrier being re-injected in the receiver the rectified output from the detector contains only the amplitude information.
The vital phase and frequency information is lost and gone forever.
There is no way of re-constituting the original signal.

But it's a very good question.

I com says you can't do this but in my experience you can.

To adapt my AH-4 to unbalanced output I made a SO-239 mount and attached it to the AH-4 with one of the mount screws. I then made a strap ground between the mount on the wire side and the mount on the ground side of the tuner. All grounds are gathered at the mount screw that attaches the SO-239 mount From the SO-239 i have a short length of high voltage lead terminated in a spade connector.

When I wish to operate long wire I attach the long wire to the tuner output and when I wish to operate with coax I attach the short lead and connect the coax to the SO-239.
I have been doing this for years both with SGC tuners and the AH-4.

BTW the AH-4 performs quite well down to -30 F I established that on the Iditarod last March. Also I have not been able to get it to tune below 80M yet.

I have a chart (from a magazine article) that shows long wire lengths to use and/or avoid. These are the lengths to use - all in feet.
28
39 1/2
58 76
96
145
I have moved my wire and cut off andn added a piece so right now I am no sure how long mine is and I am getting good reports with it. I am going to put up a new wire shortly now that I have it where it works good - lot of tree cover in my yard

You can if the load impedance of the antenna is such that the SWR on the coax is something reasonable. If the SWR on the coax is say 10:1 then even if the tuner matches it, the loss will be very high in the coax. You'll get the best frequency coverage with minimum loss by feeding the wire antenna directly with the tuner.

So what, that isn't what the original poster asked he asked if an AH-4 could be used with an unchallenged output.
The answer short and sweet is yes it can.

There are applications where a coax feed if much superior to a long wire or balanced antenna. I wrote what I did assuming that one of our ham colleagues who had studied and passed his tests might actually understand the implications of excessive coax together with a non-resonant antenna. You sir don't seem to share my faith.

Bottom line the tuner can be used with coax with a simple modification how it might be used is beyond the scope of the question.

An AH-4 is simply a tool subject to use and misuse as any tool. That said I feel no need to lecture my fellow amateurs on subject areas where I am sure they are competent. As is obvious, I do, however, feel free to lecture the lecturers.

Hi,

I have an Icom AT120 auto-tuner, a marine version of the AH series and somewhat older than the AH-4, which I use with my IC-746. I wonder if anyone has used an AH-4 or similar Icom tuner with a Delta Loop antenna and if so, how did it perform?

SGC's manuals on their Web site show their Smartuners being used with dipoles, loops and squares, one side being fed from the normal antenna stand-off insulator and the other side from the ground terminal, there being no real "ground" attached to the tuner in this configuration. I can't see any reason why the SGC would work and the Icom not but I'd be interested in hearing of other's experiences.

TIA,

Brent,

The output from the AH-4 is made for single wire only. You could use a balum on the output but that would not be a great idea.
The more ground you can put in the better. It depends on what kind of earth you are on also. Sandy earth requires more ground rods. You may also have better luck if you don't make the wire lenght so close to 40 meters 1/2 wave. Make it about 10' longer and let the tuner make it happen for you. Your antenna is what is called an 'L' shapped configuration. If you were to put down about 12 wires on the ground, around the AH-4 about 65' long you will see a great improvement in your signals.

Get a copy of the ARRL Antenna handbook and this will help you to get better results for sure.

Good luck with it and have fun....

I have had the AH-2, a predecessor, for about 5 years. Its been worked hard for most of that time on all bands. It has handled 99 percent of all the many random wire inverted-L and T combinations I have thrown at it from 160m to 10m.

As a precaution there is a 450pF variable capacitor and a 5 uH coil to be connected by alligator clips in series with the antenna wire should the rare need arise.

The relay contacts must have had millions of operations with 100 percent reliability. Transceiver mainly the 100 watt Icom 735.

Nobody mentioned the 1996 movie "Phenomenon" with John Travolta. In it, co-star Forest Whitaker plays a ham who transmits out of band to a military installation after the Travolta character decrypts some super-secret code in his head. Of course, the feds show up the next day and arrest them both. The synopsis for the movie is at:

Posting all along? To whom? Are you slipping back into the phase again where you just casually skip threads, sometimes subconsciously, when you begin to have feelings that you're: overmatched? looking like a fucking moron? getting your ass kicked? showing that you're a total loser again?

Oh. I get it now. I'm beginning to tune into where you're coming from. It took me a while to sift through all the static, and bring my comprehension down to your 6 year old level, but I see it now. You're the kid everyone always knew growing up who would quit playing and leave the field as soon as he began to lose. You wouldn't completely leave, however. You would just drag your sorry assed game over to the next court, where you would pretend to yourself that nothing had happened. You would then start the same cycle over with hopes that someday, when hell finally freezed over, that you would come out victorious. Alas, your dreams of conquest are still unfullfilled, and you now bring the same tired, dull, witless approach to the usenet arena.

That's what you remind me of. Poor Little Johnny Kimball, last picked in kickball.. err.. never picked in kickball because the last team picking would rather play one person short than have you bumbling around, fucking up their game.

I'm sorry for calling you out again, little johnny. If I would have realized what you truly were, I would have let you leave. Please move on now, the kiddie group is a few blocks down.

Thanks John!

I have about 60 ft of wire up 25ft in a L shape fasion. I have a 8' ground rod outside the shack I have a piece of #14 about 65 ft that runs along the house foundation. Also connected to the ground rod is a 10ft piece of #10 going to the shack. I have the tuner inside the house mounted to the wall in the basement. Should I move it out side? I'm not sure if it would work in the winter. It gets pretty cold up here in GreenBay,WI The manula says that it should not be used if it is colder than 15 -F I would have to say it stays -10 - 20 -F During that season. I'll try and take some pictures and post to my web site so you can see how it is set up.

Job Opportunity Electrical or Physics Radio Frequency

POSITION TITLE:
Research & Development - Physicist or Electrical Engineer RF

JOB DESCRIPTION:
Study and design Radio Frequency subsystems for intravasular catheters. Design experiments to test the feasibility of solutions. Construct models to guide design development.

REQUIREMENTS:
BS/MS Electrical Engineering, Physics with Radio Frequency emphasis. 3-7 years experience with RF antenna, transmission line and matching circuitry. MRI, ultrasound, or optical systems experience desireable. Experience should demonstrate a sound grasp of fundamental principles that can be applied to new problems. Experience with MEMS fabrication techniques is also desireable. Should be able to work autonomously within a team evironment.

Stray shunt capacitance at the output of a random wire tuner can lead to excessive losses. These tuners are not designed for low impedance coax loads. Beside you might get a high current point and ruin an already marginal tuner. Its everyone's mission in designing efficient antenna systems to reduce stray C. If you want to play with coax loads get a tuner that will handle those loads. Huge currents can flow. The Icom manual is specific of antenna lengths etc, they say this for a good reason.

If you going to modify this tuner, you might as well just get a high efficiency low loss roller inductor tuner, that will cope with coax.

What pain? Any of the following can be used to make a single-tube transmitter which can be tossed together in an hour or two: 117N7GT, 6AV6, 1614, 3A5, 50L5, 6CX8, 6AG7, 6GW8, 6AQ5.

Make it a 2-tube xmtr and the number of circuits available becomes almost endless.

There is a very active email list devoted to home-building with tubes: "Glowbugs."

How about 'Contact', starring Jodi Foster? IIRC her dad is a ham, and she winds up working as a radio astronomer.

It may not count as ham radio, but in Anaconda, the guy tries to call for help on a CB radio right before he gets eaten by the giant snake. Too bad he wasn't a ham!

I've heard there's a late '30s/early '40s movie titled something like "Here is Your Hobby: Ham Radio" or "This is Your Hobby: Ham Radio" or somesuch. Supposedly it's been on TCM. There's also an Andy Rooney movie where he's a ham (the second Boy's Town movie?), and one of the Nancy Drew movies has Nancy's boy friend hamming it up with a full rack (of radio equipment...) Not to mention that Bonita Granville was a cutie...

Sure do! When I get the right lace figured out 100 percent, I'm going to start learning the LEFT one! These little victories just keep pushing me on to greater and GREATER accomplishments, and if things work according to plan I'll be able to tie my own tie before I'm 94.

Let me guess, it has an annoyingly cheerful announcer, and gives about as much useful detail as 'Contact.'

Oh my. An embarrasingly glaring example of what the psychologists call "transference" or "projection." You recognize your own faults but, unable to admit them to yourself, project them onto other individuals instead.

Roger, you're getting sooooooooooo badly beaten up that it is time to quietly slink away.

[And don't pretend you're not Roger. You've been outed thanks to an

What type of accessory socket do these radios have?

If its a 3.5mm "personal stereo" type, I might be able to help.

And what about making FFT, shifting the result (in frequency domain) and then making IFFT (inverse FFT)? Maybe there are programs that can do it in "real time" mode?

Of course one would still have to use his own ears for judging how much the signal must be shifted in frequency domain.

Not sure if this would count but there's a Hardy Boy's book called the

For the first time in close to 40+ years, there will be a FULL MOON on Haloween night !!!!

I don't know whether to listen to the police scanner, ham radio or shortwave pirate broadcasters?!

Should be QUITE AN EVENING on BOTH the nights of the 30th and 31'st as all the nuts and assorted bolts come out of the woodwork !!!!!!!!!!! (will Art Bell do Ghost 2 Ghost? ain't istened to him in 3 years but mabey I'll make an effort to)

For some fun on ham radio check out the Eastern Patriot Militia net on 3.860 mHz LSB at 8:00 PM Eastern time on Mon Tue Thur & Sat nights. Really spooky paranoid stuff !
Ham op's are a weird bunch already, but this net takes the prize.
Makes the Liberty Net on 3.950 seem like a Democratic Party fundraiser by comparison.

Good Lord son! With that kind of power you'd turn my hearing aides into little atomic bombs in my head. The younger generation has no respect for us senior citizens. Martha's gonna put me in a nursing home because she thinks old timer's disease has come over me. Damn illegals!!! I get so mad at these guys that Martha says I'm gonna have a another stroke. If I weren't so old I'd take you damn illegals out

I thank the Lord Jesus every day that we have people like Aaron,

Looking for an uncomplicated radio for my middle-aged non-tech lady.
Mainly it should be good at bringing in AM in a fringe area with lots of interference. No interest in SW, but FM and NOAA a plus. The smaller the better. Price is OK up to $200.

I'm being steered toward the following (from Universal Radio):

GE 7-2887 Superadio III @ $60 - 12-1/2" x 10-1/2" x 4-1/2" Sangean CC Radio @160 - 11" x 6-1/2" x 4" Grundig eTraveller VII @130 - 2.7" x 4.5" x 1"

I would be grateful for any comments on these or suggestions as to other possibilities.

t's a conspiracy I tell ya!!! THEY put it backwards there for a reason.
Just like they put backwards lyrics on rock and rap music. (note you cant get vynil records anymore and have to use a computer to get these backwards messages! More conspiracy! More ways for them to get money from cheepo-assed hams who go to hamfests wearin 11 year old clothes that smell like cat's urine! Yes yes yes Art Bell should do a show on this. Just remember you have to pay up front to listen to his Realaudio stream now. It's the dammmm fluroide in the water I tell ya! That nut in Virginia who checks into CLN's Motley Krew is right - there's prozac in white flour bread.
My glub don't eat it! Be a good jewish boy and eat only rye with seeds instead.
Hey that's what Al Weiner says, WBCQ is run by space ailens from the planet Sphinkter - Marion's Attic show is actually a front for the CIA I tell ya!
Brother Stair is really a martian who mutiltates and eats cows - just ask Linda Howe!
Tasha ftrom Complexvariable Studios is great - wish she'd play more RAVE Mix however - hey Tasha you readin this??? Rave on honey!! xoxoxox

Happy haloween. Happy pirateradio! Happy election day. Go out and vote for the schmuck of your choosing! That's the last time I eat three tacos with Dave's Insanity hot sauce again!!!! Whew......now I feel better.

1. Increase the length of your wire to about 76 feet. If going inverted L--try to get the vertical portion as high as you can.

2. Put at least one radial about 76 feet plus 10% directly under your elevated wire.

3. Put several other radials at least .2 wavelengths long on either side of the one in #2 above.

4. Seal up the control cable and coax connections on the coupler well--and point them down if you can. Protect it from direct sun and large hail.

The directions for the AH-4 coupler indicate how to attach the coax to the coupler. If you bought yours new, you must install the PL-259 connectors on the supplied coax or coax of your choice. Put your coax through the wx boot first!

DO NOT USE COAX ON THE OUTPUT SIDE OF YOUR COUPLER--REGARDLESS OF WHAT OTHERS MAY HAVE TOLD YOU! The coupler is for end feed and balanced feed only.

You may attach the coupler to a loop antenna by attaching one end of the loop to the output lug side of the coupler and the other end to the ground lug. Depending on where you place the coupler in the loop will determine direction of gain and polarization of your signal, as well as nulls.

You can attach 450 ohm ladder line to the coupler in the same fashion--just split it enough so you can hook one wire to each lug. Hook the other end to a dipole cut for the lowest frequency you intend to operate on. 100 feet of ladder line seems to work well on all bands with a dipole from 88 to 130 feet.

You do not need radials with the loop or ladder line feed.

The coupler is NOT designed for use with a coax fed dipole. Do so at your own risk.

The AH-4 coupler is NOT designed to work on 160 meters. Do so at your own risk!

The AH-4 coupler is NOT designed to work below 7MHz with an 8 foot whip. It will work great on 80 with a Hustler mast and 80 meter coil, or an 80 meter Hamstick type antenna, but not so well on the higher bands with these antennas--replace them with a plain steel whip for 7MHz and up.

You can make extension cables for the AH4 coupler. I have run couplers 200 feet plus distant from my rig. Use good quality coax, such as 9913F and decent size 4 conductor wire for the control cable to combat feed line loss and supply voltage drop.

DO NOT USE COAX ON THE OUTPUT SIDE OF THE COUPLER. Coax should only run between the rig and coupler. YOUR ANTENNA STARTS AT THE COUPLER OUTPUT.

Depending on your junkbox, yes.

However, a lot of people don't have the transformers required to do so, and that was what I was referring to.

Besides, I prefer my tetrodes to have handles, insulators that cause cancer,

Agreed. My statement was to current day parts availability.

I work with tubes a lot... However, I don't have what would be needed for the "smaller stuff".

I need a manual, schematic, any info I can get for the TR-79502M mobile rig, and I prefer not to pay the inflated prices on eBay or from the various manual copiers/vendors. Does anyone have one that they can sell me, or sell me a photocopy? I just need basic operation info (like how to program memories, splits, what some mysteriously marked buttons do. . .), though a schematic would be nice. Let me know what you have. Thanks.

1. Gov't agents were ordered not to investigate, and in some cases release suspected terrorists: http://infowars/transcript_schippers.html (interview broadcast on WWFV on 10 Oct.)

2. Insider trading, or oil deals, or opium deals

Poor angry Woger. I can just picture you red-faced and screaming at your 13" monitor, the spittle flying from your lips and spattering the filth-laden walls in impotent rage, your clenched fist pounding the cheap, flimsy, semen-stained particle board desk your mother bought for you last Christmas. (Did you give the old cunt a fingering this week yet?) I wonder what your friends (if you even have any) and neighbors will think when they see your new group alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman?

Try the http://bama.sbc.edu "boat anchor manual archive" first for a and I'll try to help. Take the nospamplease out of my Email address.

Hmm--you can create a free (login to server) account at www.teranews.com. You have to give them a credit card number to verify you are 18 and an art student and qualified to browse alt.binaries.pictures.erotica.whatever.

I am a mite suspicious of anything that requires a credit card number but which won't be billed especially when the product being offered may be too good to be true.

Also they specifically say you have "anonymous posting" which, I think, means they don't give your NNTP-Posting-Host.

If you don't have high blood pressure use a few extra grains of salt when reading stuff through this server. After all you've seen how many trolls go through the anonymous remailers.

This is an Azden PCS-3000 2m radio that I have laying around and don't need. I used it for packet and don't have the mic anymore.
Even tho I have an MFJ-1270B TNC-2, it doesn't go with the radio.
I just happen to have these two things left over.

Both come with manuals.

Price: $175 obo for both, prepay, COD or PayPal

Which ones did you have in mind? Ones like your Winston Churchill in WW-II, when protecting your homeland he ordered massive bombing of German cities without regard to non-combatant casualties?

Several thousand of our civilians were murdered on a bright morning in September. It was deliberate, not inadvertent.
Now our enemy, hoping our sense of fair play and desire to avoid inadvertent civilian casualties will protect him, raises a hue and cry about a handful of non-combatant casualties.

In a recent essay Charles Krauthammer made the point (paraphrased as best I can remember it) that if we are not prepared to wage total unconditional war in response to a direct attack on our homeland, then we invite continued attacks and a disaster on a scale that we can barely imagine.
If 19 guys can turn 4 commercial airlines into guided missiles, then 19 more guys, each with a suitcase nuke, can destroy America. It is no longer enough for America to "warn" of dire consequences --- we must search them out and make horrific examples of them and the governments who support them.

With all kind wishes,

Hans

I'm talking about the starvation of vast numbers of innocent people this winter.

I would respond that if you do wage total unconditional war leading to the deaths of large numbers of innocent people, you invite terrorism on a scale you haven't seen yet.

And those 19 guys are likely to be relatives of innocent

A NOTE TO THOSE WHO ONLY “READ” AMATEUR RADIO NEWSLINE(tm)

For those of you who only know of the Amateur Radio Newsline (tm) as a text newsletter we would like to invite you to listen to the audio version. This Amateur Radio Newsline (tm) script is actually written for the “spoken word.” It is recorded each by professional broadcasters and is available for private listening or rebroadcast over your repeater. Three methods of delivery are available: Streaming audio using RealAudio, FTP RealAudio or dial-in telephone. Please visit our website at http://www.arnewsline.org for a list of telephone numbers (you have to pay your own long distance charges) and links to audio servers providing our voice newscast (for free). We think you will find the time you spend listening to be a rewarding experience.

HAM RADIO TECHNOLOGY: IRLP REACHES ANTARCTICA

Imagine picking up your H-T, calling your friend and asking him how the weather is. He responds with a crisp clear signal and tells you that its 70 below Zero and snowing. Outside your window the thermometer says its 80 and you plan a day at the beach. Welcome to the world of Internet Repeater Linking as the system expands its global coverage to Antarctica. Nate Dueher, WYZ0X, has more from Denver Colorado:

The Internet Radio Linking Project has come to Antartica. On October 23rd, Chuck N0NHJ, set up the first Internet radio link on the continent. A few days later we caught Chuck and a few other hams on the air to ask him a few questions. Let's listen in...

Terry, N0PQV in Denver, Colorado was the first to say hello:

[recording]

--

I got a chance to ask a question of Chuck that I wanted to know. Chuck, how many hams are on the station and how many are active on IRLP?

[recording]

And yet another question from Ian, M0CJY in Rottherham, Yorkshire, England...

[recording]
--

One of the other questions we had was Justin KC0LBH who wanted to know all about that famous Anartic daylight:

[recording]
--

That's all we have time for today. If you'd like more information on the IRLP project on the World Wide Web, go to www.irlp.net. This is Nate Duehr, WY0X reporting.

Once again, if you are interested in tying your repeater to the Internet Repeater Linking Project go to www.irlp.net on the world wide web. (NY0X, ARNewsline(tm)) {This complete very ecxciting QSO is available in RealAudio at www.arnewsline.org on the FTP transfer page}

RADIOSPORTS: ATLANTA TO HOST NEXT US ARDF CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

The South-East will host the next United States 2002 Amateur Radio Direction Finding competition. Newsline's Joe Moell, K0OV, tells us where and when the event will be held.

The Georgia Orienteering Club has been selected to host the second USA Radio-Orienteering Championships, to take place April 19-21, 2002. The competition will get under way near Atlanta on Friday afternoon with a practice event, followed on Saturday by the main two-meter hunt and on Sunday by the 80-meter hunt.

In addition to the hunts, there will be a cookout on Friday evening, a dinner on Saturday night, and an award ceremony following the 80 meter hunt, all included in the registration fee. Lodging options include cabins in the park and campgrounds with RV hookups. There are also many local motels and bed-and-breakfast inns.

Standard international rules will be used for these foxhunts, which are all on foot in beautiful woods near Callaway Gardens. The Championships are open to anyone, beginner or expert.

Slovakia will host the next World Championships of foxhunting in fall 2002. Positions on USA's team that will travel to these championships will be determined by individual performances in the Atlanta event, as well as in last summer's USA Championships in Albuquerque.

It's not too early to start making plans to attend the second Radio-Orienteering Championships near Atlanta. For more details and registration information, see the official Championships Web site. The exact URL is rather long, but you can get there in just a couple of clicks by going to my foxhunting Web site: www.homingin.com. That's "homingin" -- as one word -- homingin.com. Or you can write to me at my callbook address.

From sunny southern California, where foxhunters are already practicing for the championships, this is Joe Moell K0OV, for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

Again, the web address for more information is www.homingin.com. (ARNewsline(tm), K0OV)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC VS ILLEGAL CB SETS

The FCC has gone after some illegal gear seemingly designed for operation on the Class D 11 meter Citizens Band. This, as it issues a citation to an alleged supplier of the equipment in Oregon. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Norm Steely, KI7UP has the details.

In its September 17th letter to Truck-n-Travel and copied to its owner, Eugene Trucking Haven, FCC Portland Oregon Resident Agent Ben Nugen leaves no doubt as to what is going to happen. Either stop selling non-FCC Certified radio gear or the consequences.

His letter states that last July 23 that agents from the FCC observed uncertified Citizens Band radios displayed and offered for sale inside the Truck-n-Travel located on East Pearl Street in the city of Coberg. The FCC says the radios included four models from Galaxy and one from a company called Delta Force. The Commission says its records show that one of these CB sets have been granted an FCC equipment authorization. It warns Truck-n-Travel that the marketing of these CB radios, or even just advertising them is a violation of Sections 2.803 and 15.101 of the Commission’s rules. It tells Truck-n-Travel that it can fine them up to $10,000 per violation per day and that can go on to a maximum of $82,500.

The letter then gives Truck-n-Travel the same warning that numerous ham radio violators have received over the past several years. It tells the company that, in accordance with Section 503(b)(5) of the Communications Act, it has 14 days from the date it received the citation to submit any statement it has to make concerning the alleged violation. And the FCC adds that the Commission staff will use all relevant material information it has -- including information disclosed in the Truck-n-Travel reply to determine what, if any, enforcement action is required to assure current and future rules compliance.

More on this case as information is made available. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: NY REPEATER UNDER SCRUTINY

The FCC has told a repeater owner to explain the operation of his machine. A repeater that FCC Special Counsel Riley Hollingsworth says is on the air all by itself:

Hollingsworth: “We opened an audit of a repeater opewrating in Elmhurst New York, KB2PRV, after our evidence showed no identification, no appart control operator, and no apparent coordination.”
--

Hollingsworth says that the letter of inquiry went to Ramon D. Florimon who holds the KB2PRV callsign. He was given 30 days from reciept of the October 2nd letter to respond to the FCC. (FCC)

RADIO REGULATIONS: FCC CLARIFIES FUTURE OF CORES

The FCC's Wireless Telecommunications Bureau has clarified several issues regarding Amateur Service implementation of the Commission Registration System--or CORES. The ARRL Letter says that starting December 3, everyone doing business with the FCC--including amateur licensees--must obtain and use a 10-digit FCC Registration Number when filing.

Amateur licensees now registered in the Universal Licensing System or U-L-S already have been cross-registered in CORES and issued a FCC Registration Number by mail. The FCC said it planned another cross-registration by November 28th. Amateurs can check to see if they have an FCC Registration Number via a U-L-S license search. Many Internet call sign servers, including ARRL's, also can provide this information. (ARRL)

RESCUE RADIO: JUNGLE RESCUE ASSIST

Ham radio played a role in reuniting with his family a man who had been hiding in the jungles of Guatemala for over three decades. The C-Q Magazine website reports that 72-year-old Salomon Vides of El Salvador emerged from the Guatemalan jungle recently after hiding there for 32 years from a war that lasted about 100 hours.

In 1969, El Salvador invaded Honduras and Vides, a migrant worker, ran into the jungle to escape retaliatory raids. The Organization of American States quickly brought the war to an end, but Vides says he never got the word. He was discovered in August by Rene Sonabo, a taxi driver and Guatemalan ham radio operator, and Sonabo’s son. After persuading Vides that no one was trying to kill him, Sonabo used his amateur station to relay the news to Vides’s stunned family in El Salvador. He has since been reunited with his brother, but the family had not been able to locate his wife and three children. (CQ)

THE LAW: THE COST OF ATTACHING TO POLES

The United States Supreme Court is examining a complex Internet case that could eventually affect the availability of online services and what most people pay for them. The court is expected to rule by next summer on a fight over the cost of establishing and maintaining some Internet and wireless networks.

Specifically, the fight concerns the rent that cable television companies must pay utilities to attach wires for high-speed Internet service to the utilities' poles, and whether the Federal Communications Commission can control the rate. The justices also will consider whether cellular telephone companies are entitled to pay government-limited rates for attaching their equipment to utility poles.

A federal appeals panel ruled last year that the FCC does not have the authority to regulate pole rental rates for Internet service. The FCC claims Congress intended it to have that power. The Supreme Court will decide. (Published News Reports)

REPEATER OWNERS ATTENTION: RADIO TOWERS FOR SALE

Are you a repeater owner or a club that operates a repeater? Have you ever dreamed of owning your own mountain-top or high rise repeater site? Well if you have, listen up.

In an e-mail to Amateur Radio Newsline, Tom Swierczewski, the Zoning Representative for American Tower Corporation says that the company has several hundred communications towers for sale throughout the United States. According to Swierczewski, sites vary in height from 100 to 400 feet tall and many include large buildings.

If you or anyone you know is interested in this or if you want to receive additional information on specific tower sites, please contact Swierczewski at American Tower Corporation. The information you need to do this is in the printed edition of this weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report. More information is in cyberspace at www.americantower.com.

HAM RADIO BUSINESS: VK MAGAZINE BITES THE DUST

Another failure in the international ham radio marketplace. This, with the announcement that Australia's longest-running electronics magazine has ceased publication.

Victoria’s A-P-C News reports the current issue of Electronics Australia Today will be the last and it’s a decision saddens many V-K amateurs. This is because many generations grew up building equipment from circuits published in the magazine.

Electronics Australia Today traces its history back to Wireless Weekly, which started in 1922. Radio and Hobbies was formed out of Wireless Weekly in 1939. This was renamed Radio Television and Hobbies in the 1950s and Electronics Australia in 1965. (APC News)

HAMVENTION 2002 UPDATE: HAMVENTION TO HONOR THOSE WHO PERISHED ON SEPTEMBER 11, 2001

The Dayton Amateur Radio Association will honor the memory of those killed in the September 11th terrorist attacks and the hams who then volunteered their services to the nation by dedicating the 2002 Hamvention to the theme of Emergency Preparedness. In a letter to potential vendors, the Hamvention Planning Committee said that it was very concerned over the terror attacks and believes that emphasizing the emergency communications aspect of ham radio was a very apropos way to honor those lost in the tragedy.

The letter also contained another rather surprising announcement. The Hamvention planners say that they will limit the number of non-ham radio booths normally purchased by those in the computer industry. In fact, the letter makes it clear that the only computer related vendors permitted to the inside display area will be those whose products directly relate to Amateur Radio.

This will be the 51st annual Hamvention. The venue remains the HARA Arena just North-West of downtown Dayton. The dates are May 17th, 18th and 19th, 2002. More information is on the web at www.hamvention.org (DARA)

OUR HERITAGE: HELP RESTORE THE LST-325 RADIO ROOM

Bob Wilder, AF2HD, is part of the team that's restoring the LST-325 Radio Room and he needs your help. Bob says that most of the radio equipment needed for the restoration of the radio room has been found. Also, they have received a donation from a trucking company in the east who is going to pack and ship the stuff on that side of the country and transport it to Mobile Alabama where the work is taking place.

Unfortunately, some of the gear is on the West Coast. It took $190,000 to perform all the work needed to repair the ships hull, front door and ramp, as well as to sandblast and paint the ship. As a result, cash is short.

Bob says that what's needed now is to receive a donation by some west coast trucker or person who can help getting the equipment out there packed and shipped eastward. At least as far as Dallas where the East coasts trucker can move it to Mobile.

Wilder says that Fred Chapman, W4CHT is coordinating the move. If you can help -- or at least direct the group to a trucking company willing to make such a donation, please contact W4CHT by e-mail to nnn0ppe@infi.net . Bob Wilder can be e-mailed at bwild@earthlink.net (AF2HD)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: HAM RADIO BALLOON LAUNCH DECEMBER 1ST

Arizona Near Space Research says that it will launch a ham radio carrying balloon on December 1st, weather permitting. The group had hoped to launch from a local hamfest but the urban location of the event is in enhanced Class B airspace which is currently off limits. Instead, a monitoring station will be at the hamfest event. Full information on the flight can be found on the Superstition Amateur Radio Club website. It's in cyberspace at www.qsl.net/wb7tjd. HAM RADIO IN SPACE: LOTS OF HAMS TALKING TO THE ISS

And while on the subject of Amateur Radio in space, hams world-wide are excited about being able to talk to the International Space Station fairly often these days. This is because Commander Frank Culbertson tries to get on the air for general Q-S-O's whenever he can. And he recently had one with Berto Willems, ON1CAU, who had his tape recorder rolling. Take a listen.

ON1CAU says that contact took place at about 15:25 UTC during the recent Scouts Jamboree on the Air. And obviously signals were 5 9 full quieting – both ways. (ON1CAU, AMSAT BBS)

SPACE EXPLORATION: 2001 A MARS ODYSSEY - A SUCCESS

NASA's 2001 Mars Odyssey spacecraft was safely inserted into orbit around the red planet on October 25 th. This, slighly over two years after the space agency suffered back-to-back failures by Mars missions.

Odyssey arrived nearly directly on its target - 480 miles above Mars' surface. No orbital insertion or areobraking problems were reported by ground controllers. 2001 - A Mars Odyssey is the space probe that hams had been invited to track when it was launched earlier this year. (NASA)

DX

In D-X, Gary Halstead, K8KFJ in West Virginia reports a top notch trans-Atlantic QSO on 6 meters. On October 23rd at about 13:50 U-T-C Gary contacted CN8LI in gridsquare IM64. The Q-S-O took place on 50.130 MHz with K8KFJ running 100 watts to a M2 loop at only 20 feet. Gary lives in grid EM98 in the Charleston West Va. area. (VHF Reflector)

Also, Reid Hill, KC5YKX of Corpus Christi Texas says by way of the VHF Reflector that he will be doing VHF - UHF Century Club QSL card checking at the South Texas Amateur Radio Club annual Hamfest on November 10th. Reid also says that Mark Mireles, AD5CA will be doing the Worked All States checking at the same event. The Hamfest will be held at Swanter Park in Corpus Christi. Festivities start at 8:00 AM and go to at least after lunch. Contact Reid by e-mail to kc5ykx@swbell.ne if you need card checking but can not attend this event. (VHF Reflector)

THAT FINAL ITEM: NEW LOOK TO THE G4NJH PAGES

And finally, a regular voice heard here on the Amateur Radio Newsline is that of Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, in Nottingham England. And over the past several years Jeramy has become known the world over as the Internet voice of the Radio Society of Great Britain’s’ weekly GB2RS newscast. But you may not know that Jeramy is also a webmaster in his own right. In fact he hosts a very popular U-K cyberspace address. We invited him to tell you a bit about its past and where it is today:

Why do you figure anybody in here would be interested in this? You are really pretty stupid if you have not learned how to killfile after all this time, and that goes for the rest of the halfwits in rec.radio.amateur and alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest that can't do the same.

I have to hand it to Roger as somehow having the magical ability to compel you all to open, read and respond to his posts, and to make you complain bitterly at what you see. Personally, I don't really like Roger anymore than you do, but he is really funny sometimes, and he makes you guys dance like a bunch of little Russian dancing bears, which I find quite amusing. I'll probably draw flames from Roger for saying I don't like him, but, if I find it annoying enough, I'll killfile him until he stops. That's how usenet works. Deal with it and stop acting like a bunch of whineing little girls.

Hi Don,

I could use this amp illegally on CB. Will it "talk over" other people? Will you sell it to me? I have no license. I saw your ad in rec.radio.cb so I assume you don't care if your ham amplifier lands in the hands of an unlicensed CBer like me, right?

I saw nothing to indicate that "Don" did either and AFAIK there is nothing illegal about anybody owning such an amp. Of course the folks at Waco weren't doing anything illegal either.

What the hell does Waco have to do with my criticism of a guy who includes rrcb in his "amplifier for sale" distribution list? I think placing an amp ad in rrcb is inappropriate. So what? Everytime someone criticizes something you do as "inappropriate", do you yell "Waco"?

Your analysis has some merit.

One also can see a similar phenomenon among conservatives now.

All through the Clinton regime, they knew that the media were liars. They knew that the billionaire media elite slanted everything in order to push us toward globalism and away from American sovereignty and freedom. They knew that the billionaire media elite were at the forefront of the culture war to change American society for the worse.

And yet, now that the media liars are waving the flag and beating the war drums (because they procured a wonderful excuse to use American men and money to kill their ethnic enemies), those _same_ conservatives now believe that these _same_ hate-America media whores are telling them the truth. They believe that these _same_ hate-America media whores now "love" the American people.

They do love us, in a way. They love to use us for cannon fodder and milch cows. And they especially love us for our gullibility.

With every good wish,

The proper term is, "I couldn't care less." Not to worry, yours is a common mistake and is often made by the unenlightened. Just ask any third grade teacher.....

Translation: "Dance, comrade Ivan, dance."

"We" translates to a couple or so of retards having a circle-jerk.
They also having fun watching shiny objects and "Teletubbies."

This from a slobbering halfwit that spewed:

And Woger has the gall to castigate others for their "anonymous, cowardly, posts"? C'mon, Woggie...putting a doggie-bag over yer bulbous head isn't fooling anybody.
On the other hand, that bag is an improvement. It helps contain your Stagger Lee is anti-free speech? Oh? How so? Explain, please. Be specific if you can.

How is Stagger Lee anti-American? Explain, please. Be specific if you can.
Stagger seems to be more inclined toward freedom of speech...AND his posts contain none of the tawdry filth that Woger is so adept at. Stagger, unlike you, does not feel that it is necessary to resort to profanity to make a point. Can you do the same or would that tax your obviously limited intellect?

Stagger Lee is ant-free speech because he originally came in here demanding that Steve Geilda, a regular in this group, cancell Roger Wiseman's account on his server because he didn't like waht Roger was saying. That is anti-free speech

> How is Stagger Lee anti-American? Explain, please. Be specific if you

Since free speech is one of the foundations of the American constitution and America it's self, if you are ant-free speech, you are by defintion anti-American.

I will resort to profanity if and when I feel like it. However, anti-free speech anti-Americans like yourselves do not deserve to be treated politely. Now fuck off.

My...how profound! Your insight astounds me. You're not related to Roger, are you?
Us anti-Americans...such as myself, should be taken to task by the likes of yourself. After all, my tour of duty with the 101st was merely a lark.

Hint again, take this off rec.radio.swap, it is not a discussion group, and for the dweeb who thinks tech class hams are nobodies, I will meet him on 1296.010 cw via moonbounce (eme), course he probably doesn't even

I'll up that bid to two dollars. The real problem here is that Stagger seems to posess some sort of inane talent for upsetting Woger and his twinkie minions.
Woger goes to great lengths to denigrate Stagger...in fact Roger posts such filth that it makes one wonder about Roger's sanity.
So...if any one person out here is "owned" by anybody...it most surely is Roger who cannot stop himself from posting and commenting....typical little bitch that he is...
Stagger has some sort of "hold" over Roger that he cannot or will not explain. The Woger Wabbit Scum will continue to carry on and the filth will continue....
One can only sit back and pity Woger....and maybe laugh at him, too.

How is Roger being an asshole like yelling fire in a crowded theater?
The reason you can't yell fire in a crowded theater has to do with the injury it would cause. Roger has not caused any injury. If you were able to use a kill filter or simply ignored his posts he would go away. It's because every time he posts you are magically compelled to read it and respond, that he makes you angry.

don't?

Roger is not the press. He does not need to exercise responsibility.
You are for freedom of speech if you like what somebody has to say. That is not freedom of speech, that is Nazism. You are free to say whatever you like as long as it is favorable to the Third Reich.

If Roger has broken the law, then why don't you take him to court? It's because he hasn't broken any law.

So far as I know every usenet related libel suit has ended in failure for the plaintif. Please post evidence of anybody ever having won a libel suit against anybody on usenet where there wasn't another issue involved such as RL stalking.

Cotse would have remained free except for the fact that hosting it was expensive. It is still very popular, and will be for a long time.

You could not be more wrong. It is your beligerent attitude which would try to rob people of their rights to free speech. You really need to check up on your facts before you open your stupid flapping mouth.

There is a difference between trying to discourage somebody from posting in a newsgroup and trying to stop them with every means possible from exercising their right to free speech. If you can't see the difference here, you are simply a waste of time.

I don't really give a flying fuck whether they take offence. This just goes to show what a skewed view of the world you have. "I don't like what Rev Fredericks is saying so I'm going to read every post he makes and then whine about it" Go tell your mommy the nasty Rev. Fredericks

Dear reader: You have to understand that Mr. Wiseman can only hold one or two phrases in his head at a time. That is why he currently is fixated on using the word "dicksmoker", or as someone else has so correctly pointed out, responding with a so-called "fag lame."

It is also an obsession of his that no one must get the last word. He imagines that some FAQ or other says he loses some contest in which he thinks he's engaged if that should happen. The contest, of course, exists only in what passes for his own mind.

That makes Roger the oddest but yet most entertaining straight man on Usenet. He tap dances and posts fag lames in responses to our prods, never realizing that he is the one being manipulated. He thinks instead that he is the one making masterful and devestating comments, and now I suspect that his associate "Rev Turd Phillips" may be an endless source of similar amusement.

In that case, I welcome him to our whipping post.

As Roger is so fond of saying: Bwa HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!

You keep missing the point: We are amused by Roger. In fact, I am starting to find you to be a similar source of amusement. Why would I killfile either one of you when you both make me feel so very good about my superior intellect?

Angry at Roger? No. Angry at Gielda and Cotse, maybe. People who pretend to have superior ethics should be held to a higher standard. In that respect, Cotse flunked. You, on the other hand, are insignificant,

So now you find him amusing? A few months back you were desperately trying to get him TOSed by his service provider. Doesn't seem your Keep saying it, some gullible idiot somewhere might believe it, but for

Hi,
Hope I post this correctly. Does anyone have any info concerning HF RFI with Ford Power Stroke Diesels. I have a 2000 F-250 with the power stroke. I hear the injectors and the totally wipe out 40 -20 M. When I transmit on 40 -20 M, I get into the computer, sometimes violently. Sometimes it justs changes the throttle position and other times will almost make the truck quit running. The check engine light has came on twice. Any help would be greatly appreciated. Please respond to me if you have encountered this and made any progress. I have also transmitted from my house into a dipole about 20 feet away from the truck and have the same problems. E-mail me at: n5jum@worldnet.att.net
Thanks,

Hey Don, who did you finally sell the amplifier to? Ham or CBer?

No flames, just curious.

I feel your pain. Same vehicle, same engine, same noise problem. I was running an Ameritron ALS-500m to a Hi Sierra. Never got into the computer system, though.

I used 2 runs of 3/8" grounding braid and bolted it to 3 or 4 places along the chassis. The truck ran fine, no flashing lights or engine fluctuations.

The injector noise .. if you ever figure that out, PLEASE let me know.

So are you saying that field days and QRP contests are idiotic?
How about fox/beaver hunts? Those all take quite a bit of skill.
Have you ever participated in any of those "idiotic" contests?

Yes, I'm gonna start a new contest..I'm gonna call it, "Who wants to be my skank?"

Contestants so far:

Skankette #1, Wee Jackass Blowhard...selling his used underwear on e-bay.
Skankette #2, Stagger Lee....has silicone leak from that boob job.
Skankette #3, Joanie Noballs Kimball....known for his wesson oil fetishes Skankette #4, Lardass Lllllloyd Davies...too busy listening to far-right and christian nutcases on the radio, like slurping nutsacks Skankette #5, ?

Prize is that later, I get to sell tham off on e-bay or other venues, cheaply, since they're really not worth much to begin with.

Hello,
Thanks for looking at this I need some help.
I have acquired an Antenna Coupler made by Harris it is model RF-3281. I have been told that it will tune 1.5 - 32 Mhz but I have no manual, specifications or circuit details.
If you have any of the above details I would very much like you to contact me :-
Mailto:G1GYC@QSL.NET

I will pay for any copying and postage.

Or can you tell me :-
1) The operating Voltage of the unit (PSU requirements)
2) The tuning range
3) The minimum wire / whip length that can be used
4) The maximum transmitter power the ATU will handle

Thanks Martin G1GYC

I picked up a box of Ham radio gear at a estate sale (old friend), felt sorry for the widow, you know.

I'm not a Ham but thinking about it some since I was a kid.

Anyway what I got was a AEA CP-1 set up for a Commodore 64 and a Heathkit HD3006 Crossfire Scope.

Now I know technology has advanced and the Commodore has been replaced with PCs..

Do I have anything here worth messing around with if I just want to DX CW and RTTY. I did a Google on the CP-1 and no one has discussed it since 1997. It seems to use it with a PC, I have to do so some wiring tricks with the RS232 cable coming out of the CP-1 and I need some software.

Does anyone have any recommendation on public domain software and the wiring changes for the RS232 cable.

Or should I just salvage the cables and start thinking about Pactor (someday).

Thanks

Steve

Ok, I give up. I've spent a lot of time using both old and new HP SA's and now own a Tek 492 (1,2,3). How do people, using it for real work, get around the frequency display's 1MHz resolution limit?
I'm frustrated because internally it's tuning resolution is pretty high, but that frequency display is driving me nuts.
Am I missing something? Is there a work around - A marker generator, maybe?

Thanks!

I have no idea really, but if it's made to match the Harris amps that they made for commercial/marine use etc, it will probably handle quite a bit. At least 500 watts anyway, maybe more. Does it look big and hefty? Like it came off a ship? They made some pretty good stuff. I know many people that have run the harris amps that they got surplus or whatever. Built like battleships by what I hear although I've never messed with them. If its ex-marine, guesswork about likely ship antennas might give you an idea on what it would do. :/ MK

I, too, am not familiar with that model number although I have used Harris gear on many merchant ships I've served aboard. Those were the RF601A coupler and it's control unit RF601A/C. The control unit ran from 120 VAC and included a p/s of 24-32 VDC which supplied the coupler via a multiconductor cable.
They would tune 2-30 Mc and handled a kilowatt. The control unit was rack mounted with the transmitter.
We used them with large 26 foot fiberglass whips (8 inches at the base, tapering to 2 inches at the tip).
They would probably tune a wet string. The coupler itself was approx. 30 x 18 x 8 inches and weighed about 80 lbs or so.
It was basically a rectangular box with a domed cover. The cover attached with a heavy neoprene gasket between it and the box and the whole thing was charged with nitrogen to keep it dry.
The "guts" included a large roller inductor and a vacuum cap rated about 7 or 8 KV, both motorized.
It would tune that whip to any freq. in about 2 or 3 seconds. This may not have answered your question given the difference in model numbers, but hopefully tells you something about what their gear is capable of.
Toronto Surplus sells these units used for 700 to 1000 dollars. Or check with Harris themselves...

Thanks Ralph, I have the manual and the schematic for the CP-1 and you are correct about the optional RS-232 port on the CP-1. The it takes a couple common chips and the connector to bring the unit up to RS-232 capability. I could easily do that upgrade if I find this old unit worth while at all.

I guess I'm an "ole sucker" for obsolete technology. I hate to throw it away. I'm almost tempted to dig up an old Commadore 64 just so I can play with it. At least I have the software cartriges for that computer. (Just kidding.)

If anyone knows of a DOS or Windows shareware (freeware) that is still available for this equipment I would appreciate it.

The cp-1 was just a demodulator unit. The output was just a simple conversion of the audio tones to whatever the Commodore used or some versions had a rs-232 connector that could be plugged into a computer serial port and would put out a + and - voltage as the tones changed from mark to space. If you have the serial port installed in the cp-1 then you may be in good shape. All you need to do is find some old softwear to use it. It may take a long time to find any as most of it was written for old DOS computers. If the cp-1 does not have the serial interface for the IBM/MSDOS type computers it may be some problem to make it work unless you can find a schematic of the cp-1 and install the parts .

YOu may be beter off going here:

http://www.muenster.de/%7Ewelp/sb.htm and looking at some of the sound card programs. The one called something like mmtty is very good for rtty.

Nothing at all (Why do you think it did?). I was merely pointing out that, while merely owning an amplifier is not illegal, one needn't do anything illegal to be attacked by our government; a warning to unlicensed folks considering buying one.

4222. Reflections due to coax switches

Reflections from impedance mismatches at switches in coax feedlines are often mentioned on these walls and described as something which matters. But nobody ever says how much it matters. Very often it doesn't. Home-brew coax switch makers may be interested in the following.

Inside the switch box, as the inner coaxial conductor continues through the switch wiring it is defficient of capacitance. The inside walls of the box become the outer conductor of a short, much higher impedance line. The missing capacitance is proportional to the length of bare wire inside the switch. In the worst case the missing capacitance is equal to the capacitance of the same length of coax.

Insofar as reflections are concerned the missing capacitance has exactly the same effect as an excess of capacitance of the same value. It is a straightforward matter to calculate the SWR which results from a lump of capacitance across a transmission line. Furthermore we are interested only in small SWRs and the calculation for solid polyethylene coax then simplifies to - where F is MHz and L is length of bare wire through the switch in inches.

At 144 MHz and a bare wire length of 2 inches, SWR is approx 1.23 which might not be considered excessive. Remember it is worst-case. It could be reduced by a small fixed capacitor across the line inside the box. (1.5" length of line ?)

Reflections below 50 MHz due to coaxial switches are entirely negligible in comparison with other causes of SWR > 1:1

A more accurate worst-case formula which applies when bare wire length is less than a very unlikely 1/10th wavelength is -

SWR = (1 + x) / (1 - x)

Where x = F * L / 2500

The formula can be used in other situations (a dummy load resistor ?) where a wire replaces a short length of solid Pe coax of any normal impedance.

Can anyone help....?

I have a PK232 old one with no MBX and a Ft 290..

Now my problem is this..

When I connect the Fl - 2025 amp on the back i cannot connect to any nodes but I can read them fine, It will just not connect.

when just using the Battery pack and the socket on the front I have no problems, it connects first time.

I have tried to calibrate the pk232 with the amp but still no joy.

Is there any thing I should know about the 25 watt amp (does it change the audio ?)

Is there anyone running a FT290 mk 2 with the Clip on Amp on packet ?

I know I don't need to run 25 watts for this but I want to play around with the ISS and Sats.

any ideas ?

Thanks

Thanks Sylvester,

Well, now that you made it clear what it is you are trying to do, things are much easier. That was pretty silly of you to be thrashing about with questions regarding supply voltages when it has so little to do with your ACTUAL application. But we have got you on the right track now! OK. Contrary to what you may think, I do not know everything. No one can know everything. And since I don't consider myself an expert in receiver design I cannot give you a solution off the top of my head. BUT.....I bet there are a lot of folks in here that can help you design a reciever that will monitor 33 channels simultaneously, or at least get you the info you need. For instance many commercial receivers have multiple VFO functions. How about a design based on that idea?

Anyone with ideas that might help get Sylvester's receiver project going, please feel free to join in.

If the mismatch at the coax switch is considered to be due to the inductance of the length of the bare wire passing through the switch we arrive at exactly the same conclusion -

Worst-case SWR = 1 + F * L / 1250

where F is in MHz and

L is length of bare wire through the switch in USA inches.

Which applies to solid Pe coax of any impedance.

Hello,

My girlfriend is headed off to remote parts of Bolivia w/ the Peace Corp and is interested in purchasing a portable shortwave/worldband radio. Since electricity will not be an option she needs a solar powered/ hand cranked type of unit.

I've looked at the Freeplay FPR2 and the KA007 Solar Dynamo because she can only take a total of 80 pounds of gear.

Given your experience, what unit mentioned or unmentioned would you recommend.

Thank You,

Dan

The Freeplay is the original and best, the rest are just imitators, and not very good ones.

I've a J.W. Miller AT2500 Auto-Trak Tuner that is misbehaving.

Though the forward and reverse power indicated on the meter is correct, the SWR meter is dysfunctional. As the auto-tune function is also out to lunch, I assume the problem is likely in the section that determines SWR. Unfortunately, I cannot find my manual or schematic.

Does anyone out there still have a manual and/or schematic for this product?

I prefer to purchase the manual but would be willing to pay reasonable copying costs if you don't want to part with the manual.

Thanks

A scanning CB transceiver would be the obvious solution. I have two in my junk pile. But the current requirements seem a bit high: the 4.8 amp rating for a 4-watt CB? Hmmm... regardless, that's only on transmit. When receiving the radio draws much less current, and I don't think he will be transmitting on 33 radios at the same time.
But ok. Now, the radios draw even -less- current when there is no signal and the radio is sqelched, something on the order of 50 to 300 mA per radio, assuming LED displays. So the minimum draw will be about 10 amps, and if he transmits on one radio that's another 4 - 5 amps.... hmmm... He doesn't really need 160 amps, does he?

The Freeplay unit is the heaviest one. There are other much smaller ones such as the Info-Mate from topixgallery.com for $60 and the Luke from universal-radio.com for $40.

The small ones should do a just as well when using an earphone; it's only their small speakers that are their major drawback. They might not be as sensitive, but that can be made up for w/an external antenna clipped onto the telescopic.

I'd recommend buying the Luke and a $9 wind-up antenna from Radio Shack, and then leave them behind in Bolivia.

If low total-weight and size is a primary objective, for travel consider Sangean ATS606 also sold as Radio Shack DX-399. This will run for about 30 hours on 3 AA batteries, so she would need to take a bunch of those. Depending on how long she's there and how much she listens, that still may weigh less and take less space than one of those wind-up radios? I'm pretty sure it would perform better for SWL, which must be of some importance.

I've got a Freeplay S360, and it seems to have quite a bit of hum on AM when it's unwinding. I'd think, if you can find one, a solar charger for AAs, two sets of NiMH batteries, and a DX-398 wouldn't weigh much more than the SW Freeplay.

Check specialized battery stores for the charger. Most of them have something along those lines, or at least all the parts you'd need to make it.

Don't forget to send along a spool of light-guage wire for an antenna, as well.

Steve,

First, you do not need an amateur radio license to hook anything up to a radio, but you need one to transmit. Go ahead an listen all you want. Second, if you are talking about software to run an old TU, you should think twice about whether you simply want to see the old box run, or whether you want to copy RTTY and/or PSK31, and/or other modes. For the first two, if you have a PC with a sound card, free software is all you need.

Try here for Zakanaka (PSK and RTTY, using the MMTTY engine) and also Logger:

http://www.qsl.net/kc4elo/main.htm

Or here for MMTTY (RTTY) and also MMSSTV:

http://www.qsl.net/mmhamsoft/

Everything you find at these web sites (Logger included) is free, meaning you CANNOT pay any money. Once you have the PC, and tones coming out of a radio speaker, your cost to listen is the cost of a pair of wires from the audio output of your radio to the mic or line input of the sound card.

It seems to me that if you want to use the CP-1 for the sake of nostalgia, you should leave it unmodified and find a Commodore into which to plug it.

Your next step should be to drop by Radio Shack and pick up a copy of "Now You're Talking," and we'll see you on the air soon.

Now that I'm in the market for HF mobile amp I see RF-Electronics is no longer in business. Is there any other companies that sell kit form amps? So far I only found 1 Communication Concepts. Or if anyone has other sites that sell mobile amps that would be great. I have a few so fare SGC, Worth-More, Ameritron,and Henry... Any others would be great!...

The Halloween pumpkin on your front porch has more teeth than your spouse.

You let your twelve-year-old daughter smoke at the dinner table in front of her kids.

You think a woman who is "out of your league" bowls on a different night.

Jack Daniel's makes your list of "Most Admired people."

You wonder how service stations keep their restrooms so clean.

Anyone in your family ever died right after saying, "Hey, watch this"

You think that Dom Perignon is a Mafia leader.

Your Junior/Senior Prom had a Daycare.

You lit a match in the bathroom and your house exploded right off its wheels.

The bluebook value of your wife's car goes up and down, depending on how much gas it has in it.

You have to go outside to get something out of the 'fridge.

One of your kids was born on a pool table.

You think loading the dishwasher means getting your wife drunk.

Your military fight song is "Dueling Banjos."

Your toilet paper has page numbers on it.

You can also add Henry Radio to your list, but I am unsure if they are still manufacturing the

This radio was given to me by a friend who is no longer active in ham radio. When I set the unit to key up repeaters in my area I can see the bounceback on the LCD display, but no audible sound comes in. I set the correct PL according to what the repeater guide advised, but still no sound. When I turn the TONE key off, sound comes back in, but it's only squelch. I have yet to hear a single conversation on this rig. Is there a separate tone squelch on this rig in addition to a voice squelch? I am sure the signal hits the repeaters since as I said the display shows a bounceback but there's no sound otherwise. Any ideas as to what's wrong? Thanks, Kathy.

It's the second (or more) time the little halfwit has accused me of posting annon which I have never done. I probably have him and his little band of trolls killfiled so I haven't even seen many of his posts. I use 3 different newreaders each with it's own separate killfile so I can never remember who is in which one. Maybe I'll fire up slrn and

The TenTec solid state amp is supposed to be good in mobile service. I know several OTR truckers who have them and swear by them. And watch rec.radio.swap for a used Metron. They're supposed to be good also.

I'll wager the ubiquitous AA is available, even in the remote parts of Bolivia.

A solar charger/adapter would be nice, for something like a CD or minidisc too. Don't know how much current a 7600G draws, but a 6V solar panel ought to cover it in the Bolivian sun, I'd have thought..

I installed the Ameritron ALS-500 500 watt solid state amp in my truck a lttle over a week ago - getting absolutely GREAT signal increase reports on all bands I currently use - mostly 40 and 20 meters. I used Hamstick monobanders successfully - tho the coils heated noticeably at the higher power, so I removed the coil wires from a 15 meter stick and installed an AirDux coil about 5 inches long and 2 inches in diameter - I adjust it for the band I want with an alligator clip - works as well as the stock sticks, no heating, and one antenna works from 40 to 15 meters...

Simple pre-selector consists of parallel tuned circuit with random wire antenna and receiver tapped down coil.

Enter diameter and length of coil former (toilet roll tube?), tuning capacitor maximum pF, mid-band frequency, antenna length, receiver input resistance.

Program will tell you wire gauge, number of coil turns and where to tap things into. Also 20 dB bandwidth.

Download in a few seconds from website below.

Dork..there were no "great" political discussions on this board. There was mostly you, arguing, whining and proselytizing about topics YOU wanted to Greetings.. I picked up a Icom W32 that I believe may be a W32E One of the items in the manual under settings that says "USA Version only" is missing, pressing PTT twice sends a 1750 hz tone, and what I consider somewhat annoying is the SQL/Monitor button monitors the INPUT.

Questions: Is this inface a W32E?
Can I change any of the above settings?
Any advantage for a w32e v.s. W32A?
Any DISADVANTAGE for a w32e in the US?
Also a general question, reading the manual and using the radio, it appears I can only have the the alpha reference for the radio and the HCH.01 in large letters configuration? Is there a way to display both the alpha name and frequency, i.e. WB6VHF / 147.000 ?

Many thanks.

Brent, my set up is this, I run and ICOM 706 MKII and feed a Ten Tec Hercules solid state amp (550W). My antenna is a Bandhopper screwdriver. This is installed in an '87 Camry. The amp and 706 are trunk mounted and I have the control heads up front. The TenTec makes a remote control head for the Herc. I also added a second battery also trunk mounted.

Have had great signal reports and its a ball to operate from the car.

Just to be different I collect nothing but QRO mobile HF amps.

To the above you can add:

Metron - No longer made.

Tokyo Hi-Power another 8 device unit but difficult to find a dealer.

Don't touch the Ameritron, it's a pile of junk.

The SGC's a nice unit but runs hot if you're into RF processing. You also have to watch your antenna matching as it will trip out.

Go for the Henry, rated at 750w pep out, probably best of out of the currently available crop.

Nearly forgot the Ten Tec, but somewhat expensive for 500w.

I've melted two BB3 160m Screwdriver coils so if you're going to run power on the low bands run a Bugcatcher or Screwdriver who's factory will guarantee no burn out!

You mean the same newsgroups you plagiarize, Woger? Ooops! I guess you prefer to think of that as "researching", don't you?
And just why is it that Lee especially seems to be your bane of the newsgroups? Why, Woger, does he seem to trip your dinky trigger moreso than the others? Could the others be right? Could it be that Stagger does, indeed, own you? He seems to be antagonizing you much as a cat would with a helpless little mouse. He seems to be able to batter you to and fro at will and patiently await your frenzied (and plagiarized) responses.

OK...your turn, "Hysterian". Roll your beady little crossed eyes back in

I am wondering if Mr. Hollingsworth is paying more attention to some of our maritime and traffic nets since Sept 11th?

Am I the only one who sees a connection? I mean I think that some of these terrorists could have valid ham tickets and use these nets to pass traffic related to thier acts of terror. Should we exmaine the ranks of the nets and see who is middle-eastern and be on the look-out? I think its time we did.

I read on KV4FZ's website that Intercon was connected with Jim Jones and his ill-fated commune. I wondering if there are muslims with ham tickets in the net? I did not say that net supports terrorists. I am asking a question. I question the daily operations of this net, and am a hard critic ever since Herb lost his ticket.

4304. Guide to the rec.radio Newsgroups

Archive-name: radio/personal-intro

This message describes the rec.radio.amateur.*, rec.radio.cb, rec.radio.info, and rec.radio.swap newsgroups, as well as their Internet mailing list counterparts and complements. It is intended to serve as a guide for the new reader on what to find where. Questions and comments may be directed to Jeffrey Herman, KH6O, jeffreyh@hawaii.edu, or Paul Schleck, K3FU, pschleck@novia.net.

This message was last changed on 14 March, 1998.

History

Way back when, before there was a Usenet, the Internet hosted a mailing list for hams, called (appropriately enough) INFO-HAMS. Ham radio discussions were held on the mailing list, and sent to the mailboxes of those who had signed up for it. When the Usenet software was created, and net news as we now know it was developed, a newsgroup was created for hams: net.ham-radio. The mailing list and the newsgroup were gatewayed together, eventually.

Over the years, as the net grew, the volume of discussion became progressively higher. First one by one, and then as part of two reorganizations, what was once one group became many. In the process, developments elsewhere on the net were reflected in the groups as they were created, most notably the change to place all of the ham radio groups in one hierarchy.

The collection of newsgroups continues to grow as more people join the net, and as more topics of discussion gain volume, I expect to see more groups be created as well. This follows what is happening on the rest of the net.

Nearly all of the radio newsgroups have corresponding mailing lists, the notable exception being rec.radio.swap. There are also a few mailing lists that don't have newsgroups.

The Current Groups

It's important to post messages to the group that's appropriate for them, and not to the groups that aren't. The whole idea of having different newsgroups is so that folks who aren't interested in, say, homebrewing, don't have to wade through messages about homebrewing on the way to read about Field Day. Posting appropriately is just good etiquette.

The rec.radio.amateur.misc group is the catchall. It is what rec.ham-radio was renamed to during the first major reorganization. Any amateur radio-related message that's not more appropriate in one of the other groups belongs here, from contesting to DX to ragchewing on VHF to information on becoming a ham.

The group rec.radio.amateur.digital.misc is for discussions related to (surprise!) digital amateur radio. This doesn't have to be the common two-meter AX.25 variety of packet radio, either; some of the most knowledgeable folks in radio digital communications can be found here, and anything in the general area is welcome. The name was changed to emphasize this, and to encourage discussion not only of other text-based digital modes, such as AMTOR, RTTY, and Clover, but things like digital voice and video as well. The former group, rec.radio.amateur.packet, was removed on September 21st, 1993. It is obsolete, and you should use .digital.misc instead (or the appropriate new mailing list, mentioned below). The group has .misc as part of the name to allow further specialization if the users wish it, such as .digital.tcp-ip.

The swap group is rec.radio.swap. This recognizes a fact that became evident shortly after the original group was formed: Hams don't just swap ham radio gear, and other folks besides hams swap ham equipment. If you have radio equipment, or test gear, or computer stuff that hams would be interested in, here's the place. Equipment wanted postings belong here too. Discussions about the equipment generally don't; if you wish to discuss a particular posting with the buyer, email is a much better way to do it, and the other groups, especially .equipment and .homebrew, are the place for public discussions. There is now a regular posting with information on how to go about buying and selling items in rec.radio.swap; please refer to it before you post there. To answer a frequently asked question: No, there is no mailing list that goes along with this group. If you can't read Usenet news directly, you're out of luck.

The group rec.radio.amateur.policy was created as a place for all the discussions that seem to drag on interminably about the many rules, regulations, legalities, and policies that surround amateur radio, both existing and proposed. Recent changes to the Amateur Radio Rules (FCC Part 97) have finally laid to rest the Great Usenet Pizza Autopatch Debate - it's now legal to order a pizza on the autopatch, if you're not in the pizza business - as well as complaints about now-preempted local scanner laws hostile to amateurs, but plenty of discussion about what a bunch of rotten no-goodniks the local frequency coordinating body is, as well as the neverending no-code debate, may still be found here.

The group rec.radio.cb is the place for all discussion about the Citizens' Band radio service. Such discussions have been very inflammatory in rec.ham-radio in the past; please do not cross-post to both rec.radio.cb and rec.radio.amateur.* unless the topic is genuinely of interest to both hams and CBers - and very few topics are.

The rec.radio.info group is just what its name implies: it's the place where informational messages from across rec.radio.* may be found, regardless of where else they're posted. As of this writing, information posted to the group includes Cary Oler's daily solar progagation bulletins, ARRL bulletins, the Frequently Asked Questions files for the various groups, and radio modification instructions. This group is moderated, so you cannot post to it directly; if you try, even if your message is crossposted to one of the other groups, your message will be mailed to the moderator, who is currently David Dodell, WB7TPY. The email address for submissions to the group is rec.radio.info-moderator@primenet.com. Inquires and other adminis- trivia should be directed to rec.radio.info-request@primenet.com. For more information about rec.radio.info, consult the introduction and posting guidelines that are regularly posted to that newsgroup.

The groups r.r.amateur.antenna, .boatanchors, .dx, .equipment, .homebrew, and .space are for more specialized areas of ham radio: discussions about antennas, the older tube based amateur, military, and commercial gear, commercially-made equipment, homebrewing, and amateur radio space operations. The .equipment group is NOT the place for buying or selling equipment; that's what rec.radio.swap is for. Similarly, the .space group is specifically about amateur radio in space, such as the OSCAR program and SAREX, the Shuttle Amateur Radio EXperiment; other groups cover other aspects of satellites and space. Homebrewing isn't about making your own alcoholic beverages at home (that's rec.crafts.brewing), but rather construction of radio and electronic equipment by the amateur experimenter. The .dx group is devoted to long distance amateur communications. Each of these subgroups has its own charter and FAQ; please refer to the archives to find these documents.

Except for rec.radio.swap and rec.radio.cb, all of these newsgroups are available by Internet electronic mail in digest format; send a mail message containing "help" on a line by itself to listserv@ucsd.edu for instructions on how to use the mail server.

All of the groups can be posted to by electronic mail, though, by using a gateway at the University of Texas at Austin. To post a message this way, change the name of the group you wish to post to by replacing all of the '.'s with '-'s - for example, rec.radio.swap becomes rec-radio-swap - and send to that name@cs.utexas.edu (rec-radio-swap@cs.utexas.edu, for example). You may crosspost by including multiple addresses as Cc: entries (but see below). This gateway's continued availability is at the pleasure of the admins at UT-Austin, and is subject to going away at any time - and especially if forgeries and other net.abuses become a problem. You have been warned.

Mailing Lists

In addition to the mailing lists that mirror the Usenet newsgroups, there also are a few that stand alone. These cover specific areas of ham radio, and discussion is focused on just those areas. PLEASE BE SURE TO SAVE THE WELCOME MESSAGE YOU RECEIVE AFTER SUBSCRIBING -- IT WILL CONTAIN IMPORTANT INFO REGARDING UNSUBSCRIBING!

The cq-contest mailing list is for discussions of contesting in ham radio. To join, send an email to cq-contesting-request@contesting.com.

The DX mailing list covers the finer points of DXing. This one is also joined by mailing "subscribe" on a line by itself, this time to dx-request@unbc.edu.

There's also a VHF mailing list, for VHF operators of the weak signal persuasion. You can join this one be sending "subscribe vhf" on a line by itself to vhf-request@w6yx.stanford.edu.

The QRP-L list is devoted to building and operating gear at low-power outputs. To subscribe, send an email to listproc@lehigh.edu and only write: subscribe qrp-l Your Name.

The TopBand e-list is devoted to all areas of operation on 160m. To subscribe, send an email to majordomo@contesting.com and only write: subscribe topband and follow the instructions you'll be sent. This site, contesting.com, also hosts a couple dozen other ham-related e-lists. Use the above address, and only write: lists to get the entire index.

The Boatanchors e-list is devoted to the older tube-based ham, military, and commercial communications gear. To subscribe, send an email to: listserv@listserv.tempe.gov and only write: subscribe boatanchors

For homebuilding transmitters and receivers using tube technology, there is the Glowbugs e-list; send an email to: majordomo@piobaire.mines.uidaho.edu and only write: subscribe glowbugs <your@address.here>

The VHF DX discussion list can be accessed by sending an email to: majordomo@blacksheep.org and only writing: subscribe VHF-DX-discuss.

We now have a list devoted to amateur radio history. To subscribe, send an email to: ham-radio-history-subscribe@egroups.com - leave the body of the message blank.

Qth.net hosts over 100 ham-related e-lists, including lists devoted to each state, manufacturer, mode, band - too many to state here. Send an email to majordomo@qth.net and only write: lists to get the complete index.

For one of the most complete indexes of email lists, see the excellent web site http://pw2.netcom.com/~ac6v/pageae.html

Please do NOT send subscription requests to the mailing lists themselves; that doesn't work very often, and is very annoying to those on the list. Also, please keep your electronic mail address current with any mailing lists you subscribe to, as dealing with returned email is a nuisance for the person maintaining the mailing list.

A Few Words on Crossposting

Please do not crosspost messages to two or more groups unless there is genuine interest in both groups in the topic being discussed, and when you do, please include a header line of the form "Followup-To: group.name" in your article's headers (before the first blank line). This will cause followups to your article to go to the group listed in the Followup-To: line. If you wish to have replies to go to you by email, rather than be posted, use the word "poster" instead of the name of a group. Such a line appears in the headers of this article.

One of the few examples of productive cross-posting is with the rec.radio.info newsgroup. To provide a filtered presentation of information articles, while still maintaining visibility in their home newsgroups, the moderator strongly encourages cross-posting. All information articles should be submitted to the rec.radio.info moderator so that he may simultaneously cross-post your information to the appropriate newsgroups. Most newsreaders will only present the article once, and network bandwidth is conserved since only one article is propagated. If you make regular informational postings, and have made arrangements with the moderator to post directly to the group, please cross-post as appropriate.

Are any agencies still down there (30-50 MHz)? That band used to be popular with highway patrols due to the longer distances achievable down there without having to use a repeater.

You may well be right, but given the apparent proportion of whackos on shortwave it may be nigh on impossible to sort out the ones of interest. Then again, wouldn't it be a bit like using a licensed gun to commit your crime? Why would they bother to have a license?

Dan, go with the BayGen Freeplay model.
The latest versions, meaning ones that are new in the box on retail sale right now, have an improved mechanical spring which powers the generator. Older BayGens had problems with metal fatigue of the spring which is difficult to get outside of South Africa, and expensive to replace.
Get the Baygen. STAY AWAY from the China-made copies!! They are absolute 100% JUNK - period.
Sony made a wind up model but I havent had one to review yet. Stay with the BayGen products and your soon to be (?) XYL will have many hours of troublefree operation.

I say we give each and every Luke wind-up to the Taliban.

It has to be the absolute worst piece of junk I've seen come out of the China "we-copy-a-radio-for-cheap" factory to date.

Better idea is to strap all the Luke Shortwaves onto the pallets they drop the Daisy Cutter bombs off/out of a C-130, so when it explodes the flying bits of Luke Shortwaves will act as shrapnel.

Funny thought: "Osama Bin Laden killed via bits of propelled Luke Shortwave shrapnel bits from a future Daisy-Cutter offloading mission...."

I would tend to believe this if the recent raids would have produced ham radio equipment. I don't know if they have or not. Your idea is nothing more than speculation at this point.

They promise a response in 1 business day. IT HAS BEEN TWO WEEKS AND 4 EMAILS, and they NEVER even gave the courtesy of an akcknowledgement, much less a reply.
DO NOT and I REPEAT DO NOT buy Cushcraft if you expect ANY support.

Not only that but the older verticals (by old I mean less than 5 years) well they do not even have parts available for them any more!

I have the latest Icom 706 and I really love it. It is in my car wired directly to the batttery, when I turn my car off the radio stays on and when I start my car with the 706 on it turns off and on by itself. I cant imagine this is good for the radio...but I dont understand why it shuts off, I have talked to other 706 owners and their radios dont turn off..I have a 96 explorer if that makes a difference. It seems to me the radio is senseing a drop in voltage. Any help would be mucho appreciated. Art N1VGT

I can't help but believe the use of unencrypted radio communications would be about the bottom of the list of choices for this. Using a hidden spred-spectrum might make more sense, except that if it IS detected, you know who will be really watching - and not running in to make a bust over an unlicensed radio. Consider the drug problem in this country. Sure, many get busted - but can you honestly believe that anyone gets busted the FIRST time they ever buy or sell drugs? I remember about 9 years ago a kid (oh, maybe about 20 years old) got busted selling 10 pounds of marijuana to an undercover cop in HIS EMPLOYERS parking lot! Oh gee, Your Honor, I've never done this before. Sure. The terrorists strike but once. If it is a suicide mission, you'll never get them. If it isn't, they disappear back to some foreign country. One possibility is the use of a pager. A lot of people have them. Certain calling numbers (rather, the numeric message sent to the pager) could be looked up against a key. One finishes his aircraft training and dials a pager and enters a telephone number. This number may actually mean 'I finished my training'. Someone calls his pager and the number means 'acknowleged'. Once something starts, the key is destroyed and off they go. This may not be what has happened, but it makes much more sense than using a radio that anyone can listen to.

It would be easier to make short, encrypted transmissions from unlicensed stations. Why bother to get a license when you don't need one? You're a terrorist after all, with no compunction to follow the rules.

And Widdle Woger responds thusly.....
My little hot dog is familiar, fleshy, and phallic, and I don't doubt that malicious boys spread rumors about me using a hot dog as a masturbation aide. But if hot-dog-as-a-masturbation-aide is so obvious that malicious news groupers make up stories, doesn't it seem likely that some boys and girls who are curious about penetration might actually use hot dogs as masturbation aides?
I mean, I shudder when I think back on some of the stuff I put in my butt when I was young and curious about penetration. I'm not going to go into details, but I will say this: Just because the toothbrush-in-my-butt story is an urban legend doesn't mean that no one has ever stuck a toothbrush in his butt. Are you with me? I've had lots of items stuck in my butt over the years.

Moving right along, the Roger Wiseman Council Of Masturbation Experts convened this week to select the winners of Savage Love's contest-a process that turned out to be more complicated than scheduling the Emmys. You see, there are actually two Grand Councils Of Masturbation Experts. The East Coast Grand Council is composed of Stagger Lee and Arf! Arf!, co-owners of Toys In Babeland, a sex-toy shop in New York City (and West Virginia). The West Coast Grand Council is composed of the staff of Good Vibrations, a sex-toy shop in San Francisco. In a stunning development, the competing Grand Councils couldn't agree on a single winner in either of the two categories, so four prizes will be awarded today.
The lucky winners will receive a life-sized photo of Roger Wiseman in the buff and a jar of Mylanta to "take the edge off".
So says Woger.....

4331. ACARS Log Analyser for Windows - advanced notification of price increase

Hi all,

This email is to advise all users of an imminent price increase for ACARS Log Analyser for Windows.

We have maintained the low price of ï¿½17.50 for a number of months now, but due to the time required to maintain and improve the program, it is necessary to revert to the original price of ï¿½29.99.

The current offer price of ï¿½17.50 will expire after the 21st November, 2001, so if you register at this price, please do so before the 21st.

The price increase will allow us to continue development of the program and continue to add the numerous user requests that we have received.

Current planned features are:

* DDE support from all existing decoders
* WACARS support
* Route plotting

Thanks to everyone who has so far registered and rest assured that your support will ensure the continued development of the program.

Thanks,

Mark Avey

The opinion of Lloyd Davies seems to be that muslims shouldn't have ham tickets.

He writes:

> I wondering if there are muslims with ham tickets ..... clip .....

My guess is that there are thousands of muslims with ham tickets, just as there are thousands of aetheists, jews, christians, shintoists, bhudists, and any other religion you care to name who have ham tickets.

Have you tried a LC circuit in line with the voltage line to the fuel pump?
I don't know if they still have it or not, but check radio shack for what they call a line filter. Get the biggest one you can. Handles the current.

Ole and Sven were fishing one day when Sven pulled out a cigar. Finding he had no matches, he asked Ole for a light. "Ya, shure, I tink I haff a lighter," he replied. Then reaching into his tackle box, he pulled out a BIC lighter 10 inches long. "Yiminy Cricket!" exclaimed Sven, taking the huge BIC lighter in his hands. "Vhere did yew get dat monster??" "Vell," replied Ole, "I got it from my Genie." "You haff a genie in yor tackle box?" Sven asked. "Ya, shure, right here in my tackle box," says Ole. "Could I see him?" So Ole opens his tackle box and sure enough, out pops the genie. Addressing the genie, Sven says, "Hey dere! I'm a good friend of your master. Vill you grant me vun vish?" "Yes I will", says the genie. So Sven asks the genie for a million bucks. The genie disappears back into the tackle box leaving Sven sitting there, waiting for his million bucks. Shortly, the sky darkens and is filled with the sound of a million ducks, flying o! verhead. Over the roar of the million ducks Sven yells at Ole, "I asked for a million BUCKS, not a million Ducks!" Ole answers, "Ya, forgot to tell yew, da genie is hard of hearing. Do yew really tink I asked for a 10-inch Bic?"

If you are interested in learning how a well-run emergency net operates, or in sharing a demonstration of how public service ops are conducted with a non-ham, I invite you to listen to Oakland County, Michigan ARPSC's recent Simulated Emergency Test at http://www.live365.com/stations/245298

The test had several simultaneous disaster scenarios, including winter weather, a plane crash, traffic accidents, and a hostage situation. The Hams involved were very professional, and the test went as smoothly as one could hope.

For more information on Amateur Radio, including links to study materials, exam information, and links to Michigan clubs and service organizations, check out Geesh! This from a 46 year old man who still lives at his mommy's house. The old Oedipus Complex is alive and well in the Wiseman household.

Time for bed, Wog. Mommy is calling.

New program TWOCOILS.exe

Design two single-layer solenoid coils, magnetically coupled, and position them for a required coupling coefficient and mutual inductance. Coil inductances and values of associated tuning capacitors are calculated. Program is applicable to PA tank circuits, interstage couplings, unbalanced-to-balanced impedance-matching networks, antenna tuners, etc.

Can be used for quick design of individual solenoids. Enter dimensions in mm. Results shown in inches and AWG

To complete the picture the guts of this program need to be built into particular application programs. I'm thinking about it.

Download TWOCOILS, one file, 38 kbytes, in a few seconds from website below.

Hi Guys,

I normally wouldn't bother this newsgroup, But I figure, what's to lose?

I am looking for someone, Well, Really it's for a good freind of mine.

I am looking for a man named Kenneth Leroy Stone. He's the brother of a Raymond Stone, He's originally from Michigan. Last seen in Florida, by Raymond's Girlfreind. This was back in like in the 1980's, he and another freind said they were going to California. Does anyone, and I mean anyone, know of Kenneth Leroy Stone's whereabouts?

If anyone and I mean ANYONE knows of a Kenneth Leroy Stone. Living in California, and if he's ever mentioned living in Detroit and in Fl... PLEASE E-MAIL ME and I will provide a phone number for him to call! His Brother's Girlfreind REALLY needs to talk to him, some very important family matters have came up and he needs to know about them!

73 and thanks for reading....

Cushcrap (oops) Cushcraft can be reached by telelephone. It's not the same company it once was.

They are non-simpathetic to there customers...They want to sell and not be reponsible for the any of the design flaws or faulty materials.

A typical example is the plastic that they use to cover the traps on their antennas. The stuff turns to brittle junk after a few years in the environment. They are willing to sell you new hardware without taking the blame for the quality of the stuff. It's interest to talk with other Cushcraft users and find that they are discovering the same flaws and it's not fun taking antennas down for repairs that should not have to be done.

Mosely...Claims that their "boots" will last more than 11 years under severe conditions.

Cushcraft will officers and CEO will not respond to any letters or any FAX. Made in the USA use to mean something...But not to Cushcraft.

Companies like Hustler, Larsen, Mosely, M2, Hygain, Butternut....They care.

Get rid of the R7000...It nothing but a dummy load with built-in attenuators. Get a Butternut or Hustler.

Jay

Projercting your own perversions, after you cuntlapped your daughters you cuntlapped your family pets? Maybe you can get that effeminate voice into a higher pitch and scream into the mike like you do on CB. Maybe you'll quit pimping your daughters and quit pretending you have a heart condition.

4370. need amp info

Just bought two used amps at a Hamfest- a Alinco ELH-230g and a Mirage B23a. Can't seem to find much info on them anywhere. Anyone happen to know anything about them? I'm interested in output, preamp, sensitivity, and so on. Especially interested to know which one you would choose if the other were to go to your buddy to get him mobile. We're going to be using HT's via these amps, to get mobile, if that makes a difference.

Yes I know mobile units function better than this setup- but I'm not going to buy a mobile unit just yet. For the time being, the idea of having a chassis mount BNC connector mounted in my center console with a 2' pigtail to go to my HT <which will sit in my center console cupholder>, going to a speaker mic and a 5/8 wave permanent-mount antenna on the roof really appeals to me.

Also- will these amps work on 70cm?

Thanks in advance!

Sadly I have to agree here.I wish a good Ham Lawyer would kick their butt. I wish all dealers would quit carrying the crap.
I am certainly going to complain to my local dealer Radio City and wish all did. .

By the way, I tried to contact by telephone, they screen all calls and you do not get through.

No, dumbfuck, it's placement of a comma where there previously was not one, from a slobbering pompous ass. Maybe if you'd have completed that freshman year of college instead of being a fucking drop-out, you'd have known that.
You must have one of those sperm-encrusted keyboards that have defective comma keys, pedo.

You have to be able to read and write first, Don. Maybe your parole officer can get you into that adult education programs for the mentally handicapped that you so richly need. With all the spirit of giving since Sept. 11, hell, you might get a "Don Zimmer brain transplant fund" telethon to help you along.

Hal probably is asking for the money so he can go on vacation to the bahamas... he'll leave and people like Lloyd will become distraught... they'll mortgage their homes to send him money... they'll cry... they'll go to therapy... they'll tune to his radio show and listen to the static for hours... then when Hal returns in a month they'll give him a hero's welcome. Commas most commonly separate clauses (I know: You think that a "clause" is Santa's last name), and are only required for independent clauses (I know: You think that an independent clause is Mrs. Santa after a divorce). They are optional elsewhere.

The word "somehow" does not constitute a clause, and setting it off (which makes no sense) is therefore optional.

You better go back and read a grade school English book before attempting to correct anyone else. Your punctuation skills -- like most of your others -- are pathetic.

The Armenian judges gave this a 9.8 on the Olympic Troll-O-Meter, but they were over-ruled by the umpires in instant replay, who award it a 1.4.

The Armenian judges lodged a formal protest!

It was sufficiently trollish, of course, but way too obvious. It was poorly written, poorly executed, and was so incredibly lame as to lack the true drawing power of a really masterful troll. Maybe as high as a 1.6 for the intense stupidity of the premise, but a 9.8? Never! The Armenian judges tear their hair out, throw their balalaikas down in dismay, and perform the traditional Armenian Dismay Chant! They demand a recount!

The 492 is great at what it does, but its internal tuning resolution is not absolute. In other words, the phase-lock mechanism doesn't need to know the exact 1st LO frequency to do its job -- only the 2nd LO frequency is known internally to any degree of precision. If the CPU knew for certain what comb harmonic the 1st LO is locked to, then it would probably be possible to get some better numbers... but AFAIK it doesn't.

The 494 and 495 added a built-in frequency counter module to display the exact center frequency. Even so, the useful accuracy is limited to within a couple dozen Hz. It's just not a fully-synthesized instrument, and there's no getting around that.

If you have a signal generator on hand, you can use it as a marker generator, in conjunction with a frequency counter if necessary. An HP8656A is a good companion to the 492; I've seen them selling for a few hundred bucks on the 'bay.

The other workaround is to add a tracking generator and monitor its output with a cheap handheld counter. I homebrewed a TR503 clone (see my site link below) from cannibalized sweep-generator parts. I always meant to add a counter and center-frequency latch circuit to it, but as it turned out, I upgraded to a 494P before I got around to that project.

I don't know... I think that people like Hal Turner do a great service to the thinking people of society... they show, in the most favorable light, the inanity and callousness of the supremacist mindset. It's rather like watching All in the Family, and seeing just how stupid Archie Bunker REALLY sounds when he runs his mouth about how superior he is....

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1265 with a release date of Friday, November 9th, 2001 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

Ham radio leads the way at the New York City Marathon. This story is first on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1265 coming your way right now.

HAM RADIO AND SPORTS: - THE NEW YORK CITY MARATHON

Ham radio was once again at the start and finish -- and all along the route of this years 32nd running of the New York City Marathon. This years event was held Sunday November 4th and was dedicated to victims of September 11th terrorist attacks. Its theme -- “United We Run.”

The starting line was at the Staten Island Side of the Verrazano Narrows Bridge. According to Stew Seit, WA2JNF, who was assigned there, it was a moment of total patriotism:

WA2JNF: “On the bridge waiting for the cannon to go off, everyone began singing patriotic songs. It would brng a tear to your eye. There were 30,000 people singing. It was something to be seen.”
--

But Seit and almost 500 other hams were there to provide communications for the event. And according to WA2JNF, even though there were lots of cellular phones, it was ham radio that was the communications backbone once again:

WA2JNF: “Everyone was running around with digital radios, Nextel’s, cellular phones. But when the need came to get the message through they turned to us hams. Regardless of how many cell-phones or trunked radios they have tied around their necks, when the message was of priority nature, and they wanted to make sure it got through, they spoke to one of the hams who was handling the communications and we got the message through”
--

The crowd lining the route was estimated at more than two million. Many were waving small American flags in memory of the thousands killed in the terrorist attacks.

ARRL Hudson Division Vice Director Steve Mendelsohn, W2ML, heads up the the ham radio communications for the Marathon. In fact, he has been organizing the ham radio effort ever since Amateur Radio became a part of the event many years ago. He says that for him, for the group of Amateur Radio volunteer communicators and for the people of the Big Apple, this years New York City Marathon was like none ever before:

W2ML: "It was truly a celebration of life. It was a way of saying to the terrorists: 'look -- we are going on with our lives. You didn't stop us. On the contrary, you united us.' "

Tesfaye Jifar of Ethiopia set a record in winning the mens catagory. He ran the 26.2 mile course in 2 hours, 7 minutes, 43 seconds. The old record of 2 hours, 8 minutes and 1 second was set in 1989. And as Jifar broke the record it was a corps of ham radio operators that guided him -- and the 30,000 other competitors in the New York City Marathon -- to a safe completion of this years run.

RADIO AND SPORTS: THE SANTA CLARITA MARATHON

Sunday November 4th also saw another Marathon where ham radio played an important role. This one took place in Amateur Radio Newslines's own back yard. It was the Santa Clarita 5 K Marathon and featured ham radio as it primary communications. Take a listen:

Audio Here
--

About three dozen hams from the Los Angeles County Disaster Communications Service and the Santa Clarita Valley Amateur Radio Club provided this years communications support. Most of it was on two meter F-M using the 146.79 MHz W6JW club repeater.

--

The Santa Clarita Marathon may take place in a Los Angeles suburb, but it is by no means a small event. Several thousand runners take part and its course is USA Track and Field certified. In fact, this event is a qualifying race for the famed Boston Marathon.

More information on the event is at www.scmarathon.org. The Santa Clarita Amateur Radio club's home in cyberspace is www.w6jw.org. (ARNewsline(tm))

TECHNOLOGY AND RADIO RULES: FCC PUTS KENWOOD "SKY COMMAND" PETITION ON PUBLIC NOTICE

Turning to regulatory matters, the FCC has put a rulemaking petition from Kenwood Communications Corporation requesting that the government relax restrictions on Amateur Radio auxiliary station operation on public notice. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Bruce Tennant K6PZW has the details:

The FCC assigned the rulemaking number RM-10313 to the petition in which Kenwood asks the government to permit hams to use control methods like its own Sky Command radio remote system.

According to the ARRL Letter, Kenwood’s Sky Command lets a user control a fixed location High Frequency station using a pair of dual-band VHf/UHF transceivers on frequencies in the 70-cm and 2 meter bands. Kenwood wants a change in Part 97 rules that would expand permission to operate an auxiliary station on all 2-meter frequencies above 144.5 Mhz, except on 145.8 to 146.0 MHz.

And while not mentioning Sky Command by name, Kenwood says that the proposed rule change would allow the development and use by amateurs of new technology devices and increase the utility of the limited amateur allocations. Current FCC rules limit auxiliary operation to certain frequencies above 222.15 MHz.

In July 2000, the FCC declared that use of the Sky Command did not comply with Amateur Service rules--specifically Section 97.201(b). It also declined to grant a waiver make it legal. The ARRL commented in opposition to Kenwood's earlier efforts to have the system eclared to be in compliance, and it refused to permit Sky Command advertisements to be published in its QST magazine.

In its Petition for Rule Making, Kenwood asserts that auxiliary operation is poorly defined and significantly overregulated in the FCC rules. Kenwood also argues that present limitations on auxiliary operation no longer are appropriate in today's amateur environment and should be withdrawn.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Bruce Tennant, K6PZW.

Again, the Commission has assigned the rulemaking number RM-10313 to the petition from Kenwood. Those interested may view and comment on it via the FCC's Electronic Comment Filing System. (ARRL)

TECHNOLOGY AND RADIO RULES: DIGITAL WIRELINE REMOTE BASE OPERATION BEING TRIED IN THE UK

A British ham radio operator has been granted permission to experiment with a digital wireline multi-band remote-base system. The experimental station was made possible by combining a popular H-F transceiver, the support of the national ham radio society and a cooperative government regulatory agency. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, reports from Nottingham in the U-K:

Dave Gould, G3UEG, has received a Notice of Variation as a Special Research Permit to set up an HF station that is remotely controlled over the telephone network. This has come after 16 months effort liaising with the RSGB Licensing Advisory Committee and the Radiocommunications Agency and has been finally approved after a site inspection. The system is based on a Kachina 505DSP transceiver and Kachina's own specially-designed remote control system. The audio is digitised and then multiplexed with the control signals. The resulting single data stream is encoded and then passed over the telephone network using standard modems. At the remote end the data is decoded and the audio is split from the control signals and passed to the transceiver. The system will operate at a line speed of 28K or better and includes strong security, failsafe and shut-down measures.

Jeramy Boot, G4NJH

While we in North America take wireline and radio remote-base operations for granted its new to many other parts of the world. Anyone interested in receiving further information or with ideas to assist Dave Gould, G3UEG, may contact him by e-mail at david.gould@btinternet.com (RSGB)

ATTACK ON AMERICA: COMANDO SOLO DOES NOT WANT RECEPTION REPORTS NOW

If you are an SWL or ham who listens to shortwave -- and -- if you are planning to send a confirmation card to Radio Solo, the word right now is -- dont! This as the United States forces 193rd Special Operations Wing asks that reception reports and cassette tapes of its Commando Solo flying radio station broadcasts over Afghanistan not mailed to them at this time.

According to the Media Network e-newsletter there are two reasons. Obviously, they are involved in operations over a theater of war and need to lessen their peripheral workload. Also, due to the Anthrax scare in the United States, the U.S. mail system is overloaded with new safety procedures. In other words, your report may be indefinitely delayed or never opened. (Media Network E-Newsletter)

ATTACK ON AMERICA: NYC TELEVISION SEEKS NEW HOME

Seven weeks after a terrorist attack caused the collapse of the World Trade Center, hundreds of thousands of homes in the New York City area remain unable to receive more than four television stations. Because the main antennas atop the north tower came down, all the local stations, except Channels 2 and 41, which had backup antennas on the Empire State Building, had lost a significant part of their audiences. The situation improved last week when two more of the stations that lost their main transmitters began broadcasting from the Empire State Building site. Amateur Radio Newsline's Henry Feinberg has more:

On Thursday morninng, October 31st, Tribune-owned WPIX-TV channel 11 switched on a transmitter giving it an over-the-air signal said to be similar to what it was prior to the terrorist attacks. WNBC-TV channel 4 -- which in the late 1940's was the first to broadcast from the Empire site -- made a triumphant return later the same day when it flipped the switch on its new Empire located transmitter.

As an interim step to get back on the air, most local broadcasters had opted to use the old Armstrong Tower located in Alpine New Jersey. But the Alpine tower is not high enough and is to far away from the majority of the New York City demographic audience to provide clear reception throughout the metropolitan region.

The Empire State Building was the home to almost all New York City television broadcasters before the World Trade Center was built. Many broadcasters want to return to it but the New York Times says that Empire has to little space and not enough electrical power to accommodate the demands of all the stations. So a coalition of 11 broadcasters in and around New York are exploring options that include sharing management of a broadcast tower built to their specifications and needs.

The Times says that the long-term situation may be the construction of an enormous stand-alone broadcast tower. One that is perhaps 2,000 feet high and preferably be somewhere near the World Trade Center twin towers site.

But broadcasters will face a large number of issues if they persue the stand alone tower idea. Chief among them are the wants and desires of the residents of New York City. Many of them have made it clear that the area where the twin towers once stood be rebuilt a both a new trade center and also as a lasting monument to those who died in the terrorist attacks of September 11th, 2001.

Not far from the Armostrong Tower in Alpine New Jersey, I'm Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

Aside from the political issues mentioned in Henry's report there will be numerous other technical roadblocks. First is that of protecting the Philadelphia and Boston demographic television markets from interference. And if such a project is approved by the city at a different location, the Federal Aviation Administration will likely demand that it be built where it will avoid established flight patterns for local airports. And there are not very many of those in and around the metro New York City area. (ARNewsline(tm) from various published news reports.)

ATTACK ON AMERICA: VERTEX STANDARD / YAESU DONATES GEAR

According to a recent story in the ARRL Letter, Vertex Standard, which manufacturers Yaesu brand gear, has donated several pieces of equipment to Virginia ARES. The manufacturer had arranged to loan an FT-7100 transceiver and three of it's VX-5 hand-held's during the response to assist the Salvation Army at the Pentagon terrorist attack site. When the work concluded, Virginia Section Emergency Coordinator Tom Gregory, N4NW, e-mailed to thank the company and to inquire about returning the equipment. Vertex Standard Executive Vice President Mikio Maruya, WA6F told him that Virginia ARES was welcome to keep it on hand for future emergencies. The Woodbridge, Virginia, Ham Radio Outlet store cooperated in providing the Virginia ARES team with the needed equipment on September 13th. (ARRL)

REPEATER COORDINATION NEWS: NFCB AND NFCC ELECTION RESULTS

The National Frequency Coordination Council -- or NFCC -- has elected Nels Harvey, WA9JOB as its new President. Harvey replaces Owen Wormser, K6LEW. Wormser had served as Chairman of the original drafting group that resulted in creation of the NFCC back in mid 1990's and as several terms as President.

Also elected to office are Dave Baughn, K4XI as NFCC Vice President, Dick Isely, W9GIG as Secretary and Clay Freinwald, K7CR as the organizations Treasurer. Meantime, Clay Freinwald, K7CR, and Nels Harvey, WA9JOB, have also been elected for two year terms on the National Frequency Coordinators' Board of Directors. Both ran unopposed. (ARNewsline(tm))

REPEATER COORDINATION NEWS: SERA DROPS UNKNOWN CATEGORY

The South Eastern Repeater Association says that it has dropped use of the term 'unknown' for listing repeaters that it has little or no information on. According to the organizations publication Repeater Journal, the listing of about 150 repeaters as 'unknown' was intended to prod their owners to file delinquent updates or help clear the groups records of repeaters that are no longer on the air.

It did neither, but it did cause confusion for ham radio enforcement efforts. This occurred earlier this year when FCC Special Counsel Riley Hollingsworth cited the South Eastern Repeater Association's Unknown Repeater List as grounds for dismissing a complaint against an uncoordinated West Virginia repeater that had been accused of interfering with a coordinated system in Kentucky. The coordination counsel's FCC Liaison is reportedly working with Hollingsworth's office to clear up the confusion. (SERA Repeater Journal)

HANDI-HAMS: WINTER RADIO CAMP IN MALIBU IN MARCH 2002

The next Handiham Radio Camp session will take place the first week of March, 2002, at Camp Joan Mier in Malibu, California. That camp will be offering classes in Technician, General, Extra, Operating Skills, and JAWS computing.

There is no tuition charge for West Coast or D-X members aside from the $45 registration and insurance fee. If you want to receive a camp application packet, please e-mail handiham@courage.org or call 1-866-426-3442 -- days -- Central Standard Time. The most current camp information is available on the Handiham website located in cyberspace at www.mtn.org/handiham. (Handihams)

INTERNATIONAL – BAHAMAS: FEES GOING UP

The annual fee for those holding a Bahamian Amateur Radio license has increased to $25. According to the ARRL news, The new fee applies for licenses renewed after August 1. The cost to "catch up" on past renewal fees prior to 2002 is $6 per year. Some US amateurs with Bahamian tickets were surprised to get letters requesting the back renewal fees and threatening fines and revocation. According to Dick Long, C6AKE, the Bahamian Public Utilities Commission--which handles licensing there--collects $6 a year for the years your license has been expired--this has always been its policy, he says. If you don't plan to use your license anytime soon, Long advises returning it to the P-U-C or sending a letter stating that you won't be using it again. "If, at some future time, you want to return to the Bahamas, you can always apply for a new license," he added. The P-U-C e-mail address is puc@batelnet.bs. (ARRL)

INTERNATIONAL - BELGIUM: A BLESSED EVENT

Hams in Belgium are getting to take part in a truly blessed event. This, as John Devoldere ON4UN who is the President of the Belgian national Amateur Radio society announces that nations radio amateurs can use the special prefix OQ instead of their usual ON or OT prefixes.

According to Devoldere, Belgian telecom authorities issued this special prefix on the occasion of the birth of Princess Elisabeth. The permission to use the OQ prefix began on October 26th, runs until December 31st. (RSGB)

INTERNATIONAL - NEW ZEALAND: THE NATIONS HAM-STATS

The New Zealand Ministry of Economic Development reports that as of November 1st that nation has 3,295 General Class license holders, 1717 Limited license class, 24 Limited Novice and 25 Novice class operators. These hams share 205 voice repeaters, 19 television repeaters, 29 digipeters, and 42 beacon operations. Mix in two fixed licenses and the grand total is 5358 licenses issued. (NZART)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ISS TALKS TO NEW YORK CITY SCHOOL

Ten elementary school students from New York City had some very specific questions about current events for International Space Station Commander Frank Culbertson. To the question, "What did it look like in New York on September 11," Culbertson responded that he could see the smoke rising from the World Trade Center site and drifting south.

Culbertson: “On September 11th we happened to be coming over a few hours after the attack and I could see a large column of smoke coming out of the World Trade Center and floating off to the South and a kind of a fog of smoke all over the Southern part of the city.”
--

Culbertson went on to explain that he took pictures of the tragedy from space. He further related that he found out about the event while talking to his doctor during a scheduled medical conference.

Another youngster wanted to know, "What does Afghanistan look like from space?" Culbertson answered that it appeared to be very desolate and rugged.

The questions could be expected. The children are students at P.S. 234, with its regular campus only two blocks from the site of the World Trade Center.

On September 11, all 650 students at the school and their teachers evacuated their building without a single casualty. The school community has stayed together despite the turmoil, and is now housed in temporary quarters elsewhere in Manhattan. Culbertson told the students that he admired them for their courage, and told them to continue to study.

Culbertson: “ I want you to know that the whole world is very proud of you. Its to bad that you had to move from school to school, but we are very proud that you are continuing to work and take your education seriously. Things will be alright. Don’t worry.”
--

The students asked a total of twenty questions during the ten-minute contact. Some thirty teachers and parents and reporters were also on hand as were reporters from the New York Post and New York Daily News newspapers.

The ham radio contact was made through the Amateur Radio on the International Space Station project, an international coalition and was carried live by MSNBC on its website. Former NBC science editor and Newsline anchorman Roy Neal, K6DUE, moderated the event. Communication was handled through W6SRJ, a club station at Santa Rosa Community College in California, with Herb Sullivan at the controls.

P.S. 234 has its own website. Its in cyberspace at www.ps234.org/about.html (ARISS via K5YFL)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AMSAT-OSCAR 40 UPDATE

AMSAT's Peter Guezlow, DB2OS, reports magnetorquing of the OSCAR 40 ham radio satellite is again in progress. Guezlow also says that operational periods for the RUDAK system have been extended recently. This, to allow downloading of several important RUDAK G-P-S files.

AO-40 is currently in a long period during which the Earth eclipses the sun near the satellite's perigee. This actually began about August 28th, and will rapidly increase in length. The eclipses will continue well into June 2002. (AMSAT-NA)

SPACE AND SCIENCE: A LOT OF BIRDS UP THERE

SpaceDaily reports a new survey by the Teal Group has identified some 600 active satellites in Earth orbit or in deep space. The survey factored in all satellites launched since 1980, and, after a process of elimination, arrived at an estimate of 600 to 610 for satellites that remain active today. (AMSAT-NA)

DX

In D-X, you may recall that shortly after the September 11th terrorist attacks on New York City and the Pentagon, the government of Kuwait permitted its ham radio operators to the call sign 9K2USA. Now Bob Furzer, 9K2ZZ, reports a very positive response to the use of 9K2USA.

9K2USA was used by all Kuwaiti hams through September 30th as a token of the sympathy and support for the people of the United States from the citizens of Kuwait. It was also meant to be a statement of deep condolence.

Furzer now tells the Ohio Penn D-X Newsletter that the Kuwait Amateur Radio Society wants to thank all of those radio amateurs who e-mailed their support of the use of this special call. 9K2ZZ also says that the design of an official commemorative 9K2USA Q-S-L card has been finalized and is now posted on the website at www.k4cy.com. (OPDX)

From the U-K comes word of a new microwave D-X record. At least a new record for that nation. On Sunday October 21st the UK distance record for the 47 GHz band was raised from 163 to 203 kilometres. This happened when G7MRF and G0HNW, from Cambret Hill in grid I-O-74 had a two-way CW contact with G0IVA in gridsquare I-O-73 in North Wales. This distance comfortably exceeds the former record of 161 kilometres set in September 1999 by the same group. Reports of RST 519 and 419 were exchanged. (RSGB)

THAT FINAL ITEM: A MESSAGE TO REPEATER OWNERS FROM THE FCC

And finally this week, a word about repeater communications responsibility. It comes from the FCC's chief ham radio rules enforcer Riley Hollingsworth, and was included in a recent RAIN Enforcement Log Question and Answer session. If you own and operate a repeater, the next few minutes will be very important to you:

First of all, no licensee is required by the [FCC] rules to set up a repeater. When you do so, you do have certain responsibilities.

First, assuming that you have applied for and received coordination from your local repeater coordinating body -- if there is one -- and in a lot of areas there are not and in which case you would skip that step. As long as you are not interfering with a coordinated repeater, everything is all-right.

Once you start a repeater, you have to keep a few things in mind. First of all, if it is using your call sign -- it is your station -- and you are responsible for it. You do have a few alternatives as far as controlling it, but essentially it is your station and your responsibility.

The rule that states that you are not responsible for inadvertent transmissions I am afraid is often misunderstood. It only applies to inadvertent transmissions. [These are] transmissions that you let through on the repeater -- and I think it was designed for [modes like] packet anyway that you let through on the repeater before you realized what was happening.

Now, rules violations that occur by your users on a day-in and day-out basis or rule violations that go on for several hours are your responsibility as well as that of the users that are committing the violations. No dictionary in the world would define those types of situations as "inadvertent," and I am afraid that a lot of people just do not understand that.

If you put a repeater on [the air] you are responsible for its proper operation. Now, if you can't do that, or you do not have the time or the inclination [to properly control it], then your choice is to shut if off and to do something else. This is very important in these times because Amateurs are being listened to more than ever before.

Everyone seems to be buying scanners and short-wave radios. Very often a repeater is new person's first exposure to Amateur Radio -- and a potential recruit -- I might add. And, very often, it is the news media's first exposure to Amateur Radio.

If your repeater is an embarrassment to Amateur Radio, then you should shut it down and seriously examine your motives for wanting a repeater. You will be held responsible for regularly occurring rules violations, as well as the people committing the violations.

I would hope that more and more Amateurs would understand this. I think that the rule that you are not responsible for inadvertent transmissions has been misinterpreted by a number of people.

What Hollingsworth really seems to be saying is that your repeater is kind of like your house and your surrounding property. Yes, you have responsibility to make your home secure for you and your family. You also have a responsibility to keep it and its surroundings neat and clean so that your neighbors will also enjoy the view. (FCC, RAIN)

Rick:

I have the entire AT-2500 Manual in PDF format. I also have added to the manual a mod which I have installed on a number of AT-2500's. It requires you to use an EXTERNAL antenna switch, BUT to be able to switch the ATU IN/OUT of a common incoming ANT line, so you can use it on ANY antenna, OR you can take it out of the line when an ATU is not required.

Drop me a note at n0ss@arrl.net if you wish to abtain a copy of the AT-2500 manual in PDF format - FREE.

Dear OM,

My name is Franï¿½ois.
I am a member of a french logistic team going to Geographic North Pole each april. We establish a drifting base at 89 North Latitude, wich name Borneo, for scientistific researchs.

When I was student, my hobby was HAM, with the call sign FE4834.
Actually, I dont have a station, because I have 2 young children. But I hope I will have a new one in some years!!

My hobby actually is collecting polar QSL cards from North or South Pole.
So, can I ask you if you can help me ?
Do you have any spare QSL from Antarctica?

I can send you letters and post cards I have cancelled at the North Pole station with the official post office cachet during my past expeditions.

I'll send you also a SASE with IRC.

I hope we can do good exchanges!
I send you all my best regards and 73's,

Referring to anything Roger contributes as being "an empty Wiseman post" is redundant at best, plagiarized at worst.

4417. Grandfathered U.S. License Dates

A while ago, someone asked the group about the grandfathered license dates and such for obtaining a no-test upgrade to a U.S. amateur radio license. I finally found those "first issued" dates that compare to the rules change dates.

Rules Change Date	First Issued Date (on license)
March 21, 1987	July 15, 1987
February 14, 1991	April 12, 1991
April 15, 2000	April 19, 2000

This means that for example:
- A person with a Technician license with an issue date of May 1987 does indeed have element 3B credit (because his examination had to have been before March 21, 1987 - since the first post-March 20, 1987 application wasn't processed until July 15, 1987).

It's possible that for example, a successful pre-March 21, 1987 candidate didn't get his license issued until August 1987, but in that case, the candidate will have to produce his CSCE from 1987 to prove the examination date (or re-take the element).

I knew that I had this somewhere. I found it printed in the "ARRL VE Express", Winter/Spring 2000 edition, page 3, column 1.

What a palaver. They would just buy a cell phone for cash from the street, then buy a pre-paid card under a fake name, again with cash, exchange phone numbers by word-of-mouth or buried in some other info, and chat to each other as much as they like. The way to hide a drop of water is to pour it anonymously into the ocean of telecoms.

Hi to all :

I just purchased some RG-213 coax marked "direct burial"...
Does this mean that I can dig a trough in the ground and bury the coax directly into the ground without some sort of conduit?

Thanks much,

Oh, you wouldn't mind the cats, our bosses either and there is only one single problem:
I have to find a house in YOUR town with the cats been admitted by the house owner ?
That's great, because I can trick them: With 7 black ones, 1 grey one and 2 black-and-white ones I've never admitted owning more than four cats and no house owner did ever catch me with this lie.

So now who is lying ---

That's one of the stupider things you've said. Check the headers and see that the message was posted to alt.2600. Then, if you have a question or a feature request for my newsreader, post a message to Johnny Favorite (the author of my newsreader) in alt.internet.talk.haven and ask him how my newsreader works. He'll be happy to discuss whatever you want to know about it. Otherwise, just shut the fuck up and go on with your life.

I just bought a VX-5R, which means I have 70cm capability for the first time. My wife just passed her Tech, and bought one too. We've searched the Web but can't find any lists of 70cm simplex frequencies. Don't want to interfere with anyone if we don't have to, so if anyone could point me to a list of 70cm simplex channels, I'd be very grateful.

If you have one for your area, your local frequency coordinator should have a list. The list/range of frequencies does vary according to area.

Dr O'Bese of O'Bese Enjunearing Labs in Hiram, Ga.
reports developing a revolutionary radio microphone.

The microphone has buttons on either side which activate a liquid stream of Old Milwaukee Beer and Seagrams Whisky that shoots into the mouth of the microphone user. On top center of the microphone is a clip that holds a lit roach.

Dr O'Bese said he finds the microphone quite functional as he spews his distorted audio across the radio spectrum.

Yes but I would recommend putting it into PVC pipe anyway. The PVC allows to add extra cables in the future and to replace the cable without having to dig up the yard again.

Hello all people. I have an academical project idea. I have a Kenwood TS50 (not TS50S). I woule like to make an application to control my TS50. In my TS50 manual appears little info about the unit IF-10D (with a 6-pin connector). I have no idea how could later I connect the IF-10D to the computer. I think that I should connect to a RS-232 computer port, and perhaps also I need the IF-232...
Also I would like to connect my TS50 to a computer running a server (eg. in Linux OS), and a RealAudio server to broadcast to Internet "real time audio" from the TS50. Then I would like also to develope a Java "applet" to put on a web page on Internet, with the appearance of the TS50 front-end.Then the user should be able to change freq., mode (am/fm/usb/lsb/cw),memories,etc...And of course the operation should be taken on the TS50.
I have a lot of questions:
- What I need to connect the TS50 to a PC? I think IF-10D, but...anything more?
- Once I have connected the TS50 to the PC, I think I could send data from the serial port of the PC to the TS50, but...what data must I send to perform each of the different controls? I think there should be any reference from Kenwood...Any info about this?

Says the twat who yells his effeminate voice into the mike, with the mike gain and processing all the way to the right. Spalttering 10 kcs.up and down from the center frequency.

The 'original RG-213/u was a mil-spec cable. Whether it is now or not I have no idea. Being a mil-spec cable it could be direct buried.

I don't see the paralell ,not even a vague one. all I see is a reference to a group of people who needlessly killed thousands that were abiding by their own "rules", You on the otherhand obviously can't think for your self, you need laws to tell you right from wrong

Yep, the IF-10D (which is just a box containing a 7404 hex inverter and some pullups) connects to an IF-232C which has a 25 pin serial connector for the PC. There are plans for the IF232C in the ARRL handbook - I just opened one and it looks like standard old 1488/1489 drivers with an opto and a 555, probably to generate -12V. I'd use a MAX-232 these days.

The data format is included in the IF-10D manual.

That is easy to answer, and welcome to "rec.radio.cb" where you just fell victim to a forged news group message. You'll find that is a VERY common occurrence here, and when the CB pirates get mad enough they pull the stunt in other newsgroups as well. Sooner or later if you like me and several others voice your opinion against illegal CBer's you'll find yourself a victim sooner or later too.

By the way any post from me will NEVER contain a valid return E-mail address, to me, as an anti Spam measure. The forged messages contain them as a sorry attempt at harassment. In fact when the forged messages do contain a valid E-mail address to me it saves me the trouble of looking for the forged messages. I don't ever bother to look for them anyway. Others find them and contact me instead, and I just pass along the message with headers to the forger's ISP, which then either blocks their access or cans the account. Takes about 2 minutes using a saved boiler plate message I send to the ISP involved.

Yup, it sure is, akin to 146.52 on 2m. But I don't want to use the calling frequency for my own little local communications with the wife and son. Probably never matter very much, but one can either do a thing, or do a thing right.

Pursuant to advice given to me here, I've looked for frequency coordinator web pages and found that, in my area, the first three frequencies at 25kHz steps below 446.000 are for simplex. The first three above it are also available, but are sha<bezeeegurch>red with ano<bezeeegurch>ther mode that <bezeeegurch>isn't really compatible with voice.

Found a couple of local 70cm repeaters this morning, too (KT4ER and N4FSC), which are very clear and easy to reach on low power. This is going very well, and I'm enjoying my return to ham radio immensely (even if I do have a lot to learn).

My idea was to try a live broadcast on some sort of an online radio station or something that people could tune into via my site and I could just broadcast live on or something while playing music of MP3s or something. Is there a place online where I could get something like this other than live 365 which now charges? If you got any ideas please email me about it or post.

Racistphobe!

You should CONGRATULATE racists that finally have the courage to come out of the closet, not be a friggin racistphobe! Everyone has a racist in their family or has a friend who is a racist. Hate crimes against racists based solely on their racist views can bring on criminal charges!

Wrong .. anyone who can do this is more of a genius than a loser. Then we

I think you have a point there. Finally.

So who is this for ? Anyone in particular?

Hurry .. it's almost time for David J. Smith on WWL, 870 AM in New Orleans.

What the fuck are you, A LAWYER ??? What's a "Racistphobe" one of those "legal terms" ??

Move to Serbia ... you'll find out what happens when people like Hal and lloyd are allowed to spew racist hatred and the "state" protects them. People like lloyd, hal and the slobotovich are EVIL MEN.

YOU are a racistphobe, and it is no longer acceptable to bash racists! They have just as much rights to their beliefs and lifestyles as you do!

Try it again. On the main page, and the specific mug page, the pictures do not show up, yet all the other pictures and graphics of the site load fine.

Looks like some racistphobe vandalized it?

I hope it gets fixed, I noted the discount for orders over 10 and this would make AWESOME xmas gifts for my negro hatin' boss and a few friends in my church choir!

On this I propose a mug stating the following: No More Savage Racist

One thing that you should know, is that, like radio stations, you must legally pay licensing fees to the music publishers and rights agencies if you broadcast music on the Internet. There are several agencies that handle licensing (BMI, ASCAP, etc.). If you play music that was written by an artist registered with that agency, you have to pay that agency a fee. If you play two songs, and one composer is listed with BMI and the other with ASCAP, you have to pay a licensing fee to both agencies.

The good news is that for Internet broadcasters, the licensing fee for each agency is a few hundred bucks a year.

The bad news is that if BMI or ASCAP find your site, and you aren't paying licensing fees, they can take you to court and shut you down. It happens. The music publishers are pretty active in searching for sites like yours. It is well worth the slight hassle and few bucks to make it all legal. Many legitimate radio stations that started simulcasting in the Internet have been shut down until they were licensed. You don't want that kind of hassle.

4488. Radar Schematic needed

I was always fond of playing with shipboard radar. In the 70's I worked on Navy ship radars. 3 Mw (million watt) stuff. I recently acquired 2 small radar units. 1-Raytheon model 1500, and 1-Furuno model 701. They have no cables connecting the antenna unit to the indicator. I am looking for just the Schematic for both units. I have an electronics background and would have no problem making up some cabling. Want to put one of these radars on my tower at home.I use to have one mounted on my truck! I have a 250' tower and someday will mount a web-cam and radar unit and put it up on my web page for all to see. I live up on a hill overlooking Casco Bay in Maine. Amateur Radar. Fun stuff. Can anyone help. Thanks. Bill

Each of the tubes listed here have been checked on a B&K 667. All of the tubes listed below test STRONG, have no grid emission/gas/leakage, and have no shorts. The tubes marked "USED" may have discolored glass or significantly vaporized getters, but they STILL test strong. I have no way of in-circuit testing, so I can only warrant that these tubes will test good in a similar tube tester and not be DOA, but otherwise must be sold AS-IS.

Harry Potter is simply fun with fantasy. If you view it otherwise then don't read it. If you feel so weak that you'll somehow feel threatened then you take life way too seriously. Harry Potter is fantasy. An escape from our everday humdrum life. Science fiction. Amusement. Nothing more. I will go to see the movie for the special effects as I am a fan of such things.

And you never thought it ODD that your wife knew who I was when she said this? Doesn't that seem strange that she would know me? Obviously she said I was a fag, she was afraid you knew that we were having sex and that this would throw you off the trail.

ALSO very interesting how you never actually DENIED being a fag and didn't answer the question! Now everyone here knows that you are one by refusing to answer.

Does anyone make a TNC that fits into a PCMCIA card slot? All the TNCs I see advertised are big, ugly, bulky boxes, a hassle to carry with a laptop and HT. I don't really want to buy the Kenwood HT with the built in TNC, but that demonstrates that the device can be built small. Just curious. Thanks.

Hi Michael.Many thanks for the info.Do you have the data format (you told that its included in IF-10D manual). Have you connected a TS50 to a computer?
Yes, I have seen something on ARRL hanbook 2001, but unfortunately I have not much experience in electronic ;-(

As an adult, one's faith should be relatively strong enough to avoid witchcraft or wicca.

I suppose if I were still a curious youngster or teenage, I might be lured into wicca (christian or not) due to the attraction of possessing the power to cast spells, simply for curiousity or with objective intent.

The danger lies in our kids who are exposed to the "magics" in Harry Potter (I must say it is really appealing to youngsters). But if you dont mind your kids dabbling with wicca, then go ahead... However, there is a possibility of "enslavement". The deeper you go, the more attractive it becomes... from pentagram to the more powerful hexagram...

Look at the links below before you start "talking sense" to others.

Is it any suprise after the hellish-inspired attacks of September the 11th 2001 in New York City and Washington DC, that Hollywood would spring this trash upon our Nation..?? The same Hollywood and AOL/Time Warner that spews utter sewage on cable networks 24 hours a day. All these media people care about is money and using your children as marketing targets.

CERTIFIED MAILï¿½RETURN RECEIPT REQUESTED

Roger L. Wiseman

610 Glen Haven Avenue

Glendale, WV 26038-1302

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio License: KC8JBO

Dear Mr. Wiseman:

The Commission has monitoring evidence that you have been deliberately and maliciously interfering with the radio operations of other licensed Amateurs on the 14 MHz Amateur band. This interference has occurred at various times in the last several months and includes broadcasting music and other unidentified transmissions.

The Commission generally relies upon the Amateur Radio Service to be self-policing. Operation of the type described above is contrary to the basis and purpose of Amateur Radio and degrades the service for legitimate users. This serves as a Warning Notice that such operation will not be tolerated. Additional incidents of operation of the type described above will result in a monetary fine being levied against you and in revocation proceedings before an Administrative Law Judge.

You are requested to contact me at 717-338-2502 to discuss this matter.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Special Counsel, Amateur Radio Service

Enforcement Bureau

3.950 MHZ. 10pm Eastern

Join W1WCR for some good forums! The Liberty net has met on 3950 for many years, and will be there for a lon, long time. You will hear great people like N2SAG, WB4AIO, K4GAR and other great Patriots.

Rumor has it that WA9KJI is up to old tricks of jamming the Liberty Net again. Maybe we should get on 3950 and run David Castle off the air. Also be on the look-out for KC8JBO and the "doofus-jammer" too.

Would'nt it be graeat to have some of the Hal Turner callers check in to the Great Liberty net tonite. Imagaine Al from Colo checking in to the Great Liberty Net. Imagine someone telling the funny jokes on 3950, that are told on Hal's program.

We need to put together a Liberty Net coffee mug, to match the one Hal is offereing. It could say, "You people make me sick" on one side and have a picture of Dave, Sid, Art. They could be sold as set. for $24.95. Part of the proceeds would goto the "Save Colonel Anderson" Fund.

Enjoy!

After listening to Donnie Anderson go on and on and on and on and on....well, now I fully understand why the Hams on that freq. refer to him as "dumb-ass Donnie". Poor old malcontent that he is, he is still whining that Clinton is no longer our president.
Poor Donnie. He just doesn't get it. Of course there is always the Pink Triangle coalition....

Part ? Nope .. all of the proceeds. Due to the HUGE number of SWL's on 3950 every Saturday night, I'm guessing we could sell 50,000 mugs at least.

And send the Colonel $20.00 per mug. That would be a million bucks just in the first week.

Get cracking .. the Colonel needs our help.

Yes, YOU Stagger Lee:

Idiot-at-Large Village Idiot
Perpetual Moron

You have shown your ignorance, your inability to rationalize a situation, your inability to show even the smallest amount of intelligence.

You speak as a Cyber Cop... Is that what you look at yourself as being? As self-imposed-marshal-of-usenet?
Is that your little mission in life? You seek to impose your views on everyone else and to hell with the accepted norms.

Idiot.

Fuck Head.

Loser.

Are you an ignorant fucking WebTV user? You act like it.

First there was AOL'ers, now there is WebTV. It's nice for AOL'ers to finally have someone to pick-on.

You get your No-Code first? Cant do Morse? I bet you dont know the difference between a Zener Diode and a Transistor.

I bet you keep goats in the house for companionship...
Or maybe it's just the smell eminating from your boyfriend's ass that smells like a goat.

I bet you suck the jack-bumps off your boyfriend's balls don't you?

You are a sick, sick person. You need help. You need to seek a professional psycho-therapist to help you in your time of need.

HUH ? I heard his show, never heard any jokes.
The same raciest slams followed by the same 5 callers every week.
The Col. was way funnier than Hal, my fave was his sheep voice and all the funny paranoia.
He was great !

Lets not forget is the characters on 3860, funny talk followed (sometimes) by lessons on building antennas and all kinds of junk by the Tommy tube guy.
Sadly I hear one of them (Walter ?) is a silent key now

Check out "Coast to Coast" on the AM broadcast band after midnight ESTsunday nights, that guy has some real funny callers like Hakeem.

Harry Potter was a lady's imagination. AS I see it her imagination of Harry Potter is really no different than the imagination of Tim Lahay *Left Behind" who grownups fall for his spell of casting fear and chaos.
I tell my children that Harry Potter is not real and they know that. I tell grown ups that Left Behind is not real and they throw fits.

Both equally have their danger, but only to those who do not know the difference of imaginations and real life.

Say, German-impaired IDIOT Apustule, Scheissman is written with "ei" not "ie", and with either an "ss" or an "&#65533;." It should've been spelled "Scheissman" or "Schei&#65533;man," if you care to name-lame.

I'd just go with a small Sony, Sangean or Grundig portable... no need for ssb in my opinion. I would be willing to bet big broadcasters like Voice of America, BBC, Radio Netherlands, Deutsche Welle etc. would be the main sources for news for your gf, they're pure AM and easy to catch with a basic shortwave radio due to their high signal strength, Although a wind-up type longwire antenna might be an option worth considering to boost performance when signals are weak.

Something like a simple Sony SW22 analogue portable(if they're still available, they're nice and small, about the size of a cigarette packet) is easy to use, has low battery drain and a pair of AA's last for ages.

A solar charger and a few pairs (just incase it's real cloudy for a while) of NiMH AA rechargables would be an ideal way to overcome the difficulty of obtaining batteries.

Best of luck with your choice.
Paul.

Hi all, have 1 each HT600 radios as follows: (LAST ONE!)

VHF 154-174 (will actually do about 151-177)
6ch
5watt Includes programming.

Radio, Battery, Antenna.

Model H43SVU7160BN

Condition: EXCELLENT. 8/9 cosmetics (I noticed some SMALL picks/tears in sticker around dtmf keys in a couple of these radios. fingernails??)
10/electronically

NO beltclips
NO chargers
NO accy caps (speaker mics already sold, sorry!)
NO guarantee on the battery... they're holding a charge but most are 2-3 yrs or older.

YES, the radio is guaranteed to be in proper working order, factory, no conversions, no jimmies or funky stuff. These came from a biz in NC and were used in a manuf. plant I believe. Very nice condition.

NOTES:
These radios will do a good job transmitting from about 151-177 as I have mine configured. If you need a freq. outside 154-174, I can have it programmed for you. Ask me for details if you need.

PRICE:
$115 shipped to your door (CONUS) Priority, Insured, Tracked.

Money order, Mastercard/Visa via PayPal

RESCUE RADIO: HAMS HELP IN AFTERMATH OF NYC JETLINER CRASH

Ham radio operators in New York City, still weary from the aftermath of the September 11th terrorist attacks were called out once again. This, after an American Airlines jetliner in route to the Dominican Republic broke up in flight shortly after takeoff from Kennedy Airport. The Airbus A-300 had 265 passangers and crew. It crashed moments after takeoff setting homes ablaze on thrr Rockaway penninsulia. There were no known survivors. We have more in this report:

When American Airlines Flight 587 crashed just minutes after takeoff from Kennedy Airport in New York City on November 12th, the Salvation Army was one of the first groups to arrive at the disaster scene. It brought in several mobile canteens to help feed rescue workers and residents whose houses had been damaged or destroyed.

The Salvation Army regularly uses ham radio operators in its SATERN network to maintain communications between its units at a disaster site. This being the second disaster to hit New York in two months' time, the Salvation Army Incident Commander asked the SATERN disaster command operator, Carlos Varon, K2LCV,to request additional ham volunteers. Operators were needed to staff the canteens and a mobile command post.

Initially up to a half dozen ham stations were to be set up at various locations near the crash site and another at Salvation Army Headquarters in Manhattan. It was anticipated that the communications mission would last three to four days.

Also, according to ARRL New York City and Long Island Section Manager George Tranos, N2GA, the League's Amateur Radio Emergency Service was on standby for the American Red Cross. Hams were later reported as providing communications support to the Red Cross for its operations.

But getting to any assignment was not easy. New York officials initially feared this was another terror attack and put the city into a near lock-down, closing all airports, bridges and tunnels for several hours after the crash. In addition, the crash site itself was on an island, and access to the area was severely restricted. All this made it difficult for ham volunteers to reach their assignments. Finally, they were all told to gather in one place where they would be escorted in by a Salvation Army command vehicle.

Among those who helped organize the ham radio response was Mark Phillips, KC2ENI, the ARR Emergency Coordinator for Queens County. The Rockaway Command station was Joseph Albertus KB2QLE and Net Control on the 147.090 MHz repeater was Michael Lunetta W2MPL.

From the offices of CQ Magazine, I'm Rich Moseson, W2VU.

Authorities who found the flight data recorder said it contains information leading to an initial conclusion that mechanical failure of the Airbus jet was the cause of the crash. (W2VU, WB2FXN, K2VMR, N2GA, and communications monitored on the 147.09 repeater)

RESTRUCTURING: RUSSIA SAYS NYET TO NO-CODE

The Russian Federation has said ‘nyet’ to no-code. According to the W.I.A. Victoria News, the Federation says that there are good reasons for the Amateur Service to continue with Morse as a license requirement for operation below 30MHz. It also says that it has no plans to make any changes to its domestic licence conditions. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Roy Neal. K6DUE, takes a look at the surprise Russian position:

"Keep the Morse Code." That's the position of The Russian Federation. It was revealed by the International Telecommunications Union on the 12th of October, when that organization released a position document for the World Radio Conference of 2003..

The Russian Federation told the ITU that it supports most changes to International Radio Regulation S-25, which sets forth qualifications for radio amateurs. But, says the Federation, keep the Morse code. Reasons? First a strong belief that Morse testing is the big difference between Amateur Radio and the Russian version of Citizen's Radio Services. The Russian Federation also points out that lowering the code requirement in many other nations has not led to a significant increase in the number of hams in those countries.

The Federation says that it surveyed Russian radio operators and found overwhelming support for retention of the code and the Russians say Morse is one of the most effective means of communication in emergencies with clear benefits in reducing interference on the high frequency bands.

What does it mean to the rest of the world, this decision to retain Morse testing? Jim Linton, VK3PC, is the author of Australia's "Morse Code Watch."

He says the Russian Federation's position can be accomodated easily. This because any new I-T-U Radio Regulation S-25 to come out of the World Radio Conference in 2003 will set only a minimum qualification standard for radio amateurs. It will not force that standard on any country.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Roy Neal, K6DUE

As previously reported, the IARU Administrative Council voted on October 8th to support dropping Morse as a qualifying criterion for high frequency access. It says that Morse testing is no longer relevant to the healthy future of amateur radio. (W.I.A. Victoria, W5YI Report)

THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF MARCONI'S HISTORIC TRANS-ATLANTIC RADIO TRANSMISSION

I’m Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Los Angeles, with a late breaking bit of radio history.

December 12th will mark the 100th anniversary of the first Trans-Atlantic radio transmission by Guglielmo Marconi. To commemorate the event, The Marconi Radio Club and The Falmouth Amateur Radio Association radio operators are making plans to celebrate this important historical event from December 11th to the 16th. And in this very rare recorded interview supplied by Q-News, Marconi himself commented on the his first contact across the Atrlantic pond. Take a listen:

Audio of Marconi commentary here. No text available. Please listen to audio newscast. Links are at http://www.arnewsline.org.
--

The signal Marconi referred to was a series of the letter S transmitted using CW across the Atlantic from Poldhu, Cornwall England to St John's, Newfoundland. For this 100th anniversary, the Marconi Radio Club will be using the call sign W1AA slash CC and will be operating from Cape Cod, Massachusetts, U.S.A.. This was the location of Marconi's 1903 Trans-Atlantic radio station. Marconi's 1903 call sign back then was "C C"

For exact times, frequencies and modes of operation for W1AA slash CC go to www.qrz.com/database?callsign=w1aa) (K1VV, Marconi Radio Club W1AA. Marconi audio supplied by Q-News)

AMERICA AT WAR: G3 MAY HAVE TO WAIT

It now appears very unlikely that new G 3 personal communications technology will share the same spectrum worldwide. Amateur Radio Newsline’sa Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, tells us the U-S military has other ideas:

While Europe and Asia have reached accord on commen frequencies for the introduction of G 3, the September 11th terrorist attacks in New York City and Washington have convinced the Departrment of Defense to take a different position. The DoD now says that it is not in the national interest to relinquist spectrum in the 1710 to 1850 Mhz band just because that happens to be the same spectrum to be used commercially overseas.

According to the latest issue of the W5YI Report the Cellular Telecommunications and Internet Association says that the Department of Defense will encounter interference from 3 G wireless devices but the DoD disagrees. It says that whatever equipment it has is far more powerful. The DoD adds that it may interfere with 3 G cellular telephones oversaeas but that the cellphones will not adversly impact on the military or its operations.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ.

In other words, over here in the United States, if G 3 wants 1710 to 1850 Mhz -- its going to have to wait. (W5YI Report)

AMERICA AT WAR: EMERGENCY CELLULAR TELEPHONE PLAN

Verizon Wireless and the United States government are in the final stages of a deal that would give some emergency officials priority access to the company's cellular network. Under the agreement, about 2,000 federal, state and local officials would be given a code that allows them priority over others trying to make calls.

The system, intended to be used only in times of crisis, would be operational in New York, Washington and Salt Lake City, the site of the 2002 Winter Olympics. Verizon has submitted a request to the Federal Communications Commission, which must review and approve some elements of the plan. According to a government official who spoke on condition of anonymity, others trying to make calls could get busy signals because of the plan. (Published news reports)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC TO CB OPERATOR – TIME TO PAY THE FINE

The FCC has told a mid-West C-B operator that he has to pay the price of breaking the rules. This after the agency affirms a $9500 Monetary Forfeiture issued last summer to Klaus D. Kramer of Oklahoma City Oklahoma.

The Klaus Kramer story goes back to last February. This is when the FCC received several complaints of a CB radio station operating with excessive power in Oklahoma City. The Dallas office sent agents to locate the source of the transmissions. In the course of the two day investigation the agents traced transmissions to three locations including Mikes Cycle Shop. The latter is a business owned by Klaus Kramer.
The agents conducted inspections that revealed that Mr. Kramer violated Section 301 of the Communications Act by operating radio transmitters without authorization. Kramer admitted to making the transmissions and voluntarily relinquished the equipment. On March 12th the Dallas office issued two Notices of Violation to Kramer. In response to the Notice's of Violation, Kramer acknowledged the violations and indicated that he would discontinue operation of the station. On July 13th, the Commission's Dallas Texas field office issued the Notice of Apparent Liability for Forfeiture in the amount of $9500 to Kramer for the noted violations. Kramer filed a response to the NAL on August 14th claiming that the amount was excessive.
In denying Kramers appeal, the FCC's November 8th order says that its Dallas office has complaints regarding similar operations on two separate occasions in March 1998 and October 1999. In both of those instances, Kramer also voluntarily the offending equipment and on at least one occasion stated that the violations would not be repeated. None the less, the FCC says that its investigation has revealed that Mr. Kramer again: "...violated our rules" in February 2001. Thus says the government, imposition of the $9500 is not excessive and is proper in this case.
For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Don Wilbanks, KC5MFA, reporting.
Kramer was given the usual thirty days to pay the fine. He also has the option of further appeals. (FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC TO STATION OWNER - YOU ARE OFF THE AIR

Hams are not the only ones feeling the pinch of the Federal Communications Commission action. Five Midwestern radio stations have gone off the air after the agency denies an appeal by their owner who the FCC says was found unfit to continue to operate them.

Back in 1994 the owner was convicted of crimes involving minors. He was sentenced to an eight-year term and was released in 1999 after serving five. Last July he was told by the FCC that he no longer held the minimum requisite requirements to remain a Commission license. Also, that he would lose his licenses to operate the stations within 90 days.

Last month he petitioned the FCC to allow him to continue operating the stations. The FCC denied his request on October 3rd and the stations stopped broadcasting just after midnight October 4th. The FCC says it plans to auction off the station licenses. The owner is reportedly considering an appeal. (FCC, other published reports)

HAMVENTION UPDATE 2002: DISPELLING RUMORS

If you are one of those who heard a rumor that the Dayton Hamvention is leraving its longtime home at the HARA Arena, then forget it. Its nothing more than the normally irresponsible Internet rumor mill working overtime. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more:

According to planners posting to the official Hamvention website, the erroneous rumor began the week of Hamvention 2001. This, after it was was allegedly printed in a Chicago newspaper that the HARA Arena had been sold. It had not been.

The Hamvention Committee spent the weekend of the 2001 event reassuring its vendors and attendees that HARA had not been sold. Also, that Hamvention's contract had not been "bought out" and that it would be back at HARA.

But that’s not all. The HARA Arena management issued its own formal statement. It also satated that the HARA had not been sold, and that it will not be razed. We at Amateur Radio Newsline were there. We heard it first hand.

Most important the HARA folks reitterated what the Dayton Amateur Radio Association has stated. The Hamvention will be there as promised. And as those of you who received last months mass mailing already know, the dates are May 17th, 18th and 19th, 2002. We will see you there.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Bill Pasternak WA6ITF in Los Angeles.

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: DTV ROLLOUT UPDATE

Roughly two-thirds of commercial television stations plan to broadcast a digital signal by a federal government deadline of May 1, 2002. This, according to the National Association of Broadcasters.

In a report to the Federal Communications Commission, the industry group said that many of those that won't make the deadline are waiting for equipment to be delivered and expect to have digital broadcasts on the air in the months afterward. But some stations in smaller markets are having a hard time paying for the upgrade, the association says.

Right now, most home television sets in use receive only analog signals. But congress has mandated that broadcasters must give up their analog channels to the government by 2006. As a result, there are concerns that consumers won't have made the costly upgrade to televisions that can receive digital signals by that date. (News release)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ISS TALKS TO WISCONSIN SCHOOL

Students at Tremper High School in Kenosha, Wisconsin, asked questions the morning of November 6th of the International Space Station Expedition Three Commander Frank Culbertson that got some very personal responses. Culbertson told the teens that he certainly did not expect as much to be happening on Earth during his stay at the orbital outpost, in obvious reference to terrorist attacks. He said that he wished that he could have been with his family during the most stressful times, but he took comfort in knowing that they were strong, and could get by.

On a brighter note, Culbertson said that his current mission is the high point of his space career. He added that he hoped some of students at Tremper High can do the same thing some day.

In response to another question, Culbertson said that he hoped to see cheaper access to space, and hoped for a manned Mars mission and a permanent lunar base during his lifetime.

The contact was an event facilitated through the Amateur Radio on the International Space Station project, sponsored by AMSAT, ARRL and NASA. In all, fourteen students asked one question each during the contact. About 60 other students and a few teachers witnessed the event in person, while M-S-N-B-C carried the audio portion of the contact live over its website. (ARISS release by Gene Chapline, K5YFL)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: NEW ANTENNAS HEADING TOWARD THE ISS

The International Space Station could have a new set of ham band antennas by early in 2002. The antennas are expected to be trtansported to te ISS this month and installed around the perimeter of the Service Module. This will give the I-S-S ham station high frequency, VHF, UHF and microwave capabilities.

The most interesting of all the new antennas is the high frequency array. Its made up of a two and one half meter long flexable tape that will definately work on 10 meters and holds posibilities on 15 and 20 as well. This particular antenna was a joint effort of the Italian, Russian and United States ARISS design team. (ARISS)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: STARSHINE NEEDS TELEMETRY REPORTS

Ground controllers of the Starshine-3 ham radio satellite are seeking volunteer amateur radio operators and others worldwide to monitor and report telemetry from the recently-launched satellite. Starshine 3 transmits 9600 bit per second AX-25 protocol packet telemetry every 2 minutes on 145.825 MHz.

The satellite’s primary mission is to involve school children from around the world in space and radio sciences. Students should be able visually track the satellite during morning and evening passes by recording its telltale mirror flashes and reporting their observations to Project Starshine. To report Starshine 3 telemetry or to learn more about it, please visit http://epulation.com/starshine/starshine3. More information about Project Starshine is available at www.azinet.com/starshine. DX

In DX, a big surprise for 6 meter enthuiasts. Jeramy boot, G4NJH, has the details:

A combination of high solar flux and low magnetic activity provided world-wide F-layer propagation on 50MHz during the week up to the 4th of November. Strong backscatter and the occasional Sporadic E openings meant that all continents were worked from the UK on 50MHz during the course of the week.

On Tuesday, the 6th of November, a solar coronal mass ejection hit the earth's magnetic field at 0150UTC and triggered widespread auroras. Observers as far south as central California reported seeing vivid displays of the Northern Lights, although we had no reports of visible auroras in the UK at the time of compiling this bulletin.

As we go to air 6 meters remains a worldwide D-X paradise. More information is on the web at www.rsgb.org and on the subscription VHF reflector. (G4NJH)

In other D-X news word that two Spanish operators will be in Cameroon between the 11th and 23rd of November. The pair will be working on the installation of HF and VHF stations in hospitals and missions. In their spare time they will be on the air as TJ2RSF on the High Frequenvcy bands. Activity will be mainly SSB, with some RTTY and CW. (VHF Reflector)

And Chris Post, N3SIG, who is a Firefighter and EMT in the United States Antarctic Program at the McMurdo Station on Ross Island is now active as KC4/N3SIG until March 2002. Post told the Ohio Penn D-X newsletter that he will be active every other day starting around 2000-2100 Eastern U.S. time primerally using SSB on 20, 18 and 15 meters. All QSL cards go to AI3D and be sure to include an S-A-S-E. (OPDX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO IN LEBANON

And finally this week, a look at how ham radio is able to survive in Lebanon. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, looks at the nation, its licensing system and its Amateur Radio Community:

Wireless communication was first introduced in Lebanon by French soldiers during the French mandate; consequently, a number of curious and interested Lebanese took on this hobby and started operating under a permit and a call sign provided by the French Authorities.

With Lebanon gaining its independence in 1943, the Ministry of Post and Telecommunications become the issuer of the license to own and operate an Amateur station.

In 2000, there were 230 licensed ham operators in Lebanon, and anyone over 18 years is eligible to acquire a radio amateur license.

Maximum authorised transmitting power is 1,000 watts. The exam is prepared by RAL and is supervised by governmental officials. It comes in three separate parts, which involve multiple choice questions which include theoretical questions on electronics, antennas, and other technical information. Also rules and regulations of amateur radio, and the laws of communication. Also, a test on how to establish a vocal contact over the air.

Their Society is the RAL-- the Radio Amateurs of Lebanon which, like ours represent him or her before the Local authorities and the IARU

Truly an amazing story of how ham radio can survive even in the midst of geo-political problems that have plagued the Middle East for as long as man can remember. (Q-News)

Please do your homework before you curse others. I dont normally spoonfeed others but since you have confused the Star of David

>Do you mean that they move on from Wicca to Judaism? Are you trying >to imply that Jews are more evil than witches?

The 6 faced 6 pointed Hexagram used for incantation is not the same as the star of david... it is used with or without the circle.

"To the Wiccan, the five points of the pentagram represent Air, Fire, Water, Earth and Spirit. Wiccans usually put the symbol in a circle, which has traditionally represented the endless or eternity. The ancient Chinese believed there were five elements (wood, fire, earth, metal, and water), five planets, five seasons, five senses, as well as five basic colors, sounds and tastes. However, the number six seems to have been more enchanting to them than five, for the I Ching uses six as its base number. So does the Star of David, which has six points and is made by overlapping two equilateral triangles. The Star of David is a hexagram but is not used to cast a hex on you. That kind of hex comes from the German word for witch, Hexen, which is related to the Old High German word hagzissa, a hag. Personally, if proportion and geometry are the basis for mystical figures, the hexagram seems much preferable to the pentagram. "
http://skepdic.com/pentagram.html

"The Hexagram -- the Seal of Solomon -- is made by interlacing two triangles, one pointing forward, and the other pointing in such a way as to form a six-pointed star. This has in all ages been one of the most sacred of geometric symbols, representing a number of things; first, in regard to the human soul, it symbolizes Buddhi, the sixth principle, beginning at the bottom going upward. " http://astrosite.com/__Raleigh.htm

Another six sided hexagram is the Unincursive Hexagram . This is designed by Aleister Crowley of the Church of Satan as the symbol of his Order of the Silver Star, Astrum Argentum or AA

Just saw a post in alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman......
Seems that Mattel is designing a prototype Roger Wiseman doll....
Go there and see for yourself.
They probably will not sell many despite the marketing endeavors.
(there are possibilities, though. Use the doll for a VooDoo pincushion, put sharp objects in sensitive areas, use it to plunge a plugged toilet, etc.)
No mention was made of how much the doll would cost, but anything over a three dollar bill would be excessive.

OK, Rog. You should be climbing out of bed any minute now. Of course the first thing you will do is turn on your computer, sans breakfast, and post some sort of filthy response. Let's see...which response will you use? The one you plagiarized two days ago or one that you have archived?
No matter. They are all the same.
Give my regards to Stagger Lee while you are ranting, willya?

Of course. It's exaclty like noting that you're an inbred sister-fucker from Chickenfuck, Alabama, who's alias reveals an undying love of the proto-Nazi Rednecks who fought to keep African-Americans as slaves.
There's nothing wrong with doing either of those things.

AntUians have always been against racism, read the fucking FAQ, moron.
However, the fact that we refrain from using that particularly odious word isn't proof of that. Just as your own elision of the final letters of that word are not proof that you're not the Klan-loving fucKKKhead you plainly are.
Shit, boy, why the hell didn't you just name yourself Nathan Bedford Forest? It'd be only a little less subtle a way for you to reveal your bruning love of the Klan?

I've already gotten over it, you insignificant twat. I've moved beyond a southern identity that requires me to wave that bloody starred-and-barred symbol of evil, beyond a southern identity that requires I identify with the losers and oppressors of a 135-year-old war.
Time for you to join the modern south, dumbfuck. Put away your white sheet, pointy dunce's cap, and tattered grey uniform, fucKKKhead.

Poor FAGGOT owned byroger wisemanLEE .

The ROT13 method of scrambling involves replacing each letter with one that appears 13 characters later in the alphabet. Though this is not secure, as encrypting is, it can be useful for stupidity or offensive information like the ilk of FAGGOT LEE.

POP CULTURE DEPT.

Topic: Harry Potter

How well do you discern the "salt and light" in pop culture? Score one point for each correct answer.

THE SOL O. MANN TOP 10

"The heart of the discerning acquires knowledge; the ears of the wise seek it out." -- Proverbs 18:15

1. Lord Voldemort, an evil wizard, tried to kill the infant Harry.
What king gave orders to kill all boys in Bethlehem and vicinity who were two years old and under, in an attempt to kill Jesus?

2. Connie Neal <www.connieneal.com> writes in "What's a Christian to do with Harry Potter?": "Lily Potter jumped in front of Voldemort's curse to save Harry; Jesus jumped in front of death's curse to save us....When we think of how Voldemort's curse could not kill Harry, the lightning bolt scar on Harry's forehead can symbolize that God cast Satan down like lightning." In what Bible book does Jesus say: "I saw Satan fall like lightning from heaven."

3. Ecclesiates 10:20 states that "a bird on the wing may carry your words, and a bird on the wing may report what you say." What birds are used by witches, wizards and Hogwarts students to carry their mail?

4. Proverbs 1:19 states: "Such is the end of all who go after ill-gotten gain; it takes away the lives of those who get it." What building has the warning engraved on its silver doors: "Enter, stranger, but take heed/ Of what awaits the sin of greed/ For those who take, but do not earn/ Must pay most dearly in their turn..."

5. To get to platform nine and three quarters at King's Cross Station, Hogwarts students walk straight at the barrier between platforms nine and ten without stopping. And just as the barrier is the way to the magical realm of Hogwarts, what's the way to the Father and His house? (John 14:1-7)

6. At Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, Harry is accepted into Gryffindor House "where dwell the brave of heart". What animal is Gryffindor's symbol?

7. The Sorcerer's Stone produces the Elixer of Life, which makes the drinker immortal. In what Bible book does Jesus say, "Indeed, the water I give him will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life."

8. One class taught at Hogwarts is Defense Against the Dark Arts. Who taught the early Christians: "Put on the full armour of God so that you can take your stand against the devil's schemes."

9. In "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire", name one of the carols the suits of armour sang whenever anyone passed them.

10.Who said in his July 14/00 commentary: "The Potter craze reflects the longing in our kids' souls for God." -- George Carey (Archbishop of Canterbury), Chuck Colson (Prison Fellowship) or Andy Rooney ("60 Minutes")?

Answers:

1. King Herod (Matthew 2:13-18)
2. Luke (10:18) Neal continues: "Voldemort's power was broken when Mrs. Potter willingly sacrificed her life for Harry; Satan's power was broken when Jesus died on the cross to sacrifice his life for us....It's helpful to remember this connection to Jesus' sacrificial death and resurrection by making the association between Lily Potter's first name and the Easter lily." See also: Galatians 3:13, John 3:16, I John 4:9-10, Hebrews 2:14-15.
3. owls. The most bird-brained member of the movie cast is Ook the Owl, star of British television, who plays Hedwig the Owl, Harry's personal messenger.
4. Gringotts, the bank run by goblins for wizards. Gringotts is entered off Diagon Alley but located several miles beneath London.
5. Jesus. "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me." (John 14:6). See also: Revelation 3:20 and John 10:9.
6. The lion. John writes in Revelation 5:5a: "Then one of the elders said to me, 'Do not weep! See, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has triumphed.' "
7. John (4:14)

8. Paul, in Ephesians 6:11
9. "It was quite something to hear 'Oh Come, All Ye Faithful' sung by an empty helmet that only knew half the words."
10.Chuck Colson <http://www.gbgm-umc.org/prospect/colson.htm>. "BreakPoint with Chuck Colson" is a daily commentary on news and trends. <http://www.breakpoint.org>

JK: I do believe in God. That seems to offend the South Carolinans more than almost anything else. I think they would find it -- well, that is my limited experience, that they, yeah, they have more of a problem with me believing in God than they would have a problem if I was an unrepentant atheist.

E: You do believe in God.

JK: Yeah. Yeah.

E: In magic and --

JK: Magic in the sense in which it happens in my books, no, I don't believe. I don't believe in that. No. No. This is so frustrating. Again, there is so much I would like to say, and come back when I've written book seven. But then maybe you won't need to even say it ï¿½cause you'll have found out anyway. You'll have read it.

E: But in your own life, I mean, are you a churchgoer?

JK: (Nods) Mmm hmm. Well, I go more than to weddings and christenings. Yes, I do.

E: And in your own life, would the church and that kind of spirituality help you deal with the loss of your mum?

JK: No, actually it didn't at the time. No. (Shakes her head)

E: So you've come back to it.

JK: Yeah, I would say so. I have some problems with conventional organized religion. Some problems. (Long pause) But -- but, yes, it's a place I would go to in a time of trouble. It probably is a place I would go to in a time of trouble. I wouldn't expect it to provide all the answers, 'cause
I would expect to find some of those within me.

E: Right, but the institutional side of it, you know, the rules--

JK: I have certain problems with some aspects of that. Yes I do.

Q: How do you cope with the aggravation from strongly religious people who have reacted against the Harry Potter stories, accusing them of witchcraft?

Rowling: Well, mostly I laugh about it and ignore it. Very occasionally I get annoyed, because these extremist religious folk have missed the point so spectacularly. I think the Harry books are actually very moral, but some people just object to witchcraft being mentioned in a children's book. Unfortunately, if such extremist views were to prevail, we would have to lose a lot of classic children's fiction.

You said you are near Dulles Airport. Here's a few repeaters you may want to try out. There's the NVFMA 440 machine in case you don't have that, 447.025 with a pl of 100. That's in Tyson's Corner. There's one in Silver Spring on 449.025 pl 156.7 that has a 10m side to it as well. There is the NERA system too that is linked to the IRLP. In Northern Virgina, 70cm does not seem to be all that active as far as I can see.

Hey is John A Fiary still struggling in that northern Indiana fifth-rate college? 'Course, Indiana never had ANY colleges that was first rate, since it's a shit-laden state to begin with.

"Joanie" <NoBallz@Kimball.com> being the welfare recipient he is, is in dire need of food for Thanksgiving holidays. Usually, after consuming a few cases of Old Mil, he staggers over to that filthy stove/oven and puts in a frozen tv dinner, (hungry man turkey naturally) and passes out only to find he burnt his "dinner" to a crisp. He eats it anyways, becuase, quite frankly, he'll eat anything. Joanie will be dining alone, since his blackballing from all family activities keeps him a hermit. They just couldn't stand his smell any longer. He has no "significant other" save the faithful pet and sex partner the mongrel hunting dog he picked up at the animal shelter. So we all need to open our hearts and our wallets to send this poor, wretched soul some little something for Thanksgiving. Maybe, just maybe, it'll be enough to lift his spirits and he'll go back into drug rehab.

Another religious screwball loose. Sees evil in the Potter books. What nonsense. Look fool; there is no Satan-got it? It's a crock made up by Christianity. There's no heaven or hell, especially purgatory and all that jazz. Souls? Should be spelled soles and go great with a bit of lemon on them.
Potter is pure imagination and from what I hear and read, is sensational. No kid or adult will be condemned to the fires of hell for reading or seeing it. Give credit when due. The lady author was a single mom on welfare. She had an idea, scribbled it down and became a multimillionaire thanks to imagination. That's pure talent, pal. God is proud of that lady!

When I was a novice (circa 1971) there was a movie about an armored car company heist in New York. Living next to the company was a young teen male in a wheel chair that called for help on his HW-101. That is all I remember about the movie, and can't remember the name. Sure would like to see the movie again. At 15, I thought the HW-101 was the cat's meow!

Hi all you male hams. I'm looking for a new playmate, as my son Stevie who used to come visit me and fuck me up the ass feels he has to spend time on his farm with the livestock. I raised that little turd Stevie up from just when he poked his malformed head out my ass, and after all those years of bathing him and helping him through his cocaine addiction now he leaves me high and dry (literally). He didn't have much to sassify a Good remarks regarding the "potter" stories Doc. But you fell off the damn horse when you said

"There's no heaven or hell,". Is that like saying that there is no good or evil. Well, we both know better than that. Don't we! Where you get your hate for Christianity is beyond me. But I forgive you.
:-) Don't get confused Doc by those sects, cults, organizations, etc that use the "name" of Christianity to hide behind or justify some perverted teaching or way of thinking.

Sounds like that kid's brain you met at the local RS was still reeling over last evening's Rave Dance he attended if you ask me!

I SERIOUSLY DOUBT that Radio Shack is going to stop selling loose packaged electronic components. If they do, it will be the greatest marketing blunder since Coca-Cola introduced it's "new formula" a few Years ago and IBM's introduction of the MCA bus in the (thankfully dead!) PS/2 product line.

If Radio Shack is going to stop selling components they will become nothing more than an overpriced copy of Circuit City and will go down the tubes to full scale Chapter 11 Bankruptcy in less than 2 Years.

Count on it. Mark it in the book. Sell your RS stocks now!

I have a Kenwood TR-7950 2-meter mobile with an ailing LCD display.
After about 20 minutes on, it starts to wash out, till it becomes barely readable. Turn it off 10 minutes, it comes back on fine, but it is a nuisance, so does anyone have a display for sale, or a parts rig with a working LCD? Thanks.

Low volume. That little remaining pegboard corner (they used to have 20 feet of wall space dedicated to components) will make a nice spot for a cell-phone display or fried-chicken or something else more popular than simple parts that 'nobody' buys.

Over here in the UK, Radio Shack were known as Tandy. They used to sell quite a lot of components. About ten or so years ago the volume of these items in their product "mix" started to decline. Other items took over such as Cellphones, HiFi etc. In the UK they never sold amateur radio TRX equipment only CB stuff and some scanners. About three years ago most if not all of the stores were bought up by a Cellphone retailer. They stayed as Tandy for a while but most if not all are AFAIK just Cellphone stores trading under the new companys name.

Why do you think it is the LCD screen and not a component driving the LCD screen that if experiencing a value change due to heat?

If I were troubleshooting, I would look for a component in the LCD driving schematic (dropping resistor for voltage, contrast adjustment on display, etc.) for thermal problem.

It was more than just a marketing blunder. They had invited Mucrosoft to jointly develop the operating system for the PS/2 systems. No prizes for guessing that OS/2 was mucked up so badly that it was not ready for the launch of the PS/2 systems.

Considering that the markup on those parts is more than anything else that they sell, it would definitely be a mistake. Don't just sell RS stock, short it!

Unicursal (ie. "drawn with a single line") not Unincursive.

The Church of Satan was founded in the 60's by Lavey. Crowley was not connected with it. Nor does the CoS use the unicursal hexagram, but rather the "Leviathan" sigil - the one-point-down pentagram with the goat's head overlaid on the star.

The sigil of the AA uses a heptagram (star of seven points) reflected from every second point, forming 7 obtuse angles...reflect it from every third point and you get one with seven acute angles.

Kinda sucks. I was just at RS picking up a few components yesterday to finish a project. Good thing I have an Active Component in the area.

www.digikey.com is a great source as well.

I understand that "Shelf Space" Is important to make more bang for the buck.

But unfortunatly RS is slowly molding themselves into just high priced RCA retailer.

Would like a Cell Phone with that ?

Of course - even my very Christian second-grader knows this.

Of course, some people who seem to gravitate toward "deep" religion bigger problems in wait than Harry Potter!

And all of the "modern" RCA (Thompson) stuff today is Made in China and is ABSOLUTE JUNK.
Check with any TV repair shop and ask them about RCA or GE or Proscan or Realistic and all of them will tell you to stay away from it like it was infected with HIV or similar.
Even the new Consumer Reports 2002 buying guide ranks RCA at the top of the list for repairs returns.

A nice reasonably priced alternative to RS is either MCM Electronics or Mouser Electronics. Shipping is fast and reasonable and they will sell to the public too.
Their Catalogs are decent too.

I haven't heard anything about a reduction in parts, but I have been a faithful purchaser of Radio Shack batteries. I have been involved in the battery club, because you buy three packs of batteries and you get 30% off the purchase. Also, every third purchase, you get either a free 2 pack or 4 pack of batteries.
I went into the local RS and they told me that at the end of the year, they are no longer offering the battery club and that they weren't allowing anyone to take advantage of the 30% off at that time.
I thought the guy was full of S, but after talking with a friend that works at a RS in another city, I have found that it is true. That sucks.

Guy P. Distaffen:

you are not alone my friend, we all grieve the loss of the Radio Shack Battery club. but alas we have our fond memories. i used to proudly walk into Rat Shack... and grab a pack of their puke green colored AA's... then i'd go to the register. after they asked me for my name, phone number, blood and urine samples, i would reach into my wallet with glee and announce that i have my trusty battery club membership card. while they were busy with it and scamming me about how they don't have anymore catalogs, i would insert the AA's into my walkman. i would purposely turn up the music so as to not hear their latest excuse of how aliens sabbotaged the machines at their catalog manufacturing facility. i would then turn and walk towards the door... sometimes, if i was real lucky and God was merciful, those batteries would still be working when i got to my car. membership. ah yes, it had its privledges.

With Mouser its best to purchase online, or at least verify stock online. Your order can easily get divided up in pieces because of occasional backorders and if the original order said priority mail, then you'll be getting one-off parts later at $3.50 minimum shipping each.

Tandy is based here in Fort Worth, and they do some strange stuff, there are large buildings here that are setting empty, because they abandoned the product line these were making, they started some other conpanys then closed them, not buying competition to close them, starting them themself and then closing them, so it is no telling what the genus behind Tandy is up to now.

FYI: Northern Alliance is today supposed to be disarming the population of Kabuul. Those who don't give up their weapons will be arrested/shot/jailed. I wonder how long it will be before GWB has turn around and treat them like the Taliban? The nooz folks have yet to point out a lot of these people fought for the Communists in the last big Afghan war. The whole F-N Country of Afganistan is one huge rock pile that looks like 50 Years after an atomic war blasted it to shit. Mix in a couple hundred thousand bearded, horny, camel and young male homo-butt plugging quasi-religious fanatics and you got the big picture of what the place is like. A giant sandbox/rockpile filled with unwashed males badly in need of some poontang or same or camel sex - doesn't matter 2 them. (ITN news repored that young male cameramen were propositioned for gay sex by Northern Alliance soldiers several times during a recent visit)

Yes, there is a set of continuous reports and forecasts running at all times. Each one gets updated periodically through the day and plugged into a timed sequencer. The old Bingamtom (NY) office had audio loop tape cartridges, just like the commercial radio stations use for ads and announcements. I haven't been in the new facility to see what they are using.

NOAA broadcasts continuous weather repoerts, usualyl with a synthesized voice. The weather alerts are only proceeded with an alert tone, that unmutes equipped receivers and sounds a loud alarm. Once activated, these receivers need to be reset for the next alert.

Exactly, and this was the original purpose of the system years before any alerting feature was added. (Incidentally, NOAA Weather Radio was originally intended for marine users, both pleasure boats and commercial vessels; that's why it is in a band near the VHF marine band, so that it could be received on marine radios. The system was expanded to cover other areas after Radio Shack introduced its first Weatheradio in the early 1970s.)

Yes. It's typically a combination of local conditions and forecasts, and repeats (with occasional updates) every few minutes. Places near the ocean or large bodies of water will typically have marine advisories and include things like wave period and amplitude at various bouys.

Another big advantage to Mouser or Digikey is their wide selection of products, and no cheap junk parts that only work "sometimes". Even if you only need a simple ceramic cap, they offer it to you from several different manufacturers, none of which are Taiwanese junk.

Not only that, what you don't really hear much is that the "withdrawal" of the Taliban consists both of fighters moving out of the territory, as well a large proportion of fighters changing sides to the Northern Alliance.

Dang, you're a laugh riot. FWIW, he's smart enough to lead a normal life. If you met him, you'd swear he was the happiest kid in the world, socially adept, smart, full of humor, thoughtful, wise beyond his years and considerate (for a 7-year old). My experience with Texas Towers out of Plano, TX

Hello all. My Name is Brent and my call is N9BC. I would like to tell everyone about my experience with Texas Towers. On Monday 10/15/2001 I decide to buy an ICOM 706mk2g. After scouring the net I found that Texas Towers seem to beat everyone by about 30 bucks. So I went and gave them a call mid afternoon to place the order. Someone picks up I believe his name was Brian. He was very pleasant to talk deal with. The deal they advertised was $869 with free shipping sounded like a good deal so I opped for the over night shipping for an extra $33 still not a bad deal! So I finished up the order and hung up.

All night and a good part of the next morning I was all excited about getting the rig. About 9:30am it gets here WHA HOO!! Open the box up start taking out the parts to the radio. So far so good next the rig. Take it out of the plastic what do I see a BIG black bloch across the LCD. I was horrified! I couldn't believe it. After a few choice words out loud. I called Texas Towers to let them know. They asked if the box was damaged it wasn't so they said it must of happened at the factory. So he said ship it back and they will ship me a new one. I said I guess so. So I hung up.

I sat there looking at the broken radio and decide to call them back to see if they would overnight me a new radio if I overnight this thing back. Got Brian back on the phone he said he needs to talk to the boss. 2 sec later he said sorry no can do. I'm like what? You are kidding me! Nope if you would like it shipped back to you overnight you will have to pay for it. So I said ok thanks and hung up.

Off to UPS I go. I get there and ship the thing back to them overnight. So that is another $33. I get to work a few min later. Sitting at my desk festering about the whole deal. I call them back and ask for the manager. He gets on the phone. I tell him the whole story and he said no sir we can't do it we don't make very much on the radio that is why we are the cheapest on the net. I said if you ship it back to me overnight I will do business with you again in fact I will place an order of $400 today with you. Still he wouldn't do it. So I do the good ol' saying I will never do business with you again. And hung up the phone. Boy was I mad! Now it is Friday and still no radio and I really wanted it for the weekend. So I broke down and told them to ship it to me overnight with Sat delivery another $45 for shipping. Got it on Sat as I was on my way down to AES to get the rest of the order. I sure wish I would have just bought it from AES to begin with.

Anyways I would never recommend TEXAS TOWERS to anyone. So beware they have no customer service what so ever! CS is very important to a business apparently they don't believe so.

Thanks for reading,

Brent

It is just good salesmanship... that's why they should have overnighted the replacement. If the customer isn't happy, ain't nobody happy. That is what I learned in the retail business some years ago.

I ordered a radio from Gigaparts. They said the radio would be shipped the next day. Two days later I check with them to get my tracking number and the radios didn't come in so they could ship them to me. They offered to send the radio out 2nd day UPS. Which the shipping department screwed up on and sent them ground. I called them back and he offered to send me two radios over night and to just refuse the first two. Would most companys do that??? The guy I deal with promised me a deal on my next order to make up for the problem. About a month later I ordered another radio from them. The man I deal with wasn't in so somebody else took the order to give to him since he didn't know our deal. Somebody screwed up the order and they sent it out COD. After they tried to deliver the radio COD I called them back. They overnighted a check to pay for the radio. They have screwed up twice but have done anything the could to make it right.

They would have kept my business if they would of even met me half way on the shipping. is it too much to ask for? Even if they didn't make a hugh profit on the last sale I'm sure the would have made it up for it over the next few months from me. Now I don't mind driving down 1 1/2 hrs to AES. In the last month 1/2 I've sent down there a good $700. Just for grins I ask the salesman at AES if the same thing happened to me with them would they of shipped it back overnight. He said of course we would have. We shipped a defective product. Sure sounds like they have their act together.

I dont want this to turn into a big flame. I just wanted people to hear me about my experience with Texas Towers.

i have a real hero. he grew up poor. as a teenager he went off to fight people like you Lloyd... hitler's idiot nazis. after the war he became an engineer and spent a career building weapons for the US government. when growing up this man taught me many lessons, one of which was that a person should be judged by his actions and not his skin color. this thanksgiving i am thankful for the men and women who defend our freedom: those in the armed services and those whose hard worked and sweat is often unseen and unknown.

yeah, right

I hear that line all the time in the transmission business, usually from big companies:

"Give us a price break on the first one and we'll send you all our business"

then, guess what? they conveniently forget that the first one was at a 'special price' and want that price for ALL of them.

sorry, man, you got what you paid for.

Once again, I want to express to you some of the things I'm thankful for.

First and foremost, I am thakful for being WHITE. I could have been born of some third-world vermin, but God in his mercy let me be WHITE.

I am thankful God saved me in 1984. That's when I accepted Jesus Christ as my peronal Lord and Savoiur.

I am Thankful I live in The United States of America. Again, God could have allowed me to be born in the darkest of Africa, or in a Muslim nation.

I am Thankful for people like Hal Turner, Kevin Strom, Prophet Stair and Herbie, KV4FZ. They are the ones I hold as heroes. Without them, I could not be where I am today, learning what it is to be proud of what I am.

I am Thankful for all of my shortwave radios. My ATS-909 by my bed. My RX-320 hooked to my computer. My DX-440 and DX-392, my "stand-by" Radios. Also, my 2 scanners. And last, but not least, my two TINY-TENNAS!

I hope that you have a good Thanksgiving. This post is not designed to foster hate, but it reflects what I am thankful for. Sorry you are too liberal minded to see that.

Lloyd.

Hi Brett..

.. Sad experience snipped .. but not in jest here .. just for space

>Brent

>N9BC

I have known Gerald, his son, daughter, and the group for MANY years. This family is a top notch very capable and very sincere group. I've dealt with them in person at the store, in person at the hamfests, by phone, by mail and via shipments, you name it; we've done business together. I've sat down to dinner with the man in Richardson, even been invited to his antenna farm out Northeast of Dallas.

That full sized three element rotary array up there at 190-odd feet run by a large prop pitch that uses 105 feet of Rohn 25G for a boom and 4 inch irrigation pipe is a beautiful job, But you have to know a little more about it to really know about this man and how much respect most people I know have for him. It's the SECOND time that array has been put up there Brent.

The first time it went up, Gerald had help from the local crew. As you can imagine, playing that game with 130 foot elements and the equivalent of Rohn 65-G for the tower isn't exactly lightweight stuff. And the man on top the stack IS the boss on tower work like this, if you've ever been there Brent, for good or for horror. Things do go wrong,,,

As I understand how it happened, Gerald got in trouble with the last Phillystran guy and didn't have the right thimble bolt to attach the guy run to the tower top. So he used a Rohn 55G tower leg bolt on what he told me was a 'temporary' basis, just to get down the tower and finish that day, Everyone was dog tired, enough is enough. I'm sure from your post that you know the feeling...

But he forgot about going back up that 195 feet to replace that substitute bolt with the right one. And Texas isn't very nice weather wise at some times of the year. Along came that massive frontal passage and .. that tower leg bolt snapped and down came the whole thing, tower and all. I'm sure, from your post, that you know the feeling, maybe from a different perspective, but you do have a way to relate to this.

If you happen to be on the place, there is a section of tower still plugged into the ground at a crazy angle where it augered in. Gerald said he left it there just to remind himself of his mistake. And, yes, that whole thing went up again a SECOND time. But not quite so much in the grand show as round one.

For, as I understand it, in 'payback' for all the wasted time and effort Gerald caused the local crew, by not going up and taking care of making it right the first time, as I was told, he, with only the help of one other feller on the ground, put round two up all by himself to make it right with his own insides for what he caused on round one. This is the kind of man and family you are dealing with Brent. He is a horribly honorable man and a prize contributor to an awful lot of people in this hobby Brent.

You need to know a little more about the profitability in business, in general, before you can fairly judge some things like this. Most people do not know that over the last 50 years or so in the USA, the average bottom line profit for all businesses is only about seven cents (7 pennies!) on the dollar at the end of a year. That includes GM, IBM, Ford, a whole bunch of dot.com's that lost tons of money, mom and pop grocery stores and folks like you and I and Gerald! It's rough out there Brent; bottom line on a $600 radio isn't over $40, if that. Ten years ago when money meant a little more something, I knew that Gerald needed an average of over $8000 a day on that 1-800 watts line, just to break even! And that's not to turn a profit, just a wash.

It takes about $350,000 worth of equipment sales just to pay either someone else or yourself only $24,000 a year, Brent. Oh sure there are great deals and high proced time and all that. But bottom line is that the old interest rate figure on the US Government long bond is there at that rate for a real reason! Free enterprise does have it's rewards, but Socialism is right there just under it to always think it can do it better, friend Brent! Huge grin!

More important, you have to realize the reverse is true! If you lose a $600 radio and don't get paid for it at all, at seven cents a dollar net to the bottom line, you will have to sell almost $9000 worth of new sales just to break even with what was lost! That $40 loss taken three times in the shuffle on your deal would mean someone has to do almost $2000 in new business down there just to pay for it.

In the average business here in the USA, even if a minimum wage employee poofs away one $7 hour or so, it takes $100 through the register just to recover that, what at first, looks like such a trivial deal. Yeah I know, you'll say you don't believe all this with what doctors and lawyers and Indian Chief's all make and so on, but, sadly, it is true.

A whole series of events in the world that are rather scary are teaching this lesson of bottom line profitabilty to a lot more folks right now. It is so easy to not realize just how thin the ice all humanity skate on; is. Even though the numbers are in the billions, the percentage of what's left over is still the same, still the same.

As far as I know from many years of dealing with Gerald, this man has done everything possible to put back every cent of what his family has ever managed to wrench out of life, back into something that will bring a better day and a better world for everyone around them. And I used the proper term in what it has taken them to stay functional.

I had a similar experience with a brand new FT-1000 I bought from him! It had a dead output RF amplifier section on arrival, right out of the box! But knowing what I've attempted to convey to you above, I gladly paid for the shipping and all, both ways. I found, as I usually do, that, as it has been long 'Fabled' grin, even the smallest kindness never goes un-noticed. He's long since contributed back to me far more than that I spent to help him.. Far more...

An electrically short monopole or dipole exhibits capacitive reactance.
A 1/4WL monopole or 1/2WL dipole exhibits no reactance at resonance.
Between 1/4WL and 1/2WL a monopole exhibits inductive reactance.
Between 1/2WL and 1WL a dipole exhibits inductive reactance.
Monopole statements assume a proper ground plane.

do a little thought experiment. Play like an electron at various points on a dipole as the cycle goes up and down. Wire a virtual ammeter to the feedpoint and a virtual voltmeter to the tip to the feedpoint. Start with resonance and work with too long and too short. Remember electrons repel each other as they gather at the tip.

You will find that a short antenna is a capacitive load and a too long one an inductive load. The idea is that current and voltage do get out of phase, current leading in the short or capacitive load and lagging in the long or inductive load just as they do with lumped values.

The proof is left to the student :-)

You forgot to be thankful for the trailer you live in. Probably a single wide, I'm guessin. More than enough room for one big piece of white trailer trash to sit in. Happy Thanksgiving, Turkey!!

Sorry folks,
I am new to this group, do not know Lloyd, or the people he refers to, but I have to make some observations:
1) I too am thankful I am white. I could have been born another race and suffered far more than I have. That doesn't mean I hate others who are not white.
2) I was found the Lord in 1971. That doesn't make me a bigot.
3) I too am thankful I live in the U.S.. We , in many respects, have it easy.
God bless us always.
4) I have no idea who those people are......
5) I too am thankful for my radios because they give me a look at the way the rest of the world thinks. My ex hated my radios. My ex has my kids. My radios help.
6) I am amazed at the hatred put forth towards this guy, Lloyd. I was always taught: "hate the sin, not the sinner". What's the difference between his hate and yours?
7) I REALLY hope that you all have a happy, reflective Thanksgiving and Christmas. We all could have it worse.

Like Fred said, I make you dance like clumsy Russian bears.

"I have to hand it to Roger as somehow having the magical ability to compel you all to open, read and respond to his posts, and to make you quite amusing."

You seem to be falling in the fold that takes LLLLoyd as our token idiot in spite of your previous post wondering why he gets picked on.
Poor LLLLoyd is like a fading signal on an s-meter. He ranges from "I'm at the suicide point and I repent" to the "I'm gonna kick everybody's ass". But the common thread is that he never speaks of his own mind, there's always a reference to the latest nutcase he has found listening to on his radio.
He's the capital 'S' in the word sheep and will ultimately be a casualty.
A few months on this group and you will tire of his shenanigans.
Efforts to save his ass will result in nothing more than complaints to your ISP.
LLoyd is a poster-boy for nutcases...radical, well-thought-out opinions are not unwelcome here, but sheer crap-babbling and parroting have defined him.

Has anyone noticed that Lloyd seems to go in cycles?

For months at a time he's unbearable, then he gets better to the point he's almost reasonable, then he gets bad again.

I wonder if we're dealing with a manic-depressive, here.

Oh, and my name is Gray Shockley.

And your buddies in the FBI and CIA already know it, plant boy. However, I would imagine that they think of you as a "frail vessel" but "useful".

You and your [whatever] Hal Turner make me glad I'm part AmerInd.

And to you two - and any others who would take the USA back to petty, hate-mongering and murderous behavior - this is repeated:

A Parable For Our Times (Prop 187)
From: carm@cs.UMD.EDU (Richard Chimera)

As we're beginning to make plans at our house for Thanksgiving dinner, I was drawn to ponder the historical roots of this very American celebration. The Pilgrims, having barely survived a dangerous passage from their homelands, came to America to find liberty and to begin new lives. But suddenly they found themselves facing a winter with not enough food to feed their children. They might have died.

But then the inhabitants of the land, seeing their plight and having compassion, brought them food and provisions and helped them to survive the cruel winter.

This, of course, was a bleeding-heart misguided waste of the crops that the average hard-working Indian had toiled all spring and summer to raise for his own family. These illegal immigrants who couldn't speak the language and were too lazy or too stupid to even bother to grow enough food to support themselves instead threw themselves on the already strained social service system. Instead of just cutting them off and so encouraging them to just go back home to their own countries, the Indians, in a truly misguided screw-up, encouraged these disruptive elements and rewarded their laziness.

The results of this foolish policy are clear. The initial trickle of illegal aliens from Europe turned into a flood pouring onto the continent. Murder rates in North America skyrocketed as these foreigners came in greater and greater numbers, with the number of native Americans murdered by gun-toting Europeans climbing every year. They brought in disease and pestilence and spread it among the previously healthy population. These immigrants never did bother learn the language or the culture of their newly adopted homeland and it eventually led to the destruction of the fabric of Native American society and of Native American civilization as we knew it.

The major contribution of "whites" such as Hal Turner and Lloyd Davies to North America?

And I'm sure there are countless citizens of the third world - many of whom live in the most horrid conditions of poverty and squalor - who nevertheless thank whatever god or gods they pray to that they aren't YOU.

You have a point. Since the only opinions you hold are those given to you by others, I suppose you have no choice but to feel gratitude to those who have "programmed" you. If you didn't have people in your life to tell you what to think, you would have no thoughts at all. (We can only hope!)

I know that you especially hate those of the Jewish faith, but I'm sure Doc would confirm that you are a perfect example of what is known in Hebrew folklore as a "golem".

To the contrary Lloyd. Politically, I'm about as conservative as they come. It is precisely because I love the United States of America and all it stands for, that I feel shame and embarrassment whenever I read your mindless, hate-filled ramblings on these newsgroups - posted for all the world to see.

I pray that the day comes when you truly do permit the Spirit of God to enter into your heart and purge you of the many mental and emotional demons that seem to plague you.

I was actually in there yesterday (physically). Keep in mind that this is a VERY small group of people trying to eek out a living. Thier show room is probably 20'x35'. Even though everyone looks the same size on the web, they are not that big and were probably doing thier best with the margin they have available.

If you're so fucking interested, ask Riley. Fact is, I passed it, but YOU still have to pass it the FIRST time. Or are you afraid to? Hell you've been trying for over 9 years to pass 5 w.p.m. code.
Maybe it's because with that meager salary you earn supposedly "fixing" computers and shilling stolen outdated parts you couldn't afford a rig if you saved for 10 years.

I never talked to "Ruthie," and which "gang of thugs" are you referring to? Anybody would be better than who YOU associate with, Lardass Lllllllllloyd. let's see, Strom, subversive and wife-beater, Turdeater, he got a letter, too, Boob Youngblood, read police and credit reports over the air until Riley spanked him off the air, Polly Parrot, who got a warning letter, Herbie, lost his license and is now being investigated by Riley according to the Rain Report. Who else, well, the rest of the BARF weren't too lily white, either. Yep, you've got some real fine associates, there, Lllllllllllllloyd.

That's your problem, Lardass Lllllloyd, is that you don't give a shit. But you pretend to be a high and mighty so-called christian.

If I got "caught," then why didn't it say so in the letter? Reread the letter above and see if Riley mentions anything about being "caught."

What's "pratice," you ill-educated lardass? "I think not?" Fuck, you don't think AT ALL.

Otherwise, you wouldn't be one of Turner's or Stair's sheep. And your transmitting on bands you have no license for isn't exactly good amateur "practice,"<sic> either, Lardass Llllllllloyd.

> least I went to school.

Did you? We haven't seen any evidence of it. That "school" you went to is on par with not going at all.

> Any education is better than a West Virginia one.

Oh, the irony.
I wouldn't know about WV education, you slobbering fuckwit, I moved out of WV when I was 5 years old. All my secondary and post-secondary schooling are the product of other states. You, on the other hand, are the product of a couple of mutants who sent their IDIOT son to college and all he got was a "computer certificate." That says a hell of a lot about you, Lllllllllardass Llllllllllloyd.

And I really pity the poor schmucks that have to depend upon you to fix their system box. They aren't too bright or they'd pick somebody who knows what the fuck they are doing instead of somebody with a cheap-ass "certificate," who doesn't know their way around a motherboard. Ol' Lllllardass Llllllloyd is still struggling with the concept of bits and bytes, aren't you Lllllllllloyd?

I'm impressed. To be able to do all that while having schizophrenia, which

Nevertheless, now is the time to be honest with him and explain that Christianity is a big lie and complete nonsense. You owe him that much, because at some time in the future the Christian disease might overcome his intelligence and he

I still think you should try to find out how he became infected so that other

In some cases, such as Christianity, it is justified.

Not purging the Christian disease from your son amounts to child abuse.

Dateline Hiram, Ga. - - - Holding an Old Milwaukee beer in one hand and a CB microphone in the other, the rotund Dimmy emerged from his hovel this morning to find his trash can gone.
A note was left in place of the trash can, saying that the can had been repossessed for late payments.....looks like Dimmy will once have to begin heaping his beer cans on a pile he jokingly calls
"Mount Aluminum."

I have a Kenwood TS-180S HF rig that needs some repair work.

I would like some feedback from the group, please.

What repair shops are recommended?

What shops should I avoid?

Wrong, he didn't get what he paid for. He paid to get a WORKING rig the next day. He did not get it. He got a broken rig. Why should he have to pay AGAIN for overnight shipping. Plus, how often do you here the excuse, "It's not our fault, its the manufacture's fault." They are the ones I you paid your money to.
Bottom line, Texas Towers did not live up to their agreement. From the original post I also gather he had to pay return shipping for an out of the box defective product! What a rip off.

Consumers should always verify the following:
1. The actual return policy.
2. Verify with UPS, FedEx, etc what the ACTUAL shipping charge would be.
This is where a lot of mail order places really make their money, over charging shipping.

This is not just a Texas Tower problem. It is nation wide. Buisnesses now think that they are donig YOU the favor just to take your money.

Speaking of transmission buisness. Why is my price ,off the street, for a transmission DOUBLE what is charged to other parts houses, garages, etc? Mine went out and the cheapest I could find was $2850. My nephew was the manager of an Auto Zone, He called tha same place and bought it for me at his price, $1400. No wonder there is such a market for chopped/stolen auto parts. The real theives are behind the parts counter.

Three weeks ago, I e-mailed both Texas Towers and AES and asked what they wanted for an Outbacker Perth, a Tri magnet mount and shipping. I received an automated reply from AES immediately confirming my message and saying they would reply within 3 working days. 48 hours later I had a reply from AES, I sent them a money order for the gear and less than one week later was using the Outbacker (great antenna!!). Guess what? I still haven't received a reply from Texas Towers! I think they need to work on customer service.

Without a doubt, RS is directionless. I still own some stock and its going to be sold soon. The quality is low and the prices are high. That RCA junk that they sell now is crap. bought two items in the past year and a half, and both had to be repaired. The DVD player broke for a second time so I junked it. Cost more to repair. Without parts there will just be no reason to go there anymore. I suspect RS will be gone from the scene in about five years. Anybody want to make a bet on that?

You could have been a prick. And you should have told the manager that.

You could have called them up, ordered ANOTHER rig and paid for overnight.

Then you could have taken the first rig back to UPS, and shipped it ground to them with an RMA and refused the first rig on your credit card as received defective.

I've dealt with people who just don't get it, and pull 'technicalities' on customers like this.

Then I've also dealt with companies that if it isn't right, have a replacement
ON THE WAY immediately, at their expense.

I had an order from Everything Wireless in Florida go bad last fall when I tried to get a GPS. Know what? Once they realized it, THEY offered next day air, AND threw in a car kit for free.

I had UPS loose a weather station I ordered from TAPR. Know what happened? TAPR as soon as they realized it dropped another one to me immediately, with an email that if the first one shows up to please send it back...

Now, you can deal with people who treat you right, or you can deal with people who SAY they give you a deal, but then fall back and whine if something goes wrong. Sometimes that little bit extra you pay IS worth it. And a lot of times, you don't even have to pay that little bit extra.

Thing is, I've heard stories about Texas Towers before, from way back in the 1980's when I first got my ticket when I lived in Ft Worth.

Some things never change.

If you're REALLY such a good friend, why don't you print out the original posting, take it to him, and say "HEY!! You FED UP on customer service! What are you going to do about it?"

Now, his reaction may be he takes the letter, looks into it, and at LEAST someone gets a letter of apology.

Care to do it and post here what happens?

Sorry Dennis, but if someone doesn't want to run a business that's responsible to the customer, fine. But if someone takes my money for a service or a product, I think I'm fairly justified in expecting that I GET that service or product.

Or is that something unreasonable?

Unfortunately, it seems that to some dealers it is. They don't want to sell. They don't want to offer service. They just want to sit on their lazy ass and be clerks that take money as you walk out the door.

I've had nothing but great experiences with Texas Towers with the exception of one case where they shipped me a microphone with the wrong connector. They do have the best prices and I'd hate to see them go out of business. You should understand that the ham radio market isn't that lucrative in the first place. The fact that they're willing to return the radio to the manufacturer for you seems to me to be very generous on their part. The defect was the manufacturer's fault, not theirs. If they wanted to, they could have just told to to deal with the manufacturer yourself. Technically, once you open the box, you own the radio and any problems it may have.

It sounds like everyone was asking for trouble on this one. A Comm company (2-way sales-service-installations) I used to work for fully supported amateur radio because there were several hams working there, but we would always have to put on our hard hats and fire suits. We were always expected to give custom service for below the advertised basic rate, even though custom work could cost us several times more than the bread and butter commercial install. Issues like custom placement and mounts, routing of wiring and cabling, additional equipment and multiple radios and interference issues could take a 30 minute job into hours or even weeks if special orders were required.

Remember that Murphy, and the inevitable diabolical perversity of inanimate objects will always plague us. Truly TT could have handled this better, but someone shopping for price should always consider staying within the margins of an invariably limited system that allows for a tighter margin.

Remember the I Love Lucy episode with Lucy on the assembly line?

I have a McDonald's story that illustrates this concept too. I wanted extra catsup on my Big Mac at the drive through window, and they instantly shifted into special customer mode. They pointed me to a waiting area to park my custom car and advised me that someone would assist me momentarily. Fifteen minutes later someone walked out to serve me my Big Mac with extra catsup on a tray. I didn't have the heart to tell them all I wanted was a couple extra packets!

I think you're flat out wrong with that statement. Here in mass there's a warrantee of what I think is called 'implied merchantability' or something.
Anyway, places can put up all the signs they want, but if it's unusable at the time of delivery, unless it was sold 'as-is', they HAVE to take it back.

As to mail order with a credit card, all a user has to say is it was defective on delivery. It just don't matter, again unless it was 'as-is' up front.

Texas Towers is selling merchandise that is implied to be new in the box and usable upon receipt. Hey, it's not their fault if someone gets something bad from a manufacturer.

But it SURE AS HELL IS THEIR RESPONSIBILITY.

Should the customer take care of the problem? Why should he? HE didn't make a profit on selling the item, the SELLER did. If the seller claims he won't make money, as one person alluded, I'd have to ask, is he THAT STUPID to be in the business? Come on here. Your attitude that it's the buyers responsibility is BULL DROPPINGS!

If YOU are in a retail business with this attitude I sure as hell don't want to do ANY kind of business with your store!.

I'm about 200 miles from the place, will be in there sometime in the next two months! However the post was not to expand on what and if and so on, only to show how difficult it is make things work - all the time.

However, for either of us to take the time to hash it all out between us, is going to be yet another X bucks worth of time for both of us, which, might get an answer posted here in a couple of months..

I doubt that would really be useful.

I understand both sides of the issue.

In one business in which I'm a principal, but a non-control one, the controlling principal's desk has a collection of bad checks in it totally over $125,000 US in the stack. These were all accumulated over some 20 years or so, and include instruments from probably 20 different states. And that has nothing to do with the myriad of paper schemes and whatever which go back and forth to get someone a 'better deal', when it really ought not to be.

From experience, it has taken us probably $2,000,000 just to cover that loss above. And the pile includes everything from just plain checks, to Cashier's Checks, and even to bank paper which blew up when the bank folded between the time we took it and the thing hit!

If I were to take it to Gerald, I'd likely find that there is a personality difference between the people which is the focal point. Our research at the same origanization above indicates that over 75% of all these sort of things are really driven by personality clashes one way or another. Even if I got an answer for you, it would be difficult to convey all the meaning and the emotions.

In order to share a value judgment, each party must have some experience in common to do so. That's often very hard to do in cases like this. I posted my reply to try to create that common link, no more; no less.

I would agree that Texas Towers has the best prices, but who wants to wait a week or two for a back order. I called about a Yaesu FT-1000MP Mk V ($2498 plus $25 shipping) great deal From Texas Towers. ($2549 shipped) from AES. I got it 2 days later from AES. I paid $24 more, but I didn't have to wait.

Since TT sent a defective product they should bear all expense for making it right, even if it means they do not make a profit on this one. I knew the owner of TT when it first began in business years ago and the owner was never known for treating customers with courtesy. Don't know if it is still under the same ownership but what happened to this customer was not uncommon.

OK, everyone is entitled to make a profit, but when you screw up with the customer, forget the profit and make things right, it's called customer service. And by the way, I have seen Geralds's very negative side with customers many times.

So I guess everyone who buys for him is pegged as a buyer shopping for price....amazing! Do you think that is why he offers a lower price? To get customers to purchase from him maybe? Isn't that something called competition? When a defective product is delivered, the supplier should make it right at no further expense to the customer, profit or no profit.

On item #2, realize the costs of shipping are more than just what UPS, etc. charge. Packing materials, labor, paperwork, etc., are also shipping costs.

I agree some places do get carried away with shipping/handling charges, but don't ask them to ship just for the UPS/FedEx fee.

As some of the other posters have indicated, there is not much information with this question. The answer depends mostly on two things: 1) How electrically short is the antenna? and 2) What type of antenna?

When an antenna is truly electrically small, it generally exhibits the behavior of an electrically small loop or an electrically small dipole.

As the operating frequency decreases below its primary resonance, a dipole or monopole antenna will exhibit decreasing radiation resistance (it approaches zero) and increasing capacitive reactance (it approaches negative infinity) - it is capacitive.

A loop antenna behaves differently. As the operating frequency decreases below the loop's primary series resonance, it will first exhibit capacitive behavior until a point where it exhibits an anti-resonance - the radiation resistance and reactance are very high and the reactance quickly becomes inductive. With further decreasing frequency, the radiation resistance decreases and approaches zero. The reactance remains inductive but it decreases and approaches zero as well.

To exhibit loop behavior, an antenna generally must have some portion of its structure shorted to ground. A folded monopole is really a compressed loop not a monopole. A normal mode helix, while looking like an inductor, exhibits monopole behavior.

I am gathering info to build an HF amplifier but have not been able to find a good design for a truly braodband tank circuit. I know that the amp will always be used with a tuner so it makes sense to make the amps output fixed at 50 ohms or close to that over the full range of each band. I suppose a resistor would do but then there would be the power considerations.

You need to know the complex output impedance of the amplifier across each band and then devise a circuit that best matches it to 50 Ohms.
Alternatively you can just get it closer to 50 Ohms, and rely on the tuner to do the rest. Keep the coax run between the amplifier and tuner as short as possible if you want to maximize the bandwidth.

Everyone has differing opinions on this I am sure. For what it is worth, this is mine.....
I have ordered from R & L Electronics often, sometimes the best price, often not, but the customer service at R & L is very much like your hometown shop down the street where people seem to remember your name and actually care about your buying experience.

Not dissimilar, I have dealt with AES often too. They have a much larger selection of parts and accessories than R & L and are a much bigger operation, not quite as "hometown" like but they still seem to care about your satisfaction.

To date, I have made several purchases from Texas Towers, I have not had the "hometown" experience with them, but they have always honored what they sold, and yes, they often have the best price around.

HRO, they are a hometown dealer of sorts for me. They have a location less than two hours away that I have often visited and I have ordered from them by mail as well. To me, they act like they could care less if I bought anything from them or not. When in their store in person, they have three clerks just hanging around doing nothing and do not try and help out at all. They may honor their warranty but I will not buy from them under any circumstances anymore... and by the way.... I have a lot of friends that have had a similiar experience. If they have a product for $20.00 less I promise you I will pay the extra $20 somewhere else or do without.

Sincerely,

Patrick de W4PHM

No such thing as a "broad band tank circuit" A tank circuit implies energy storage such as used with a class C amplifier. As such it is narrow band. Other types of amplifier operation can be coupled with a matching circuit and maybe a low pass filter.

What type of amplifier are you planning?

Yes it does continuosly broadcast weather information. In my local area a test of the alerting system is broadcast on Wednesday afternoons which causes receivers equipted with alert functions to turn on. Along the gulf coast we are susceptible to VHF skip conditions that on occasion allow us to hear stations as far away as Houston to the west and Tampa to the east. til we meet again. . . . . Tony D. KC4YBE

You didn't mention if it's a solid state amp or a vacuum tube one.
For solid state, have a look at the work Helge Granberg (sp??) did while at Motorola (Lots of ap notes!)...or see any number of other references. For a vacuum-tube amp, if you use a tuned tank, you're stuck with some minimum Q; but if you put a broadband transformer in the circuit, you could get to rather a lower Q. Mind you, you may not really WANT all that low a Q! Depends on what you're trying to accomplish. But you could put in a 9:1 or even 16:1 broadband transformer and have to match a much lower impedance ratio. I'd for sure put the transformer at the output of the tuned tank. Do you have any reference books to help you out? BTW, the old Central Electronics rigs used cathode-follower outputs, as I recall, for broadband output.

Cheers,
Tom

I ordered a new 7100 from them and got a used one, that is one that was broke and had been sent to the factory. Called and they shipped a new one but said the would hold the ticket until they received the used one. Turns out they did charge my card and I had to call to have it took off. The new one they sent worked two weeks and went dead. I called and was told to send it to the Factory.
No more for me at Texas Towers .

Roger told a little fib a few weeks ago. He told all you nice young men that he owns the house he lives in and lets me, his aged mother, live with him. This is not so and my baby told a little white lie. He does that now and then don't you see. I try to tell him it is not nice to fib but he is a big boy and sometimes he does not listen to his old mom. My Roger is a good boy. He doesn't drink, he stays home every night and he doesn't hang out with those cheap little hussies who are hunting for husbands. He goes to work at the auto parts store every day and he is always on time. My Roger does not keep company with undesireables. He has one very good friend that he goes to movies with. I like Bruce. Bruce and my Roger are the very best of friends and they like to go to Roger's bedroom and play computer games. They must have fun, too, because sometimes I can hear them giggling like little kids. My Roger is such a comfort to his old mom.

You see, I bought this house a long time ago. The house is in MY name only. Roger has no interest in it at all but I will probably leave it to him when I pass on.

Okay. I said what I wanted to. My Roger and Bruce went to some new smorgasboard restaurant that just opened up in Wheeling. I think he said the name of it is The Oyster Cloister, or something like that. I have to make some Kool-Aid for when they get home because they are always thirsty after eating all those salty oysters. I do so hope that he doesn't eat too many of those things before he comes home. He has an allergy and gets these tiny little blisters on his lips the next day.

I will tell my Roger to stop making up those big fibs. You nice boys have a good evening and thank you for being so nice to my Roger.

Marie

What surprises me is that 14.313 has been a cesspool for over a decade and it's still going on! I thought it might have died off a number of years back when I read in one of the amateur mags (73 or qst I think) reported several of the troublemakers had either recieved huge fines or had their licences yanked.

I have already burned out a 7.2v 1250mAh battery due to incorrect charging. I used a 9v 400mAh charger, I guess for a bit longer that I should have. In researching this I have found some guidance on charging rates and durations (such as C/10) but none on the voltage. Why do I need 9v to charge a 7.2v battery? I am told this is needed but can't find out why.

Anybody know?

RADIO HABANA CUBA

DXERS UNLIMITED

WEEKEND EDITION
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24,, 2001

By Arnie Coro CO2KK

Send your comments, questions and ideas to: arnie@radiohc.org

HI amigos! Oh, what a storm!!! OH, WHAT A GEOMAGNETIC STORM, and at the time you are listening to this program, it will probably be still in progress... In a long time I hve not seen the 3 hourly K index go to the very maximum of 9, and on the 24th of November at 0900 UTC the K index was right there at its maximum possible of 9!!! The average geomagnetic planetary disturbance indicator was hitting 111 at 15 hours UTC, and sure enough amigos, fantastic propagation conditions provided radio amateur using the 6 meter band with some really exceptional DX contacts...

Now item two: Aurora borealis expected the evening of November 25th UTC at very low latitudes... and we will also be able to work some nice DX using the Auroral E layer propagation mode.... Solar cycle 23 is giving us the best of the best my friends...

Item three: AM medium wave band DXers located at latitudes above 40 degrees North should devote as much time as possible to look for new stations South of you... when the geomagnetic disturbance is still in progress, some of your local and semi-local AM stations will vannish, and they will be replaced by many stations South of you, mostly from Mexico, Central America and the Caribbean....

Item four: I am very happy that at least two European radio amateurs heard my 50 megaHertz transmission tests on 50.090 kiloHertz, about half an hour after my local noon here, that is at around 17.30 UTC... but I heard nothing from them... Seems like the 6 meter receiver needs a complete workbench alignment job....

Item five: will reach you after a short musical interval... again a major geomagnetic storm is in progress and it is certainly doing some very interesting things to short wave radio propagation...

Margarita Delgado is my sound engineer and producer in Studio 7, I am Arnie Coro, radio amateur CO2KK reaching you today from my shack, where I am monitoring this outstanding propagation event...

Amigos, you are listening to Dxers Unlimited?s weekend edition, and if you have any difficulty picking up the signal, like a lot of fading or very poor signal level, this is due to the major geomagnetic storm now in progress. The storm started early UTC on November 24, Saturday, and forecasters say that it will last for at leas 36 more hours after 00 hours UTC Sunday...

Well, now here is item five: You cannot imagine how pleased I am with so many Dxers Unlimited's listeners telling me about how much they are enjoying homebrewing their radio gear... And homebrew radios that I have learned about span from a beautifully built replica of a 1920s crystal radio, to a sophisticated dual conversion receiver following one of the original designs by W6TC Ted Crosby, author of the HBR series of amateur receivers. The HBR radios have a lot of followers among homebrewers, and there is even a website devoted to the HBRs that includes not only circuit diagrams and photos, but also a lot of valuable information about short wave radio construction techniques...

For all of you with full access to the World Wide Web, a visit to the HBR Home Brew Receivers site will prove to be a very rewarding experience, and yes, you can download a lot of extremely useful data from that site, too, including complete schematics for several of the HBR series of receivers and many useful comments about their construction. Well, although an HBR-14 was once in use at my home QTH many years ago, I made the big mistake of giving it away... There is nothing that cannot be fixed my friends, so now I am slowly gathering the parts to build one of them to once again enjoy the wonderful reception that an HBR14 provides.... AND YES, I do admit that my now extremely popular SUPER-REGENERODYNE hybrid receiver does use a lot of ideas that came from the HBR series...

Now that we are talking about the SUPER-REGENERODYNE, let me correct a small mistake, drawn to my attention by a listener, regarding the fact that the 2 to 4 megaHertz tuneable amplifier stage ahead of the regenerative detector, is really an intermediate frequency amplifier stage... YES, absolutely, it is certainly a tuneable IF stage, that serves two very useful purposes -- one to isolate the front end from the detector, and the other to provide a sort of barrier that will block any possible regenerative detector radiation from reaching the antenna and causing interference to nearby radios... During the design work, I experimented a lot with that isolation amplifier, and always named it that way, a tuneable isolation amplifier, disregarding the fact that it is really a variable frequency IF amplifier stage!!! Anyway, it's so nice to have listeners who really pay attention to detail, and really know about radio receiver design!!!

YES, the SUPER-REGENERODYNE hybrid homebrew receiver INFO PACKAGE is almost finished now, and as soon as it is completed, it will be distributed to the special mailing list formed by those of you that have requested it... Send for your SUPER REGENERODYNE INFO PACKAGE via e-mail, send mail to arnie@radiohc.org and I will add you to the already rather lengthy list, my friend!!!

This is Radio Havana Cuba, the name of the show is Dxers Unlimited, I am Arnie Coro your host here, and YES, there is a major geomagnetic storm in progress affecting short wave propagation in several different ways...

Now item 6, the ever-popular YOU HAVE QUESTIONS and Arnie tries to answer them as soon as possible. The question today came precisely from a listener who seems to be very enthusiastic about his homebrew simple three vacuum tube regenerative receiver... Amigo Ralph from California, you can certainly make bandspread coils for your regenerative radio, and have the 40 meter CW band spread all across your dial... Using plumbers type white colored PVC pipe of about 25 milimeters or 1 inch diameter, you can make as many coils as you want... Adding a tap to the coil will let you achieve the degree of bandspread that you may want, so that the regenerative receiver can be used as your amateur station radio very easily. I like to wind the coils using no.18 enamelled copper wire, as it is easy to work with, and provides a high Q or factor of merit.

Also, after I wind the coils and I am fully pleased with how they work, I apply a coating of a homebrew coil dope, made by carefully disolving in gasoline expanded polyestyrene packing material... This must be done, I insist, very carefully and in an open space... add enough of the polyestyrene packing material until the liquid becomes like a syrup... Use it as a varnish for your homebrew coils, and the wires will stay in place forever.

Winding coils using PVC pipe as the coil form is a lot easier than using toroids, and it will cost you almost nothing... besides that, your coils will have a very high Q when properly wound, and of course, as I said earlier, you can achieve whatever bandspread you wish.... I can tell you that these homebrew coils, wound using PVC pipe coil forms, perform very nicely -- but do not use them for variable frequency oscillators, unless you can be sure that the temperature of the coil form would not change at all while the equipment is operating...

Of course, oldtimers listening to Dxers Unlimited know very well that the ideal radio coil forms are made from ceramic materials, because the so-called technical ceramics provide an extremely low thermal expansion coefficient, dimensional stability and a very high dielectric constant.... BUT, my PVC white plumber pipe coils do work very well, cost almost nothing, and above all, are a lot easier to find!!!

YES, amigos we do QSL one hundred percent here... and our popular YOU HAVE QUESTIONS and Arnie answers, or at least tries to answer them, is open on a permanent basis to help you enjoy our wonderful hobby!!! Send your QSL requests and radio hobby related questions to arnie@radiohc.org or via AIR MAIL postcard to Arnie Coro, Radio Havana Cuba, Havana, Cuba...

Now item seven of today's weekend edition of Dxers Unlimited.... As I was writing the script of today's program at around 19 hours UTC Saturday, that's two o'clock in the afternoon here in Havana, the 6 meters amateur band was still open to Europe, and the website devoted to 6 meters chat www.n1rz.org was full of stations exchanging information about the fantastic propagation conditions prevailing today, something that can be certainly traced to the effects of the geomagnetic storm... take a look at www.n1rz.org and learn more about the MAGIC BAND, an amateur band that is open to anyone passing a very simple test in many countries that do not require learning CW Morse Code to those wanting to obtain a VHF frequencies license...

Today I experimented with a simple wire antenna on 6, and sure enough, a station in Ireland, and another station in the Netherlands heard my CQ DX calls on 50.090, but my receiver was not in good shape and I could not make even one two-way ham radio contact or QSO!!! So, as soon as I tape the show, the 6 meter transceiver will go to my workbench to see why the receiver is working so poorly!!! See amigos, the radio hobby is something great and full of mystery.... when the 6 meter band opens up to Europe, my transceiver's receiver goes almost completely deaf.... just as the famous Mr. Murphy would have predicted in his famous theoretical formulation... if something is going to go wrong, it will happen at the worst moment... Anyway, I am happy to see so many of you enjoying this outstanding propagation event, and adding so many new stations to your logs.

Now as always at the end of the show, here is Arnie Coro's HF plus 6 meters propagation update and forecast: Solar flux is not so high, hovering around 170 and moving down, but the A index passed the 100 mark Saturday during an outstanding major geomagnetic storm; there is a sunspot active region that may generate still more flares during the next couple of days, and in general, HF plus 6 meter propagation conditions are going to be really very interesting to say the least... So, forget about soldering parts into your new homebrew radio and have those radios on all the time to pick up the rare DX!!!!

A broadband tank circuit is the antithis of what you find in an amplifier.
Tank circuits are high Q = narrow band, but you can add presets to cover the bands in steps. Moving in frequency requires retunning to put the impedance back where it belongs.

Gotta laff at the Liberty Nuts talking about Harry Potter. Their world must be limited. Somehow they have tied Harry Potter in with the New World Order. Wow!
These mental midgets must not have any imaginations at all. Goof-ball commentator is afraid that Harry Potter will be the New Testamant. Groan! Groan!
Of course the nuts also liken Harry Potter to the Taliban....now, how much of a stretch is THAT?
If nothing else, this Liberty Nut net is very humorous. One has to laugh that grown men actually think the way they do!
These nut-cases seem to ignore that the Harry Potter books are written by a 36 year old woman who wanted nothing else but to write some innocent children's stories. Maybe they would be happier if their kids read from the KKK manuals instead.
What you have here are the self-proclaimed Christians who actually believe that Moses' staff turned into a serpent! They believe that a Jewish prophet turned jugs of water into wine. That staff-into-serpent story tops Harry Potter....perhaps the authors of this Christian fable were using some of that mescaline that grows in the desert. Why do they believe this pap? They read it in the Bible, of course, and in their minds this makes it fact!
I wonder how long it will be before they attack Disney for his cartoons and Mickey Mouse appearing 50 years ago as "The Great Sourcerer"?
Let's see...what is next? Should they ask that reruns of "I Dream Of Jeanie" be banned? Oh, yeah. They can also go after "Sabrina, Teenage Witch". You never know where an evil Wiccan will turn up to despoil their innocent little kiddies.
Watch out! The UN troops are coming! The black helicopters are flying the skies! They can see through your house with their secret technology! They are beaming rays at you! Bury your guns in your back yard in hermetically sealed pipes! Stock up on ammunition! Bury freeze-dried food. Run! Hide! Cower in the corner!
Watch out for witchcraft...Harry Potter will soon be displacing Jesus and the Liberty Nuts are locked and loaded and hiding in foxholes in their back yards. Ever vigilant, ever aware, always paranoid.

You need to overcome the "normal" voltage of the battery to REVERSE the charge INTO it.
SO the voltage must be higher. But it does not have to be a LOT higher, just higher.
The correct thing to do is supply current and let the voltage go wherever until it is at the peak charge voltage, then remove the charge source.

4839. Need Message Format Software for NTS Traffic

Does anyone know of a program for Windows or Linux that will generate ARRL NTS format messages?

I need something whereby I type in the message in some kind of form, and it prints out the message on a generated ARRL NTS message form.

Either shareware, freeware, or commercial will be fine.

Thanks...

There's always going to be bad experiences like that with any business. I

Anyone have any experience with the relatively new Patcomm PC-500 HF Dual Bander? Patcomm is advertising the rig (Thanksgiving Special) throught the end of November at $395 and including handmic and filter. Seems like a great deal but I have not heard from any other hams that might be using the rig. Feedback would be appreciated.

I'm sorry to hear the problems with TT. Owner Gerald Williamson has always treated me super, though I haven't seen or talked with him in several years. He always took time to chat.

His son, Matt, who may be running it now, does NOT have his father's "bedside manner." He can be abrupt and sound like he doesn't much care, but he has always taken good care of my orders and me in person. I'm sure employees will tend to reflect the attitude of management. It is a very tough business with little-to-no profit and hams tend to be some of the tightest, most difficult buyers in retailing. They probably run short-handed and over-worked. Unfortunately, the overall impression is that they would rather be somewhere else, doing something else... If I were in their shoes, that would probably be true for me. A long time ago, I spent 15 years in that business. I would have to be starving to do it again. My hat is off to those in the business who are able to retain an interested, caring attitude.

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1267 with a release date of Friday, November 23rd, 2001 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. Six meters suprises the world and the night of the meteors are first on this weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1267 coming your way right now.

THE BIG 6 METER OPENING

Cold Open Audio Here: N6KNW working Japan on 6 meters
--

That’s Brad Marckwardt, N6KNW, in Santa Clarita California working Japan on Saturday November 17th. No big deal you say? Well the band was 6 meters. It was the wrong time of the year for this kind of D-X. And less we forget, while Brad was working Japan, other hams were making equally amazing 6 meter D-X contacts like California to New York and Alaska to the lower 48. Take a listen:

--
Audio Here: Alaska to California, New York to California
--

The 6 meter DX was not limited to North America. Reports came in from around the world of similar single, double and even triple hop F 2 contacts.

From Costa Rica, Carlos Diez, TI5KD, reports that he started out the day working Europeans including GW4VEQ at about 13:50 UTC. Ten hours later, at 23:05 UTC Carlos crossed the Pacific with his signal, contacting JA4MBM for his first ever Costa Rica to Japan short path QSO.

The experts say that that the current solar cycle peaked in 2000 and that we are on the downside. But it appears that someone forgot to tell the VHF and UHF bands that its not time for D-X. It simply keeps rolling in on 6 meters and above and seems to get better and better with each opening.

Our thanks to Dave Booth, KC6WFS, who took time out from working some of the DX to make the recordings you heard in this report. And less we forget, the six meter band is still opening up almost every day – at least as this newscast is being prepared. (ARNewsline (tm))

THE ROCKS IN THE SKY: THE LEONID METEORS AND HAM RADIO

As if the 6 meter opening were not enough to bring bragging rights to many V-H-F enthusiasts, a few hours later came the light show in the sky. It was the Leonid Meteor Shower and hams who enjoy bouncing their signals off the ionized trails of meteors were not disappointed. One of them was Joe Hannigan. WL7M in Fritz Creek Alaska heard commenting during another 6 meter F2 opening:

Sound here
--

We do not have any of the sounds of the contacts. Much of it is high speed C-W or computerized using WSJT. But we do have some reports courtesy of the VHF Reflector.

Lets start with Sam Horton, KD4ESV of Bradenton Florida. He says that he was operating from grid square E L 87. Horton says that by 18:23 UTC he had worked twelve states including Alaska.

But that’s not all. Tim Marek, K7XC, of Fallon Nevada, operating as a Rover from grid square DM09 had one of the best meteor scatter reports. We don’t have time to cover it all, but here are a few stations that he worked starting with KB5XC in DM65, then AA7A in Arizona, K7MI in grid CN73 and W7USB in DN17. Tim added that W1IPL in grid DN62 went in the log along with K5JL in EM15 at about 03:23 AM local time.

K7XC says that all of these contacts were made mobile on 2 meters. Marek used an Icom IC 706 Mark 2 G transceiver driving a 170 watt power amplifier into a yagi antenna on his rover vehicle. Marek says that he spent the entire night chasing QSO’s on the space borne rocks. He wrote his report at about 6 a-m local time adding that he intended to crawl into bed and planned to sleep till noon. That is, if his pet cat would let him. (ARNewsline(tm))

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: HAPPY BIRTHDAY AO-40

The AMSAT Oscar 40 ham radio satellite has celebrated its first year in space. Then called Phase 3 D, the satellite was launched on November 16, 2000 aboard an Ariane 5 booster rocket from Kourou, French Guiana.

Even though the bird suffered some major damage during an orbital transfer maneuver, it has survived. After several months of work by the team at AMSAT Germany, transponder operation started last May 5th. At that time the U-band and L1-band uplinks were connected to the S-2 transmitter passband downlink via the satellites on-board Matrix switch. Since then, hams on Earth have made hundreds of contacts though the satellite.

AO-40 is currently in a long period during in which the Earth eclipses the Sun near perigee. The eclipses actually began about August 28th, and will rapidly increase in length. They will continue well into June 2002. For the current transponder operating schedule visit:

AMERICA AT WAR: FCC GETTYSBURG CHANGES MAIL ADDRESS

We told you it might happen and it has. At least for package deliveries. This, as the FCC’s Gettysburg, Pennsylvania office, announces that it has moved its mail handling facilities off-site.

The reason is the same as reported for FCC in Washington and CQ Magazine. Simply a precaution in case some of the strange people that we all call terrorists decide to target the Gettysburg licensing facility.

Its all fairly simple. Effective immediately, all overnight couriers, United Parcel Service and Federal Express deliveries have to go to a new location. That address is the FCC Gettysburg, Rear entrance, 35 York Street, Gettysburg, PA 17325.

The change does not affect US Postal Service deliveries. At least not yet. They will continue to be accepted at the office's physical address on Fairfield Road and diverted to the off-site mailroom. (FCC)

AMERICA AT WAR: VANITY LICENSING ON HOLD

I’m Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, with late breaking news about the Amateur Radio Vanity Call Sign program which is now, effectively, on hold. This, after the recently announced changes in mail handling procedures at the FCC's Gettysburg, Pennsylvania license processing facility.

As reported, mail directed to the FCC Gettysburg office was being held pending the start of special handling precautions to address any biohazards. Now that ARRL has issued a further bulletin on the matter. It quotes the ARRL’s VEC Manager Bart Jahnke, W9JJ. He says that the FCC has processed vanity applications received through October 14. But says Jhanke, vanity applications received after that date remain on hold for now.

There is some good news. The FCC is tracking the receipt date for each piece of mail. Because the agency gives equal priority to paper and electronic applications, all vanity processing was being suspended until the mail situation is resolved. Once the FCC begins opening its backlog of mail, most applications will probably be processed in about 18 days based on date received.

But there could still be problems for another group of filers. These are hams who waited till near the end of the two year grace period on renewing ham radio licenses. Jahnke says applications from those filing for renewal near the end of their two-year grace period will only be accepted for processing if they get to the FCC before the grace period expires.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Henry Freinberg, K2SSQ. (ARRL Bulletin, FCC)

AMERICA AT WAR: THE PSYCHOLOGICAL SIDE OF RADIO

The media is not only reporting the war against terrorism. According to the Media Network e-newsletter, it has also become heavily involved.

Here in the United States, media organizations like NBC were the first to be targeted by those spreading the anthrax virus. And the e-newsletter says that in Afghanistan, silencing the Taliban's voice and putting in a replacement was one of the first aims of the US led military campaign. That plan seems to be succeeding, with the restoration of "normal" radio services in the key city of Mazar-e-Sharif and a few days later in Kabul itself.

In another development, the psychological warfare broadcasts of "Information Radio" have only been heard irregularly on shortwave. Media Network says that it has contacted those responsible for running the operation to find out its current status.

As soon as Media Network get some updated information, it will be posted at http://www.rnw.nl/realradio/features/html/afghanistan010917.html (Media Network)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC VS. RF ELECTRONICS- AN EPILOGUE

The FCC says that it is thanking the owner of R-F Electronics for his decision to stop selling non certified amplifier kits and says that its closing the matter. But the owner of the company does not appear to be ready to say "you're welcome." In fact, Sidney Lee Martin, KD4YBC, is using the World Wide Web to launch a verbal counter attack against the regulatory agency. Amateur Radio Newsline's David Black, KB4KCH, visited the spot in cyberspace and has the rest of the story:

Sidney Lee Martin ran afoul of the FCC for allegedly selling illegal power amplifiers for use on amateur HF and 6 meter frequencies. On September 19th, the Commission's Riley Hollingsworth wrote to Martin, telling him to stop the sales -- or face enforcement action.

With the threat of being taken to court and having his amateur radio license put in jeopardy, Martin shut his sales operation down September 25th. And he's taking a few verbal shots at the Commission.

Accusing the agency of being on a jihad, Martin says the FCC attacked and destroyed his business while letting another company continue selling non-certified amplifier kits. Martin says he will use his former business website to provide updates and comments on his tangle with the Commission. He's urging amateurs to ask questions and learn the truth.

In the meantime, the FCC appears to be closing the matter, at least as far as Martin's business is concerned. In an October first letter to Martin, the FCC's Hollingsworth notes Martin's comments that he has stopped selling non-certified equipment and thanks him for his cooperation.

The letter closes with Hollingsworth saying the Commission will review information Martin supplied about other sources selling non-certified equipment.

From Birmingham Alabama, I’m David Black, KB4KCH, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

ENFORCEMENT DOWN UNDER: A VERY BUSY ACA

The United States is not the only place where the government has been actively enforcing its radio regulations. So has the Australian Communications Authority -- or ACA. And the figures for the past year are now in and Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, has them:

From this years ACA Annual Report we learn that this year, 12 penalties in lieu of prosecution were issued, three are under consideration by the ACA for withdrawal, seven were paid totalling $6,270 Australian, and two went to prosecution. In addition, prosecution proceedings without issuing penalties in lieu were instigated against six other persons for a total of 22 offenses.

During the year, the ACA conducted 1,200 Radiocommunications licence investigations, resulting in the issue of 267 verbal and 557 written warnings. No licence suspensions or cancellation actions were undertaken this year.

The ACA also investigated 781 complaints of interference to Radiocommunications services, and search and rescue authorities were assisted with the location of approximately 104 emergency position-indicating radio beacons. Although careless handling or faults caused many of these, 21 beacons had been maliciously activated with the intent of disrupting emergency services.

From Q-News Australia, I’m Graham Kemp, VK4BB, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

ARRL NEWS: THE 2001 ARRL DIVISIONAL ELECTIONS

The results are in for the fall 2001 ARRL divisional elections and there are really no big surprises. In the Southeastern Division, Georgia Section Manager Sandy Donahue, W4RU, of Atlanta, Georgia, outpolled West Central Florida Assistant Section Manager Paul Toth, NA4AR, of Seminole, Florida by 478 votes. The final count was Donahue at 2783 and Toth at 2305. Both were contending for the seat being vacated by Vice Director Evelyn Gauzens, W4WYR, who decided not to seek a new term after 22 years of service.

In the Southwestern Division, San Diego Section Manager Tuck Miller, NZ6T, of National City, California, defeated Ned Stearns, AA7A, of Scottsdale, Arizona. The vote was 2485 to 2208. Miller assumes the vice director's position being vacated by Art Goddard, W6XD, who ran unopposed for director.

Last but by no means least, incumbent Pacific Division Vice Director Bob Vallio, W6RGG, of Castro Valley, California garnered 1924 votes to beat back a challenge by Gerald D. Griffin, K6MD, of Pacific Grove, California. Griffin polled 1225 votes. All those elected officially take office on January 1st, 2002. (ARRL)

HAM INDUSTRY NEWS: ELECRAFT IMPROVES THE K1

Elecraft's very popular K 1 compact CW transceiver has just became a four-bander. In addition to the 2-band version, the rig is now available with a single band-switched module that covers 40, 30, 20, and either 17 or 15 meters. No hardware or firmware changes are necessary to use the 4-band module and the module can also be ordered as an option to upgrade existing K 1 transceivers. COMMUNICATIONS BUSINESS: MORE LAYOFFS AT MOTOROLA

High tech giant Motorola has announced that it is reducing its work force by another 7,000 jobs, including an unspecified number of layoffs. The announcement came a day after the telecommunications giant reported a $1.4 billion loss for the quarter ended September 30.

Faced by a weakened economy and slower industry growth in worldwide cellphone sales, Motorola already this year had announced 32,000 job cuts to a work force that stood at 147,000 last December. That would increase the total cuts to 39,000 and trim the work force to approximately 108,000 by the end of the year - a reduction of about 26 percent. A company spokesperson indicated there could be more. (Published news reports)

RADIO PUBLICATIONS: DEPARTURE MESSAGE

CW aficionados attention. This one is for you. It’s a new book called Departure Message by Charles Lunsford that tells the story of an enlisted aircrew member flying as an Airborne Radio Operator in the 1950s.

Lunsford’s book traces one of the last of the Radio Operators trained in International Morse Code and who flew in the last aircraft purchased by the United States Air Force which had a Morse key as standard equipment. The book also describes some of the radio and radar aids of the time and the first top-secret transponders for identification.

Departure Message is published on-line by greatunpublished.com and is available in paperback or for download. More information is on the web at greatunpublished.com. (Charles Lunsford)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: APPLE I-POD

Apple Computer has unveiled a revolutionary new portable music player that can hold an entire music collection. It also takes Apple outside its core computer business for the first time in eight years.

The Apple "i-Pod" is the size and shape of a deck of cards, with a small LCD screen and round dial on a white front and a stainless steel back. It holds about 1,000 songs in the MP3 music format and has a battery life of 8to 10 hours.

The only negative. The “i-Pod” currently will only work with Apple Macintosh computers, but that may change. About 7 million existing Macintoshes have the necessary hardware and software to be compatible with iPod. Apple president Steve Jobs says the company is considering porting it to windows based machines as well. (Apple release)

TECHNOLOGY FAILURE: COMPUTER FAILURE AT THE CALTECH USGS EARTHQUAKE MESSAGING SITE

A 5.1 magnitude earthquake near Anza California on October 30th should have generated an almost-immediate e-mail message to all southern California Seismic Network e-mail subscribers. However, this particular message was delayed about seven hours due to a catastrophic network hardware failure that occurred minutes before the shaker. INTERNATIONAL - AUSTRALIA: VK 80 METER SSB BAND TO BE EXPANDED

The Australian 80-meter SSB 'DX Window', at present limited to a 4-kHz segment around 3798 kHz, is due to be expanded - but not until 2004. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, has more:

The Australian 80-metre SSB 'DX Window', at present limited to a 4-kHz segment around 3798kHz, is due to be expanded - but not until 2004. In Australia, the band 3700 - 3800kHz is presently allocated to the commercial land mobile service, effectively limiting amateur SSB operation to a single frequency. Following an approach by the Wireless Institute of Australia, the Australian Communications Authority has agreed to proceed with a change in the allocation of the band 3776 - 3800kHz. The ACA's intention is to reallocate this band to the amateur service on a primary basis from the 1st of January 2004. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH.

--

Current commercial users of that spectrum won’t be left out in the cold. They will be moved to existing land mobile spectrum adjacent to the new amateur band by the end of December 2003. (RSGB)

THAT FINAL ITEM: VK HAM RADIO IN THE AIR ON THE AIR

And finally this week, the story of the celebration of an old airplane and the part played by ham radio. It was an unusual job for hams. Again, from Australia, Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB:

VK4's Redcliffe & Districts Radio Club Inc. ran a radio link, at the request of Redcliffe City Councillor Ian Poyitt, from an aircraft to Redcliffe Radio Station 99.7 FM. The Link commemorated the 70th anniversary of the Tiger Moth. There was approximately 100 old aircraft participating in this rare fly-past.

--
Flight Audio Here
--

A hand held scanner's audio was fed directly into the mixing desk. A 2 meter radio using a quarter wave antenna from the aircraft, then a crossband link to take the 2 meter signal from the aircraft and retransmitted this on 70cm using the clubs new Yaesu FT-847.

The flight went off without a hitch with Steve Harris VK4HRS as the Aeronautical Mobile Announcer, having flown for the first time and enjoyed himself immensely.

Well done Steve and all at the Redcliffe Club. (Q-News)

You are still not using correct reference headers, and your information is wrong, according to BARF records. and you deleted a cross-posted news group (restored).
BARF records show that Georgie Girl Arselicks is really Georgie Lady Arselickski, He's Polish Roger, you dam fool. You can't even get someone's ancestry right! and your facts are wrong! He was fired 17 times, not twice , and he got caught jamming stone sober in the company of 70 virgins you dam fool. The virgins were his reward from Allah for jamming you dam fool Roger. You insult someone's religion on top of insulting his ancestry and then still get the facts wrong!

Donny Anderson and David Tolassi are seeing to it that 14.313 is the home of the low-lifes again. Donnie should do something about that audio of his. He sounds like he has his oblong head stuck waaaayyyy down in a 55 gallon drum. Donnie should also brush up on his English as he speaks like a back woods hick. David, however, sounds just the opposite. His feminine falsetto voice is extremely grating on the nerves. No wonder all the "regulars" leave when this Dynamic Duo gets on the air.
David mentioned his wife during one of his commentaries.... odd. I didn't figure David as being the type to like females.

Connect negative to negative, and positive to positive, but put a potentiometer connected as a rheostat in the positive line to limit it to 125 milli-amps. That will give you the necessary voltage drop. I have used a 10V supply to charge 6V nicad packs. As long as the pot limited the current to 1/10 of the capacity, I had no problems. I also connected a milli-ammeter between the supply and battery to monitor the current. It does drop off as the battery charges, so check it every couple of hours. Feel the batteries to make sure they don't overheat. Don't leave it on for more than about 12 hours, even if the battery was fully discharged.

Nothing wrong to you and me.... Like "Star Wars - The Phantom Menace", "Matrix" its special effects are great, good story line....

Dont know about you .... but I dont like the idea of my kids lighting up candles in my house (my home is solid concrete, how about yours) and I certainly prefer my kids to be studying rather than being engrossed in pokemons and harry potter books.

And where did I mention "soul"? You didnt answer my question.

I'm just trying to understand what the "danger for kids..." is. Whenever something like Harry Potter comes out, all the religious wackos act like you will be eternally damned if you even think about it. Secular fun such as Halloween is seen as a major threat.
Personally, anything that kids read is better than them not reading anything at all. The Harry Potter series has encouraged many thousands of kids to read, and you can't find fault in that!
By the way, what's the problem with lighting candles in the house? (As long as they are not the wimpy aromatherapy type)

I dont....until they get engrossed in it eg. like pokemon. I do prefer them to be reading their school books though....

Greetings!

IRIC in QST for either June, 1996 or August, 1996, there was info about a company manufacturing a battery pack (gelcell, I think) which offered both 12V DC and 120V AC (via inverter) connections. Does anyone have the info from that ad handy and does anyone know if that company is still in business and making that battery pack?

TIA!

From the ARRL Letter, Vol. 18, # 27, July 9, 1999

FCC queries K1MAN on control op's whereabouts
The FCC wants to know who was the control operator and where he or she was when it visited the station of Glenn Baxter, K1MAN, in Belgrade Lakes, Maine, in mid- May and failed to find Baxter or anyone else on the premises. As FCC Attorney for Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth, K4ZDH, announced at the Dayton Hamvention, FCC engineers from the Commission's Boston office unsuccessfully attempted to inspect Baxter's station while it was on the air May 14 and again the following day. They reported that the station was transmitting, but facilities appeared to be locked and no one was around.

Hollingsworth wrote Baxter June 25 to formally inquire into the circumstances of the May visits.
He also asked if K1MAN employed station automation equipment and if the station ever was remotely controlled.

The FCC says that during its first attempt to visit K1MAN, on the morning of May 14, 1999, K1MAN was transmitting on 3.975 MHz. FCC personnel say they were unable to find anyone—either at Baxter's station at the tip of Long Point or at his nearby residence—and, according to Hollingsworth's letter, "there were no vehicles on the premises."

"The radio transmissions continued while the FCC personnel went to your residence at Point Road, but there was no one present there either," Hollingsworth wrote. The next day while K1MAN was on the air, Hollingsworth wrote, "FCC personnel again attempted to inspect your station but there was no one present and there were no vehicles."

In addition to the name, address, and telephone number of the control operator on those two occasions, the FCC also wants to find out where the control operator was and at what times, and on what frequencies, K1MAN transmitted on May 14 and 15, 1999.

Hollingsworth also asked Baxter to list the name, address and telephone number of all control operators of K1MAN during the hours of operation listed on Baxter's Web site and in his daily transmissions. He also inquired if any portions of K1MAN transmissions automated, and, if so, to provide details and a copy of the control circuit.

In addition, Hollingsworth asked Baxter to list the programming schedule for K1MAN for the period of January 1, 1998 through June 1, 1999, "and provide the dates, times and frequencies," as well as the name address, and telephone number of the control operator for each of those transmissions.

The FCC also wants to know if automated tape control devices were utilized at K1MAN during the period January 1, 1998 to June 1, 1999, and, if so, on what dates, times, and frequencies.

Hollingsworth's letter also asks Baxter to list all dates, times and frequencies that K1MAN has transmitted without a control operator being present since the inception of the license term on October 17, 1995.

Finally, the FCC said it wants to know if K1MAN has been controlled remotely since the inception of the license term on October 17, 1995, and, if so, on what dates, times, frequencies. Hollingsworth's letter also requested a "detailed schematic of the control circuit configuration."

The FCC letter gave Baxter 30 days to provide the requested information.

BELGRADE LAKES, ME: The FCC's Riley Hollingsworth wrote Extra licensee Glenn A. Baxter, K1MAN, June 25, after FCC engineers from the Commission's Boston office unsuccessfully attempted to inspect Baxter's station while it was on the air May 14 and again the following day. Isn't it so funny how Roger stumbles around like a drunk boxer in a black room, taking wild-ass guesses as to who is posting what, sometimes guessing three times in one post as to who made that particular post. Roger me boy, nay, nay, you are so cornfused and make yourself look like even more the fool than everyone already knows you are! But then we planned it that way me boy.

Roger, I am pressing the guess button on your chest, you know, that little control panel strapped to your chest with various buttons that are depressed, according to what reaction we want to see from you.

Now, I have the guess button depressed, and here is your assignment. After each topic, kindly insert your wild-ass guess as to who made the post:

Roger's grammar =
Big Marie = Stagger Lee =
Your FCC violations =
Lloyd =
Oris = Dimmy =
BARF =
West Virginia =
Bro. Stair =
Big Al =

Air Force =

Thank you in advance Roger, as we know you will be a good little Roger and fill out your home work assignment.

The charge voltage could be any value if a series, current-limiting resistance of appropriate value is used to trickle-charge a battery. In such a situation, the trickle current will remain near constant, even after the battery is fully charged. With constant current flow, the voltage drop across the series resistance will remain constant also. At full charge, the terminal voltage of the battery will not rise above its specified terminal voltage with this arrangement. The residual current flow could be considered a leakage current not unlike an electrolytic capacitor which has an inherent amount of leakage when full charged also. The amount of heat then generated inside the battery would be the product of the trickle current times the battery voltage, which if say, was 50 millamps, would be .05 times 7.2 volts or 360 milliwatts, easily disappated by the mass of larger batteries. An AA cell on a 50 ma. trickle would generate only 75 milliwatts of heat and thus could left on this trickle amount indefinitely. Larger cells or batteries could take a proportionately larger trickle current. Batteries can be left on triclke charge indefinitely. In place of a conventional series current limiting resistor, subtract the battery voltage from the d.c. charging voltage and select a pilot lamp with a filiment voltage slightly above, or equal to the voltage drop desired. The important part for this selection, however, will be the current rating of the bulb. The current rating should closely approximate the desired trickle charge current. Electrically, there is no particular advantage of using a lamp over a resistor, except that a lamp will give an easily noticed, visual indication of charge current without the expense of a meter? If one were to play-around with lamps of higher rated filiment voltage, but still have a filiment current rated near the desired trickle charge, the lamp's glow will not be obtrusive and the filiment will last indefinitely. A cooler filiment will draw slightly more currrent than a hot filiment, so always check the end result with a milliammeter/VOM. Understandably, a trickle charge method is not what is being solicited here, but I thought its mention might help?.................

Reminds me of a couple who would not let their kids believe in Santa Clause or go trick-or-treating on Halloween, after all Hallowed Eve was a pagan ritual and participating in the believe of SC and Halloween might corrupt their little minds. However they seem to forget that they believed in SC and went trick-or-treating when they were kids and it did not make pagans of them.

No, If you want to work DX on 50 MHz. you will need more than 5 watts. You will also want USB. And lets not forgetr about a large Ant. I have a VX 5, I can not even hit my local 6 meter repeater (Around 3 miles away) I use my FT 847 for 6 meters.

yep. 1 of our stores early last year told me they weregetting rid of their stock.I thought the manager was just beinga prick. Like usual. He was always rude. Most RS around here don't sell any parts anymore. Two days ago I went in to get a replacement on a defective item. The guy thought he was smart and shit. He types the item in the computer and says. Nope it is discontinued. "You must of bought it years ago". I told him I bought it about 3 months ago. He still didn't know what this crappy item was. He says. What is a discone. I said, a Dumb antenna that only works on some frequencies well. My 2 meter 5/8's works better on low vhf and so on. but uhf is a diff story. I am glad my electronic wholesaler is still selling electronic parts.

Any comment of "RCI5054DX - 6 Meter Amateur Mobile Transceiver"?

"It features a microprocessor control, and is rated at 25W PEP SSB and 10W AM/FM/CW. "

What is the meaning of "25W PEP SSB"? Is it real 25W output? Thanks.

25 Watt "PEP" is the peak output power, in SSB this being how much instantenous power is fed to the antenna on voice peaks or strong vocal speech used to "drive" the radio via microphone. 25W PEP is satisfactory for most operation. Lower power on FM/AM/CW is normal as the final amp must work full duty cycle on transmit for these modes. Microprocessor control is standard in just about all radio made todays.

I highly reccomend this radio for 6 Meter work. It's a good set to have.

I sorta hope K1MAN goes back to broadcasting on 14.313 again, like he did during the heydays of the old 14.313 BARF vs Piece Coalition Wars! Remember that Hans? I still recall with glee the day old Mike MU-Juice was on there talkin to fat Judy and Baxter fired up his stupid broadcast right on top of them! Ole dumbshit Mike didn't know what was going on and threw one of his famous on the air "shitfits" when he realized what happened. Yes, ole Glen sure knew how to inflame the situation and interject himself into the fracas.
(Baxter thought he was singlehandedly going to cure the 15-Year 14.313 Booer War with the help of W4ASX whom he kissed and swapped-spit with at the Orlando Hamfest earlier - yup, they had a plan - and the result of which was like when the Three Stooges dumped that load of cats into the piano in that classic 2-reeler bit...hahaha!) Glub I love ham radio Hans! Got more opportunity to have radio fun with for a freakin lifetime. Hopefully the old 14.313 is commin back. Already sounds like a cat caught in a lawn mower on 14.275 when Baxter fires up atop Dan and the boys. Let's hope it spreads north in freq

Ironic that the "BARF" would have a Chief of "Communications" that can't even spell "communications."

The BARF is about as useful today as the old Warsaw Pact is.

Say, is it true that you have a criminal records for being a sexaul predator of children?
I hear that it's true, and the NCIC has confirmed it. And how do YOU know so much about the Lavender Lads, and nobody else in Glen Dale has heard of them? Maybe that's why Steve Turdeater, Nadless 8 White Gay Male is over 50 years old and never married.

The 12 Days of Christmas

On the first day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the second day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the third day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the fourth day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the fifth day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Five Ben wa balls
Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the sixth day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Six anal lube rings
Five Ben wa balls
Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the seventh day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Seven ribbed condoms
Six anal lube rings

Five Ben wa balls
Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the eighth day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Eight maids for milking
Seven ribbed condoms
Six anal lube rings
Five Ben wa balls
Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the ninth day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Nine lady's dildoes
Eight maids for milking
Seven ribbed condoms
Six anal lube rings
Five Ben wa balls
Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the tenth day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Ten perverts leaping
Nine lady's dildoes
Eight maids for milking
Seven ribbed condoms
Six anal lube rings
Five Ben wa balls
Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the eleventh day of Christmas
My Roger sent to me
Eleven gerbils squirming
Ten perverts leaping
Nine lady's dildoes
Eight maids for milking
Seven ribbed condoms
Six anal lube rings
Five Ben wa balls

Four call(ing) girls
Three french ticklers
Two gay doves, and
A thing in a dingleberry tree.

On the twelfth day of Christmas
I filed for an injunction.

Hey, it's drunk Mick Slater, still pining for his dead gay sex partner Sgt.
Fred Eichorn.
What's the matter Mick, did your liver transplant reject you like your former wives did?
Give us a chorus of "How Dry I Am," rummy Mick.

Well, once again, someone is showing their brains. I am a spick??? Hmmm... well, lets think about this. "Spick" is a racial slur for mexicans... I am not mexican, so your once again showing that you are a total redneck. I love it when people pull the race card and try to insult me. That just makes my Roger's AF discharge? YES, we're all ears!!!!! There's always been a question as to the character of his discharge and the circumstances he was separated under. Hmmmm, doesn't Roger have a mentally disturbed radio buddy in Georgia who was given a dishonorable discharge out of the navy for selling illegal drugs to kids? Maybe some of Roger's radio buddies can fill in the blanks here.

4974. Program DIPOLE2

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.misc
Date: 2001-11-29 02:10:37 UTC
From: Reg Edwards <g4fgq.regp@btinternet.com> Message-ID: <9u45ftfur1@plutonium.btinternet.com>
Source record: 84414

NOW AVAILABLE  Program "DIPOLE2.exe

An update of programs Dipole1 and Varney.

DIPOLE2 analyses the performance of any HF dipole of any height and length, at any frequency, plus a balanced feedline of any impedance, length and attenuation, plus a balun of any impedance ratio, plus a coaxial line of any impedance, length and attenuation, plus a "tuner" with an L-matching network. (An L-match always has a lower loss than a T or Pi).

Computed results include R+jX input impedances of antenna, of balanced and of coaxial line. Antenna radiating efficiency. SWR and loss in balanced line, coax and tuner. Tuner L and C values to match system to 50 ohms are computed. And overall radiating efficiency.

If either coaxial or balanced line is not needed set the unwanted line length to zero.

The program tells the user immediately the consequences of changing something at one point in the system which affects something somewhere else. For example, if it is asked should a 450-ohm transmission line be increased or decreased in length to provide a more accurate 50-ohm transmitter load impedance, the program will tell you not only which way to go but the actual change in length which should be made. See Cecil's W6RC website for practical implementation. It will also advise whether a change in feedline Zo might be a better option.

Facilities are provided to search for resonant frequencies of an antenna plus feedline. It will be noticed they are not harmonically related. The effects on resonant frequencies of varying in small increments the lengths of dipole and feedlines can be investigated.

DIPOLE2 is about 70 kilobtyes. One file only. Download from website below in a few seconds. Not zipped up. Run immediately.

Well, seems those DD-214's aren't all that hard to come by, huh, Rog? Your buddy says he has not one, but TWO! Nothing like a good quality printer and some parchment paper from the local printer. Or did you just use steal a real one and use some white-out?

Does Wanker Woger have any radio buddies? I mean, not counting the LAMBDA types? Tell us more about his alleged Air Force record, too. Rumor is that some of his buddies were talking about that in some of the groups. Maybe that is why his wife kicked him out and he had to go live with his mother?

Well... there are many things that can happen to a radio between the factory and the customer.
I think you will find that whether Texas Towers, or AES they will have the same shipping and return policy on most rigs.
They're re both good outfits to deal with and both have the customer pay the shipping back to them. There may be some exceptions, but in general that is the way it works.
I purchased almost all of the tower accessories from Texas Towers as they had them in stock. I purchased a bunch of antenna accessories from AES as they had them in stock. I purchased the 756 Pro from ComDac as they had one at a swap for a good price.

I asked for solder type N connectors, but we had a bit of miscommunication and I ended up with the compression type. They (AES) shipped out the proper ones right away, but I had to pay for them. I get the money back from the first ones when they receive them back I also have to pay the shipping back.

I have no problem with that.

Both companies are open about their shipping and return policies. I have purchased quite a bit of stuff from both companies over the years. ComDac in Michigan is another good company to deal with. Not as large as Texas Towers which is not as large as AES, but a nice family operation with which to deal.

BTW, I have no connection to, or interest in the operation of any of these companies. They are just companies from which I have purchased ham gear and accessories and have had no complaint about their practices.

Hey, moron! A DD-214 does NOT equal an Honorable Discharge. ALL personnel discharged from the U.S. military, regardless of the nature of their discharge, receives a DD-214. The nature of the discharge is to be found on the DD-214.

I am looking for a logging program and wonder what you guys think about the various ones that are out there. Is there one that excels above the rest? Are some of them similar? What seems to be the most popular of the bunch? Any that just don't seem to run right? Thanks for any input! Mike, K7MH.

I will be brief about this:

DX4WIN DX4WIN DX4WIN

* works great and runs stable (never had 1 single crash in over 1 year)
* a lot of features yet easy to use (steep learning curve) * very flexible user interface (hardware support, screen lay out...)
* good support from the makers and the many subscribers of the email reflector provide a 24/7 helpdesk
* good investment for the $$$

Try it at: http://www.dx4win.com

Read user reviews here: http://www.eham.net/reviews/detail/28

I got some candy canes from 2 years ago. I am eating them now because they are to good to give to the squirrels and too good to hang on the Christmas tree. I had a time getting the see through paper off of them though.

wow... parallel univers (hehe)... i was just eating candy canes from 2 years ago!!! they tasted better than when new because they seem sorta chewy on the outside... must have oxidized some slightly.

I just sold a TH-G71A. It was a good, rugged rig. It had only one receiver though. I sold mine and a few other HTs in order to buy two Icom W32As. The icoms are more sensitive on 70 cm. than the Kenwood was for some reason and the Icoms have dual receivers. I like the Icom better and bought them because I understand they are going out of production.

I will say, that while the Icom is more sensitive on the 70 cm receive side than the Kenwood and has two receivers where the Kenwood only has one, the Kenwood is more sensitive on 2 meter for what that is worth.

In my humble opinion, nothing beats the Icom 02AT or the old RS HTX-202.
They are big and bulky, but are true FM and from time to time you can find a good old one for sale. Both will put out up to 7 watts with a 13.2 volt Icom or Maha BP-7 battery attached and both have CTCSS tone encoding.

-Based on my rather limited experience, WriteLog (www.writelog.com) truly does a great job. It supports several clients writing to the same database, an essential feature for any multi-multi contest participation. Also, features include macros, voice keyer using an ordinary sound card, templates for all major contests making logging and score calculation a breeze, digimode coding/decoding +++.

The feature list is as long as my arm, check it out at www.writelog.com/features.htm

I am in no way associated with the people behind WriteLog other than as a satisfied customer. K5DJ kindly took my order by phone two hours before the CQWW SSB 2000 kickoff, as our home-brew java/sql based logging database turned out to be way to slow for contest use...

Before the contest started, we had writelog running with three clients and the operators had learned how to use the program. Not bad!

Un-documented side bonus is when you "mod" the radio (cut one blue wire - that's all) The radio will also RX/TX on all 14 FRS radio channels !!

Now besides 144 and 440 I can use to to talk to the wife at the mall with her Motorola FRS radio!

YOU STUPID SHIT ROGER!!!!!!!!!! A DD-214 is NOT a discharge. There is not a (not "an," more illiterate grammar usage again by Roger) Honorable Discharge on a DD-214, only the character of service is noted on the DD-214. I'm betting yours is way less than honorable, and our investigative team is working on that, as we speak.

Hey you guys in the radio groups. I got an Email from a ///stop here to take a pee// radio guy named Chris in Georgia. Says this guy in Georgia that is a little buddy of Roger's is a violent convicted drug felon that was sentenced to six years at the state prison farm.

It figures Fuckwit Roger, who is a couple French fries short of (dam pants got wadded up in my crack))))))

a Happy Meal would pick a playmate with a background like that. Chris even told me where to look up this guy's prison record in an on-line public data base. Also said this guy in Georgia married a woman who was a former CB radio porno movie queen, banged hundreds of guys and is an old woman about 20 years older than Roger's buddy in Georgia. Hey Fuckwit

Roger, there's a thought, why don't you follow suit and marry
Big Marie???????????????? LOL LOL LOL LOL FUCKWIT ROGER!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Can any of you guys in the radio groups supply more info? LOL Fuckwit Roger.............

Odd

We should make a difference between DX-loggers and contest-loggers.

DX-loggers: to keep track of several thousands of QSO's, track awards (DXCC, WAS, WAZ, IOTA...), QSL'ing statistics...

Contest loggers: used only for contest, fast access, easy to use, CW keying, etc DX4WIN is not designed for contests, and WriteLog (I think, don't know) will not have the features a DX'er wants to see).

I use DX4WIN to track my QSO's and band/country score, and I import my contets log. In a contest I use CT and now exploring N1MMLogger...

PS: I visited LA1K last summer, see pics on my site:
http://www.qsl.net/on5zo/norway.htm

73 es CU in the contest!

Lancaster, Kentucky -- An automotive technician had his home raided by federal agents Tuesday.
After the 7-hour action by the Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms that cost the loss of all firearms and a computer hard drive, Charlie Puckett vows to fight back. "I will do whatever it takes to get my firearms back," he said.

Was this the same station who would check into and called himself
"Wolfman Jack" on the Eastern Regional Patriot Militia Net without using a valid ham radio callsign on 3.860 mHz Lower sideband ?

Net meets mon, tue, thur, sat nights 3.860 mHz LSB ham radio at 8:00 PM eastern time. Listen 4 yourself. I thought the Liberty net was bad.

Note: This net IS NOT affiliated with the Motley-Crew net that meets late on at the same frequency - no connection!

Did the ATF got there before Hollingsworth did....?

The original poster was asking about and HT.
No. 1- he will not able to find an HT with 10 watts.

No. 2 He will not be albe to find an HT with 6 meter USB.

No3. - He said nothing about wanting to use

-I kind of agree - WriteLog is not a full-fledged DX logger, though it offers templates for chasing the most common awards, and you can create templates (Or, QSO filters, if you like!) for others.

As I am currently holding a 50MHz+ license, I am not the right person to judge the pros and cons of day-to-day logging software. But while logging for our ops during CQWW SSB, I came to appreciate the intuitive user interface of WriteLog, and out of curiousity (sp?) tried to use it for DXCC as well, using a mock QSO database. At least with modest sized logs (<5k QSOs), it performed very well.

No Roger... YOU are the idiot. You know something, you should really watch what you sat to people. Someday, you may need help, and some "spick" may not help you just because you are being racist. That is sad that you feel that way about us latinos. Really, most of us, are really good people. I will pray for you.

Roger Wiseman, self-proclaimed military expert, declared,
"My little radio buddy in Georgia got TWO Honorable Discharges for selling illegal drugs to children." Not being satisfied with inserting only one foot in his mouth, Wiseman further spewed,
"I have a Honorable Discharge, and it is a DD-214."

If Roger's brain was magnified one-million times, it would still sound like a BB in a box car.

All,

My solution is the following (but it's a little pricy):

I use TRX-Manager for CAT control (http://www.trx-manager.com).
I use Log IC (http://www.hosenose.com) for general log. TRX Manager has an OLE interface to Log IC. Works great!
I use Write Log for all my contesting.

At the end of each contest, I do an ADIF export from Write Log and then append that data to my Log IC data file.

I have heard rumors of mergers but the benefits of the Wireless Spectrum Cap Lift of November 8th on the short run seem to be minor at best. If you can substantiate something to the contrary, I'd like to hear it?

What mergers are in the offing? Who really benefits from the cap lift and how?

Uniden ARU251K Repeater, UHF 25watt, Built-In Duplexers.
on GMRS now, Has hangtime, courtesy tone, etc.
462.650, I believe... has tunable TPL encode/decode. It's crystal but has built-in duplexers. Its only problem is the power supply went bad. It is now set up with a 12vdc cable hanging out the back to hook to a supply like any radio. The 110 cord was removed also. But, works fine sitting here on the desk with a mobile whip in the window. Wattmeter says 20watts out the duplexers so power is fine, too. Cosmetics get a 5. Electronics in 10 condition. Has scratches, rubs, etc. but nothing affecting operation. Not excellent, Not beaten.
Includes regency handmic but no duplexer jumpers.
It be heavy!

Second item is a Motorola MARTI phone patch. This is the larger, configurable model that should fit any repeater. 19" wide, and model is L1159A. Comes with wall supply. Excellent condition!
They were not originally a set, but should work fine if necessary.

Asking $350 for both plus shipping costs and may trade for other motorola, Kenwood handheld, mobile, radios, equipment, etc.
Curious what's out there....
Will consider ham stuff, too. (newer items)
See HT600 posting for trade info, and thanks!!

Now wait a minute, something is going on, and JYZ is sounding sedated. Riley pops the goof with another warning and he comes on the air and denies any wrong doing. This "Goof", must be taking medication that he got from TEW, the "TAMPA TURD". Now I realize that Jimmy must have a lot of stuff in the medicine cabinet at this time and he could make a few quick bucks, but how did "Dumbass" play into the equation ????? I heard Dumbass a couple of weeks ago transmitting from the campgrounds in north Fla, but could he have worked out a drugs for mows deal with TEW????
Now listen up all of you hams, W4NTI the Dumbass follower will soon make his entry, but just wait a minue Dan, does Donnie Dumbass have the MOH like Duane?Hammer

5048. Why Woger Is Angwy

Would it not be the ultimate irony of ironies if it were found that Roger's record in the Air Force was flawed by drug usage? One could comprehend that Roger was discovered in the head making love to his five-fingered girl friend, but drug use would be the epitome of hilarity. This discovery would cause a great deal of merriment in the house of Stagger Lee and Joanie. Poor, poor Roger. He has been nowhere since his stint in the service save for the local gay bar. The almost fifty year old now lives a quiet, reserved, and nondescript life at home with his mother. Roger resides in a small town where, much to his chagrin, everybody knows everybody. He must therefore necessarily maintain his image as a quiet, docile, down-to-earth, good little boy. Roger is all the while aware that in the interim all the little old spinsters in town are whispering behind his back that he still lives with his aged mother. Roger knows this of course, and it causes him to constantly seethe with a bottomless, quiet anger, which he ultimately spews out on the news groups. Then, to add insult to his injuries, he gets spanked time after time after time and has not the intellect to realize or admit it. Speak, Roger, speak.

Rog wasn't kicked out, per se. He was told that he should resign in the best interest of all. The rest is, as we know, history. Roger may or may not have gotten his DD-214, nobody knows for sure. We have only his claim that he did....but you know as well as I that Roger is prone to fabrication.
He probably plagiarized his DD-214, too.

Hi , I purchased 2 walkie talkies at a fleamarket and wondering how to charge them? anyone??

1- they both have I think a nicklecadnium pack with three cells wrapped that I put my 9volt wall adapter on and they charged up and worked but I am wondering how long to charge them for? There is no amp hour rating or anything on there at all.

2- Is there an easy way to tell what frequency they are on other than freq counter ? A friend has a Yaseu FT530, will that tell what freq some how?

Any help is great thanks

AMATEUR RADIO NEWSLINE(tm) REPORT #1268 - NOV 30, 2001

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1268 with a release date of Friday, November 30th, 2001 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. A enforcement issue involving a contest station and lots of news on ham radio in space are first on this weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1268 coming your way right now.

ENFORCEMENT: SPLIT FREQUENCY OPERATION BRINGS INTERFERENCE WARNING NOTICE FROM THE FCC

If you are operating split frequency and another ham calls you on the phone to tell you that you are interfering with his QSO, listen to what he or she says.
It could save you from getting a citation from the FCC. This advice comes from many operators after the FCC's chief ham radio rules enforcer Riley Hollingsworth says he's letting stand a Warning Notice he sent to a Pennsylvania radio amateur after receiving allegations of deliberate interference that took place during a contest.

Hollingsworth: "We reaffirmed our Warning Letter to Joseph Brue, K3NM, of Pennsylvania in the case of interference he caused when operating split on 40 meters during a recent contest."
--

The background on this story is quite complicated and will take a few minutes to explain it in detail. This is because it is very important to any ham who operates spit frequency in a contest or while chasing D-X.

The issues involves Joseph Brue, K3NM. He was sent the Warning Notice on September 12th after a Louisiana ham named John King, K5PGW, officially complained about a September 9 incident on 40 meter SSB. King claims that K3NM was operating split mode on during the Worked All Europe Contest. King says that during part of that contest period he was in QSO with Roy Ezell, K9ROY, in Kentucky when K3NM came on frequency. King says that K3NM did not bother to ask if the frequency was clear before beginning to call C-Q contest.

King says that he and K9ROY attempted to contact the operator at K3NM and alert him about the QRM. Unfortunately. he was listening outside the US phone band.
Since neither King or Ezell could reach K3NM by radio, K9ROY reverted to an older form of communication. He telephoned Brue, to let him know that his station was interfering with his contact and asking him to move. In fact, King claims that there were two calls made to K3NM but that station never did change frequency.

And here is where it all gets a bit more complex. You see, the person operating K3NM’s station at the time of the incident was not Joseph Brue. Rather a guest in the person of the Matt Vanni, callsign LU9AY. And it was Vanni who first responded to the FCC. He said that he could not hear K5PGW or K9ROY. So, even though he acknowledged the phone calls, he continued operating the station on the same transmit frequency. He also told the FCC that he always monitors his transmit frequency whenever he operates split frequency. Brue later confirmed Vanni's version of what happened to the FCC. But he also acknowledged receiving the two telephone calls from the complaining hams.

So why issue a warning letter? Hollingsworth explains it in the reaffirmation message itself. His key words to Brue are these:

"The fact remains, however, that both you and Vanni had notice, directly from the complainant operator in two separate telephone calls, that your station was indeed interfering with specific ongoing communications."

Hollingsworth added that based on the phone calls from Ezell that it was not good Amateur practice for the K3NM operators to ignore the complainant and continue operating the station. At least not without a good faith attempt at compromise or taking corrective action.

And the bottom line for all hams may be what Hollingsworth wrote in the original September 12th letter to Brue. There he said that Amateurs are responsible for taking steps to make sure they do not interfere with ongoing communications, and contest participants have no greater rights to any specific frequency than other hams. RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Tacoma Washington may be the first city to prohibit Class D 11 meter C-B operators from using non-FCC certified transmitting equipment. Adopted last September 12th but only now becoming widely known, Tacoma City Ordinance 26851 amends Chapter 8.38 of their Municipal Code in two ways. First is Section 8.38.010 which directly prohibits use of non-approved radio equipment by CB’ers. And if a CB’er breaks the new law he or she is subject to Section

8.38.020. This makes using such a radio a misdemeanor punishable to a fine of up to $500, and/or up to 6 month imprisonment.

Tacoma enacted Ordinance 26851 based on an earlier amendment to the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which was adopted by Congress a couple of years ago. As this was a Congressional action, not an FCC action, any challenges by C-B operators to the new Tacoma local law would have to go through the federal courts. As far as we can determine, the new law is carefully crafted to affect only C-B operators and no other radio operators in the Tacoma area. (Various news sources)

LEGAL ISSUES: ANTENNA LAWS WILL BITE SOUTH AFRICAN AMATEURS

Ham radio operators in South Africa have something new to worry about. Expensive antenna regulation and added costs for evaluating an antenna installation. Q-News Graham Kemp has the details:

Following a lecture on Antenna regulation and planning, South African Clubs in many provinces have been urged to meet and appoint a mutual provincial representative to work in this field.

Tim Ellam, a Telecommunications lawyer, sketched the situation in Canada but the hams in ZS land soon discovered they are worse off! Amateurs there could soon be paying in access of Rand 10 000 to have a scooping study done before submitting plans for approval.

That is the reason the SARL installed the CPAS committee, a body with members representing each province to monitor development so that timely intervention can put the case for Amateur Radio Towers. This was successfully accomplished in the KwaZulu-Natal.

CPAS now has KZN and Eastern Cape and Western Cape represented. Will the rest of the country wait till it is too late?

According to Kemp, Tim Ellam put forward many useful suggestions and dealt extensively the South African situation. For our listeners in South Africa, C.P.A.S. itself is on e-mail at cpas@intekom.co.za (SARL via Q-News)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: EXPEDITION 4 CREW ON ITS WAY TO THE ISS

A new crew is headed to the International Space Station and could be there by the time this newscast goes to air. This time a Russian is in command of two Americans and all three have an interest in ham radio. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Roy Neal, K6DUE, gives us some insight into the Expedition 4 crew and what to expect while they are on board the I-S-S.

The new crew board the International Space Station plan to work in some hamming between work sessions of their sixteen hour daily schedule. Astronauts Dan Bursch and Carl Walz, both Flight Engineers are KD5PNU and KC5TIE and their commander, Cosmonaut Yuri Onufrienko once spent 193 days on the Mir Space

Station and was on the radio a lot.

They plan to use NA1SS, the amateur station on board the ISS, whenever they get a chance. If they come close to the records set by Frank Culbertson and Susan Helms of the last two station crews, it will be surprising. That's because they have a very ambitious work schedule.

Among other things, they are charged with delivering and installing a huge 356 foot long girder-like truss. They plan at least eight space walks, two of which will be used to install new ham radio antennas outside the space stations crew quarters.

Add a few such things as changing out the stations command and control computers with new, solid state memory units and playing host to two visiting shuttle flights and a Russian Progress taxi mission, plus more than 400 hours of carrying out scientific experiments, and you begin to get the idea. When the Expedition 4 crew comes back to Earth next May..they'll need a rest. Meanwhile, we hams look forward to at least a few contacts with them on 2 meters, via NA1SS, the ham radio station on board.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Roy Neal. K6DUE.

A new crew is not the only ham radio change taking place on board the International Space Station. According to ARISS Chairman Frank Bauer, KA3HDO the new ham radio antenna system mentioned in Roy's report has been approved for flight and manifested to be flown on the STS-108 flight. Once installed around the perimeter of the Russian Service Module early next year, the new I-S-S ham radio antennas will cover the H-F, VHF, UHF and microwave bands up to 2.4 Gigahertz.

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AMSAT THANKS DONAHUE

Newly elected ARRL Southeastern Division Vice Director Sandy Donahue, W4RU, has received his first award. In fact he got it before the ballots had even been counted.

The recognition came at the recent 2001 AMSAT Symposium awards which included a presentation to in grateful appreciation for work as the ARRL Liaison for the event. W4RU's dedicated service and hard work in this role was also well noted.

CONVENTIONS AND HAMFESTS: RSGB STOPS ORGANIZING TRADE SHOWS

The Radio Society of Great Britain says that its no longer going to organize ham radio trade shows. Instead it will participate at conventions organized on a local level. That a major change in policy as we hear from Jeramy Boot, G4NJH:

With the continuing success of the RSGB Regional organization it is becoming possible for the RSGB to have a presence at an increasing number of amateur radio events, rallies and trade shows around the country. In view of this enhanced activity, the RSGB has decided that it will no longer itself organize amateur radio trade shows.

The RSGB believes that there is a need for more convention-style meetings where radio amateurs can discuss new techniques and other innovations in seminar-like events and that such events represent a better use of the RSGB's resources.

Jeramy Boot, G4NJH.

In other words, the moneys saved can go into other projects aimed at furthering the cause of ham radio in the U-K. (RSGB)

RADIO AT WAR: SHORTWAVE RETURNS TO AFGHANISTAN

A new shortwave radio station is broadcasting to Afghanistan. According to the Media Network e-newsletter, the arrival of Radio Voice of Afghanistan seemed to surprise just about everyone except those behind it. Who are they? As of airtime, they have chosen not to reveal their identity.

It was Glenn Hauser's DX Listening Digest that broke the news to the world. Then a Mexican listener to Radio Netherlands Spanish service, Adolfo Murrieta González, claimed credit for the first logging on November 17th. Clandestine

Radio Watch was soon on the chase as well with Takuya Hirayama of it's Japan Bureau listening in. Hirayama understands Pashto and Dari. He wrote a summary of the broadcast on November 22nd. Read more in the Media Network Afghanistan media dossier at http://www.rnw.nl/realradio/html/afghanistan.html. RADIO IN THE USA: CLEAR CHANNEL BUYING ACKERLY

The United States largest radio broadcaster, is getting a lot bigger. This as Clear Channel Communications Inc., announces that it is buying the Ackerley Group, which owns billboards and other outdoor advertising as well as radio and television stations.

Clear Channel, operates about 1,180 radio and 18 TV stations in the United States, already is involved in events promotion and billboard advertising. It is paying about $500 million in stock to acquire Ackerly. (Broadcast Weekly)

NOAA WEATHER RADIO: CRAIG AND DONNA NOT MUCH BETTER THAN PERFECT PAUL

Two well respected broadcasters who also happen to be ham radio operators have voiced their opinions on the new voices tapped by the National Weather Service to replace the not so perfect -- Perfect Paul. For those not aware, Perfect Paul is the nickname given to that mechanical sounding computerized voice that currently voices NOAA Weather Radio. Take a listen:

--
Perfect Paul Audio Here

The closest thing to it our world of Amateur Radio are the automated voices heard on many repeaters. You know, those announcements that say this is the W-A-3-such and such repeater. The ones that users are always complaining about.

In the case of Perfect Paul, the NOAA Radio received so many complaints that he will soon be replaced by two new and far less computer sounding voices named Craig and Donna. This came after months of evaluating voice technologies and receiving public input, including over 19,000 Internet survey comments. Based on this input, NOAA awarded Siemens Information and Communication Network a $633,615 contract for the voice improvement software product, known as Speechify. Siemens teamed with SpeechWorks International of Boston to provide software that combines phonetic sounds with natural language modeling. Heres a sample:

A lot better than Perfect Paul? Some say yes but Richard Rudman, W6TIA, is not that enthusiastic. Rudman is the chairman of the EAS National Advisory Committee and the Los Angeles County local emergency committee. He is quoted in the November 21st issue of the trade publication Radio World as saying he wished that the committee choosing the new voices for NOAA Weather Radio would have waited for something better to come along. W6TIA says that the new voices chosen are an improvement, but still have major shortcomings with regard to quality and inflection issues that bother him.

Also quoted in the Radio World article is Chris Boone, WB5ITT. He says that the voices still sound computer-like and canned. Boone says he can hear the digital artifacts in them and would not put them on a broadcast station. Even so, the computerized Craig and Donna would be a welcome change to the automatic I-D voices used on most ham radio repeaters today. (Radio World, NOAA, NWS, others)

HAM RADIO ON THE BOOKSHELF: TUNE IN THE UNIVERSE

“Tune In The Universe” is a new book on CD-ROM by SETI League Director H. Paul Shuch, N6TX. The book is unique in that it is both interactive with the reader and because it can be read using any web browser. No special reader software is required.

Why a book now? N6TX tells Amateur Radio Newsline that its kind of overdue:

Shuch: “Ive been on the lecture circuit for SETI for the past seven years and everywhere I go people ask if I have a book about all of this. Well, we have a website but not everybody has an Internet connection and some other peoples download speeds are a bit slow. So I took the best material from seven years of running the SETI League and tried to put it together in one convenient place.”
--

And that’s exactly what Dr. Shuch has done. Called a ham radio operators guide to the search for extraterrestrial intelligence, the book is divided into six sections that cover every aspect of ham radio’s involvement in SETI as well as the ongoing search itself. Also included are a mix of photos and even some songs that Dr. Shuch says should educate as well as entertain. Why music you ask? N6TX says that its a fun way to learn about anything:

Shuch: “As any teacher knows, memory is enhanced and multiple learning styles are accommodated by invoking as many different sensory pathways as possible. That is, we educators try to stimulate the students auditory, visual and tactile systems all at once to maximize the learning experience. Why do you think we are always writing on a chalk-board and asking you to take notes while we drone on in a monotone?

Somewhere along the line in my teaching career I figured out that music was another sensory pathway worth stimulating. And, just maybe would make my lectures a tad less monotonous. So I began introducing songs as learning aids.

Tune In The Universe" is published by the American Radio Relay League and is priced at under $25. For more information visit the League's website at www.arrl.org. More about the SETI League is also to be found in cyberspace. It's at www.setileague.org. (N6TX, SETI League, ARNewsline(tm))

THAT FINAL ITEM: A REPEATER CONTACT CONTEST?

And finally this week, while we here in the United States frown on contesters interfering with repeater contacts, down-under its a different story. Can you believe that Australia has a contest where only contacts made over repeaters count toward the final score? Well they do and Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, is back again with the details:

Westlakes unique CQ Repeater Contest where amateurs are encouraged to put a little life into usually quiet repeaters. The aim of all contests is to promote good will between amateurs and to encourage on air activity. The big difference with this CQ Repeater contest is that all contacts MUST be made on repeaters.

The rules have been even simpler. Contest numbers do not have to be exchanged - just keep a record of the station spoken to and on which repeater and at what time the contact was made.

Contest Period is from 0001 local from 1st of January 2002 to 2359 local on the 7th January. The bands are 10 Meters, 6 Meters, 2 Meters and 70 centimeters. The mode is FM only ad scoring is 1 point for each contact. It doesn't get any simpler than that!

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Graham Kemp, VK4BB, of Q-News Australia.

Could such a contest be successful in North America? Maybe, but we do not know of any repeater owners who really want to find out. (Q-News)

Woger is, like his two-time convicted butt-buddy in Hiram, what we refer to as a REMF.

This REMF term is rather derogatory in and of itself. I am sure that the Hiram Hog, who lost his 14 years as a Navy Seal (his lie, not ours) and Roger, Airman Second Class whose time with the Air Force was terminated for dubious and nefarious activities with minors will be reading these pages.

Woger will be awakening in an hour or two, he will skulk into his mommy's room and surreptitiously turn on her computer so as to not wake Big Marie up. Roger will then don his alter ego and proceed to cuss, swear, use filthy language, go berserk, and jump to and fro while his mommy is asleep. Woger is aware that he is not well liked, and indeed he is rather homely.

Speak, Roger. Speak.

Hey, Youngblood, how is it you never served in the military? Oh, that's right you only are a "man" over the radio reading police and credit reports

Poor Nadless 8 White Gay Male, it's no wonder he checks into the so-called "Liberty Net" because they're the only humans he has contact with. He'll get on there, high on cocaine, babbling like a baboon, but the chimpmunk-featured Turdeater has even more problems. He's never served in the military, over 50 and never been married, and has front teeth that could open up bottle caps. Turdeater tried college, but dropped out because of failing grades after 1 1/2 semesters. His lack of education and social-economic background make him the perfect sheep to the extreme right-wing nutcases who want to really destroy the United States. I.E. those on the so-called "Liberty Net."
Turdeater has this big truck, with big tires, to compensate the fact he's lacking in some male sexual anatomical department.
He's been posting anonymously because he lacks the balls. All these anonymous cowards are llike little kids, hurl insults behind a tree then run away and giggle hysterically to themselves. I guess it's the drug use. You see that in these anonymous cowards. It's the only way they can have some resemblence of manhood. Poor things.

Steve the chipmunk faced Turdeater didn't have the BALLS to get out of his overcompensating for his tiny penis pickup truck to knock on 'da door.
I laughed at Stevie-boy and told him to kiss my ass just to piss him off. It worked and the boy drove off with his tail between his legs....especially since the police were on Projection.......but you lack the brains to do any better, dropout. Just like Stevie the chipmunk-faced freak who dropped out because of ppoor grades...seems ol' Steve couldn't lay off the cocaine long enough to buckle down and study. Same reason he's stuck in a license class that's no longer issued, too fucking stupid to upgrade.

Had a wife........Unlike Steve Turdeater who confessed he let one get away, but he didn't mention that it was a four legged female sheep.

Steve Turdeater is too CHICKENSHIT to show up here again...maybe it's because of a call from the police department because he was a flamewar loser and took it to real life just like the obsessed kook he is.........bwhahahahahahahahahahahaha!!!

But you still continue to HIDE behind anonimity........CHICKENSHIT COWARD.

Once a month the Colonel at Roger's base would have lunch with a junior enlisted man. The men would get selected by a random lottery. Roger lucked out one month, and the big day came. Roger put on his best uniform, shined his shoes with Hershey bars and polished his buckle with steel wool, then went to lunch with the Colonel. Everything was going fine, and Roger was getting to really like the Colonel. It was easy talking to the Colonel, so when this beautiful large titted gorgeous blond walked in, Roger began telling the Colonel what he would love to do with this gorgeous blond. Roger used his best Usenet filthy language to describe the beautiful young woman and the various sexual acts he wanted to perform with this attractive doll. The Colonel listened to Roger, when suddenly, the beautiful woman started coming over to Roger and the Colonel's table. Roger got very very excited, thinking the girl was turned on by Roger. Finally, after several seconds, the girl arrived at Roger's table. Roger's tiny little pee pee was at stiff attention when the Colonel spoke up and said, "Airman Wiseman, I would like you to meet my daughter."

Daily, here on Usenet, we see the same Roger Wiseman, the Usenet Fuckwit, who continually opens his mouth and inserts both feet.

This, of course, is why Roger scoots to and fro, room to room, on his buttocks. Both of his feet are firmly embedded in his mouth, thereby making upright travel next to impossible. This also explains why Roger cannot speak. His shoes are in the way, making intelligible speech impossible, so he does the next best thing. He talks out of his ass.

Roger is prone to spelling errors when he is upset by a post. He becomes so enraged that his greasy hair flies to and fro and his spittle gets in his eyes while his teeny little fingers fly across his keyboard as he responds. REMF's are like that.....

Iï¿½m sure that youï¿½re - in your next post - going to post how many treaties

Translation from Miller's bullshit: "Honorably discharged in 1977."

And Faggot Lee, where's YOUR military record? Maybe I can FOIA it from the Military records archive..... Or maybe it's in what you consider a credible source, <snicker> alt.flame. What a moron you are. You must've inherited it from your daddy who took 7 years to get a 4 year degree.

[...drivel bullshit...]

Spark Miller was posting total Bullshit. I have a Honorable Discharge.
Miller's "info" is like this :Faggot Lee was disqualified from Military service,
due to the fact he tried to engage his recruiter in oral sex under his desk.
Faggot Lee promptly got his teeth knocked out, which was really to his benefit, since the greenish-scrags of teeth from years of cocksucking needed removed. Faggot Lee had to settle for meanial jobs since he lacked any skills or education.
Now this has to be true, because it's on the internet.

With the return of NR5T full time to 14313, the controversial frequency has almost come full circle.
KV4FZ is all that is now needed to complete the circle and for 14313 to return to its pre-Riley Hollingsworth days.

All the old familiar calls are back on 14313, up to their same old habits, all day, every day: K9GOR, WA2EXQ, W1BWV (WB1BWV), W4AMP (KD4CDB), W4JYZ (KF4JYZ), K3QAM, W2OOQ, KB1EVE (KC1ZQ), just to name of few of the high-profile operators.

The situation begs the questions, Just what has Riley Hollingsworth really accomplished? Does he ever hope to accomplish anything? Is Riley Hollingsworth even relevant anymore to ham radio? Just what is Riley Hollingsworth's true purpose in life? Riley Hollingsworth failed to permanently remove from ham radio many of the most violative ham operators in the history of ham radio, and that has directly contributed to the return of 14313 to its old state of affairs.

Respectfully,

Rod Johnson

Primate researchers have long observed and reported upon the monkey habit of frequently having congress with itself. In fact, some monkeys have been observed to engage in self-congress as many as 200 times per day, leaving little time for anything other than eating and sleeping.

It is now hypothesized that this explains the difference between monkeys and mankind: While mankind was learning to walk upright and to fashion tools, the monkey was engaged in self-congress so much that it began to degenerate from too much self abuse. In short, mankind became intelligent tool users while the monkey became the shriveled up, little hairy creature that it is today.

Could this same theory explain the physical appearance of Roger Wiseman?

Well Roger, I dont see why you try to talk so big. You think by trying to insult me, I get upset. I don't! You don't upset me at all. In fact, I laugh. What kind of guy is 50 some years old and still lives at home?? Do you have no life? All you do is post online, from an anon news server account at that. If you are so scared of what you say, maybe you should not say it at all. Id like to meet you in person and see if you still talk this way to me. I doubt you would. You would turn and walk away, no doubt talking about calling the police or something. I feel bad for you. Your getting up there in the years, and have nothing to show for your life. It seems to me you must really hate life. I feel bad for you there. I love life. I dont see how anyone could be filled with so much hate to say some of the things you say on here. You should take a serious look in the mirror. Im sure you will have some bad things to say to me after you read this, but that is ok. You are not upsetting me, insulting me, or hurting my feelings. I hope you can get some help sometime.

See what I mean. You just said it your self Roger... you run your mouth, then call the police when someone comes to discuss it face-to-face. Thats being a real man. Not to mention a real military vet. Im glad you aren't defending the country now, there is no room for whimps. You can't call the police on someone in Afghanistan.

Re: Parting Shot.
St:

I wanted to quote something from your diatribe, but...

It all comes down to ONE fact. Satti WAS in charge f FidoNet at the time he made those decisions. He was NOT 'dictator for life', though I can see how someone coveting his position might see it as that way.

You, on the other hand, make a fool of yourself, and made deals with people who have since stabbed you in the back. Playing with them didn't help you at all, and you REALLY need to see that. I strongly suspect you took some bad advice and did things you might not have done on your own, but you DID them and you have to accept the result.

Much of what you have been involved in the past 2 years is what has speeded up the demise of FidoNet as it used to exist. Add the Internet, and you have a whole package. Neither one by itself would have done nearly as complete a job of destroying the 'family' that existed within FidoNet back some years ago. But your antics, along with Hamm, Paris, and a few others, were the catalyst that drove off the best sysops and with them, the best users.

THAT is why I'm finally leaving FidoNet. The best of it is mostly gone, and what good remains can NOT compete with the skulkers of the Flame echo and the other wannabes who tear down instead of building up.

I know that my leaving will come as a major disappointment to a few people who will lose the target of opportunity that drives their shallow lives, but that's the breaks guys.

Just trying to help. <guffaw!> Personally, Stagger's crack-whore mommy wouldn't be anything to write home about. She's one of those "high-mileaged"

There is better solution. Let K1MAN have 14.275. W4NTI and his bunch of Best Kenwood Specialists!,

I Have a Cat interface (not the IF-10D) for my TS50s trx.
There are several programs but, none are using all TS50 commands (as far as I know).

I'm a Visual Basic (6) programmer, and have a lot of experiance with datacommunication.
I want to write my own program (and for other HAMs) specialy for the TS50 (window with graphically the TS50 in it).
And i want to make a lot of the buttons to work.

I hope that you can send me some more info (ore where i can get it) about the Cat commands.

On the moment i only have:
ID; IF; FA..; FB...; RX; TX; FNx; SPx; MDx;

I look for commands for RIT, MEmory, AntennaTune, Power, Freq, Up, Down and all other buttons on the TS50.

I hope you can help me
Please respond to my Email adres.

Many thanks in advance,

I have NEVER purchased anything from Texas Towers, for the following reason: I travel quite a bit on business, and use the opportunity to visit Ham Retailers when in town, to see in person the quipment that i am interested in. As it turns out, i usally frequest cities where HRO is located. On a recent trip to Dallas, I stopped into Texas Tower to 'browse'. I found them to be rude, curt, and unwilling to spend time with me unless I was ready to drop down my cash on the spot. Now, I am looking at purchasing a new HF rig for the Base, as well as a multimode mobile, and am cosidering the IC756ProII, vs. FT1000DMk5, as well as the IC 706 vs.FT100D. Neither of these are impulse purchases, and I will not buy unless I compare hands on. The venfor that is the most helpful will get the business, and Texas Towers will never get it.

In Contrast, I have visited the HRO stores over the past year, and as a direct result of their courteous service, have purchased the FT817, VX5R, and VX1 from them. In addition, I has a similar problem, with my VX5R, a bad ground in the radio that surfaced within 30 days of getting it home. The folks at HRO in San Diego (Where I purchased it in store), overnighted me a replacement, while my return was crossing in the mail (even though it was technically out of the replacement window, and should have been sent back for repair).

I can't say enough for the folks at HRO, and will continue to shop there (and AES) as long as the service remains constant. Note: I have had the same courteous treatment at other HRO stores, so assume it is a consistent company attitude.

This hobby is by definition a 'word of mouth (or key)' business, and products live or die that way. So do Vendors!

Paul - N2HJK

Circus Boy Wiseman is noted for his accuracy in quoting military procedures and regulations, so he shared the following: " My little radio buddy in Georgia got two honorable discharges for selling illegal drugs to children." Translation: Wiseman opens mouth, again, and inserts both feet, again.

Why does Lloyd Davies worry about 14.313? He's a Tech and hasn't any privileges on that frequency. What kind of loose screw is this guy? He also lives in an apartment in what I hear is the slum of his town. He can't even get on HF.

RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Tacoma Washington may be the first city to prohibit Class D 11 meter C-B operators from using non-FCC certified transmitting equipment. Adopted last September 12th but only now becoming widely known, Tacoma City Ordinance 26851 amends Chapter 8.38 of their Municipal Code in two ways.

First is Section 8.38.010 which directly prohibits use of non-approved radio equipment by CB'ers. And if a CB'er breaks the new law he or she is subject to Section

8.38.020. This makes using such a radio a misdemeanor punishable to a fine of up to $500, and/or up to 6 month imprisonment.

Tacoma enacted Ordinance 26851 based on an earlier amendment to the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which was adopted by Congress a couple of years ago. As this was a Congressional action, not an FCC action, any challenges by C-B operators to the new Tacoma local law would have to go through the federal courts. As far as we can determine, the new law is carefully crafted to affect only C-B operators and no other radio operators in the Tacoma area. (Various news sources)

TT isn't "partial" to buyers... They've treated me the same (crappy), when I

It reminded me of the times when I used to look somewhat like a hippy and would get treated about the same when stopping in at a small country store

Lllllllllllloyd is an IDIOT. He's a wannabe, self-appointed BARF chief of communications, who can't even communicate in English, trying to start up or keep going a long dead radio war.

It's none of your damn business what I do! You need to watch it, you can be tracked back to your home, even though you are using an anon. Which means you are another little prick behind a keyboard with no balls.

At least I post my name to my posts. I guess you are the "lose screw"!

HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!!!!!!!

5156. $100,000/yr Enjuneer Lifestyle

Lifestyles of $100,000/yr Enjuneers &
$50,000/yr Scrub Women:

Drive rusted out T-Birds with a garbage bag for a passenger side window. Radio antennas adorn every corner of the vehicle, and installed radio equipment is worth more than the vehicle is. CB radio is only radio currently working.

Other car has worn out brakes and a carbon clogged engine that misfires and spew clouds of smoke behind it. Ditto on installed radios and antennas.

Living quarters are a rented 60 year old hovel that sits so close to a state highway that 18-wheelers drop in for chow once a minute. Ditto on installed radios and antennas, except installed radios, antennas and electronic entertainment equipment are worth five times the value of the hovel.

You return your new DVD to the store, saying the vibrations broke it. The vibrations from the 18-wheelers that is.

You have a beer tap installed in each room of your rented hovel.

Your garden grows a crop of wacky weed year round.

Your landlord offers praises every day that he actually has fools stupid enough to pay him rent to live in such a hovel.

Habib at the cash checking and money order store front says you are his best customers.

All the clerks at the local liquor stores call you by your first name but know better than to extend you any credit.

You never know if your cell phones are going to work, since the phone Habib is also smart enough not to extend you any air time past what you've paid up front for.

You pick up your home phone and get not dial tone. Most people would wonder if the phone was out of order but you wonder if your wife paid the last phone bill.

You throw the light switch and the room remains dark. Most people wonder if a fuse blew. You wonder if your wife paid the electric bill.

You think DXCC is an item you should list on your job resume.

You blather on about having some sort of "college degree" but speak like the illiterate white trash you really are. Dizmorn = This morning, Winduzz Niate = Windows 98, Taw deyuh layer = Talk to you later, Sum rawnit = Something is wrong with it, etc.

Your old lady is more of a man than you are and proves it by fighting your fights at hamfests.

You give your call sign one time on 14313 and jammers we haven't heard in months come out of the woodwork.

You say you've lost 40 lbs. on a diet of beer, pork rinds, fatty meats, copious quantities of soft drinks, and talking on the radio 23 hours a day.

You have no problem telling the truth from a lie, as your world is one big 14313 delusion anyway, which is why people break into peals of laughter at your claims of being a $100,000/yr enjunear.

Well glad to see I was not alone!!
I was in Dallas for a wedding and I was looking for a new Yaesu FT-840 a couple of years back, I called and got directions to the store. I drove about 45 min. to get there arriving around 3:15 in the afternoon. As I got out and approached the door, a guy came out the door locking it behind him. I asked him if they where open he said no we closed early today. I told him I called and got directions but that no one told me that they where closing or I would not have tried to drive up there. He never apoligized, or said anything really. I used to work at a pizza deliviery buisness, I was told from day one that if a customer calls in with a complaint the first words out of your mouth should be "I'm sorry, what can I do to make it right". Even if it was not your fault. 1 positive experience told to 10 people gets you on average 5 new customers, 1 bad experience will loose you 10 on average. Great customer service comes from the root word "Customer".

I have been a fan of the Hamstation in Evansville IN. I used to drive almost two and a Half hours from home to do buisness with them. Always willing to talk to you and help out. Support you local ham radio dealer, they keep the hobby going.

I have made a project to use the PCR1000 with a little LCD display panel.
So the PC is not necessary!
If are you interested to this project see:

So what's that have to do with use of "HI HI" that's spoken or used in print? (unless the printed matter is a morse transcription) What's wrong with actually laughing at something?

There are new people reading this group daily perhaps they would have missd it, why do you a Extra class Ham worry about what is posted in rec.radio.cb and not any of the amateur groups? Just a little curious.

Mostly because I still talk on CB, with a CB, and I still enjoy CB. Is that a problem? Is that odd? Is that strange? Should I leave my friends on 27.385 LSB behind just because I can now talk on 7.175?

Of course you can still do both but why did you only defend rec.radio.cb.
btw who is talking about where your friends are this is a NG I cannot tune 27.385 on my newsreader last time i looked they have no idea whats going on.
You never answered the question. Ill ask again why are you worrying how many time that was posted to rec.radio.cb and not worried about how many times it was posted to any other NG's The question remains unanswered and twisted to your friends being part of this somehow.

There's nothing wrong with laughing but during half-duplex operation, nobody can hear you. When one comes back on, one can say, "HI HI on that last joke", instead of feigning a fake delayed laugh.

(BTW, you wrote that exact same paragraph in broken Spanish when trying to flame me. And you call me a bot?)

Now let's have a look at your Spanish:

* You use "usted". This means, literally, "you, sir/madam"; it is how you talk when showing respect. Certain social situations call for "usted". Flaming probably isn't one of them.

* "Las LA MAYORIA" has two articles; it means "the the majority."
Worse, one article is plural and the other is singular. Worse still, "mayor�a" is the wrong word.

* "LOS idiotic jackass peque�o": "Los" is plural, "idiotic jackass" is English, and "peque�o" is singular. And why "peque�o" if "la mayor�a [sic]"?

* "Hay activado el internet" comes across as "there is activated the internet". Badly mangled.

* "Pierde un cerebro": "pierde" probably should be subjunctive, "pierda" (or better yet, a perfect tense, "haya perdido"); and as one has only one brain to lose (well, except that you don't have even that), should be "el cerebro".

* "Usted es apenas": reverse subject and verb to ask a question:
"Es usted apenas"; better yet (see first point), "eres apenas".
Even worse, "apenas" means "hardly", which is probably not what you want. Use "tal vez".

* "De aqu tomar lejos" -> "from here to take away", badly mangled.
The infinitive "tomar" can't be used alone as an adverb, as it can in English. You have to use "para tomar".

* "Americanos verdaderos": quite apart from the bigotry, "americano" is often applied to one who lives anywhere in North or South America.

* "Dumbass" isn't exactly Spanish.

So let's fix this up, shall we?

Scheissman, tienes que ser el asno mas idi tico en todo el Internet.
Siempre te anuncias como alguien que haya perdido el cerebro? O eres tal vez un racista sin vida, aqu para flamear malamente a tus superiores?
Eres un tonto retardado.

There, that's much better. Now wasn't that easy?

That's good, Rich; Krell dodged the question.

Since Krell's so adamant in believing that it's incorrect to say
"HI HI" on phone (to the point that he called someone an idiot), then surely he must believe it's incorrect to call "CQ" on phone, too. He'll be the first ham to ever say "Hello All Stations."

The point being that since the CW prosigns "CQ" and "73" are universally accepted and used on phone, you shouldn't call folks derogatory names for also saying "HI HI"; it's just another CW prosign that's been adopted for phone.

This is the exact same experience I had with AES in Orlando last month. I could barely get them to talk to me. I was ready to buy an antenna, but because of being ignored, and then treated rudely, I walked out. I like their catalog, but I will never buy from them.

pass all the "laws" you want.....answer me one question.....how does it make any difference? how is this new law going to be actively enforced?? local atthorities still have to obtain a search warrant,with reasonable cause

If you're a ham (as I am), you really shouldn't be gloating over this.

Do you think the average traffic cop can tell the difference between a CB antenna and a ham antenna? Will he be able to tell your HR2600 10m mobile from a Galaxy "export" CB? Doubtful.

These new "local yokel" anti-CB laws are BAD NEWS for ALL operators of mobile radio equipment. Just another excuse for unwarranted police harrassment. Anyone with an antenna will now be suspect.

I liked what a few locals did a few years back:
They were having a problem with a CB'er in the neighbor hood, he was running about 1000 watts at home in a very compact type of housing area.
Needless to say he was trashing everyone's phone, TV, stereo, phone machines etc etc.
So after repeated attempts to have the FCC do something, the came up with a great idea. It was 6 or 8 of them got together and each took him to small claims court for two thousand dollars each, reason for case:
Our standard of life was being hampered with.
It worked, he was convicted and had to pay them a monetary award, though less than the total, but still significant.

>> This would explain why you used the anon to talk tough?

Apparently, Mr KK4TL has never been on the receiving end of anonymous late night hang up calls, anon calls to his employer, anonymous defamatory letters written to his neighbors, fraudulent magazine subscriptions, fraudulent COD orders, unidentified cars parked in front of his house after midnight, anonymous threatening emails, anon threats to harm members of your family, and a host of other harassment and stalking activities which more often than not originate from Hiram, Georgia. I wonder if Mr KK4TL has ever been told on 14313 and 3901 that his minor daughters suck the dicks of truck drivers or that your wife sucks the dicks and swallows the sperm of niggers (not my words, these were actual recorded statements made on 14313 and 3901 by an operator in Hiram, Georgia who readily identified himself with his legitimate amateur call sign.) The same operator in Hiram, Georgia featured the photo of an amateur, the same one with the minor daughters he said sucked truck driver's dicks, on a web page, claiming that this amateur was the Olympic Park bomber and was being sought by federal law enforcement authorities. The same operator, in a wild out of control frenzy on 14313, heard by thousands of ham operators, threatened to murder a ham in NJ. In yet another out of control frenzy on 14313, the same Hiram, Georgia operator threatened to kick in the door of another ham operator and assault him and his family. Both of these threats were recorded, documented, and forwarded to Riley Hollingsworth for action or, should I say inaction.

Riley Hollingsworth has long been aware of the activities of the operator in Hiram, Georgia and has dozens of recordings of this operator, made by OOs, the FCC, and individual ham operators.

The station in Hiram, Georgia, is currently, once again, attacking his perceived enemies on 14313 and 3901 and once again the amateur community wonders why noting has ever been done by Riley to remove the Hiram, Georgia station from amateur radio.

So Mr KK4TL, just maybe now you might begin to see the need for people to post anonymously and why people post snide remarks about Riley's impotence. Me, I see nothing to be gained in attacking Riley, but that's only my opinion. I can readily understand the frustration that the rest of the amateur community has with Riley's inability or lack of action in addressing the blatant violations of the station in Hiram, Georgia.

Here's a question for you, Mr KK4TL. How do you propose that Riley Hollingsworth can finally be motivated to remove the Hiram, Georgia operator from amateur radio?

And yes, I am anon, for the protection of myself and my family from a very unstable person.

Hmm .. good questions here. This person in Hiram, GA sure sounds scary so I don't want no part of him. I only have 2 suggestions.

First, we need Bro. John to pray for him and preach him a good sermon. That will help.

Second, maybe we need a good old fashioned

COLLIERVILLE, TN: The FCC on February 7, 2001, sent a Warning Notice to George A. Ashley, W4FQF, citing information before the Commission alleging that the licensee has engaged in deliberate interference on the 75-meter band (3.901 MHz) at various times since October 2000. The FCC says that some of the interference included the playing of recordings and that the licensee was warned about such activities on 20 meters in January 1999. "This constitutes a second warning that any further incidents of such operation will result in enforcement action being taken against you, including license revocation, monetary forfeiture, or both," FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth wrote. Hollingsworth requested that within 20 days Ashley describe his transmitting equipment at his licensed location and at any other address in Tennessee.

Maybe not, but his confusion is easily resolved by a quick look at a valid ham ticket. I'm sure that the police will have a "cheat sheet" for known illegal CB radios, just like they do for the banned assault weapons in CA. No ticket ? Then they look at the gear, and if it's on the list, it's theirs.

Funny thing, I'm 48 years old and I have never been "harassed" by the police, and I do not personally know anybody who has. I think that these people who feel "harassed" are the same bunch that get "harassed" for other types of illegal behavior also... :>)

I have no problem with a police officer checking out my mobile installation. This minor inconvenience is more than offset by the deterrent factor it presents to the radio thieves, free banders, and bootleggers. Who knows, maybe it will be a motivator for the few "legitimate CB'ers" to graduate to a more honorable and rewarding form of the radio hobby.

And this is one of the main reasons for restoring the Better Amateur Radio Federation. The mentioned person was once a proud member, but has fallen out of grace with his wild behavior. We will deal with these "fallen angels" in whatever way deemed acceptable.

People like Wiseman are pimple on the rear of the B.A.R.F. They will get tired of beating themselves against the wall in this newsgroup, and then leave in disgrace. We took out his ability to get on the newsgroups once, and will do it again if needed. It's not time yet.

That's why need YOU. With your help, we can clean the ham bands of garbage.

Just a general? I thought Wiseman, with all the know-how he claims to have, would be an extra by now. Now of course Wiseman's reply to this will be that I'm too stupid to pass the General class. I passed the written in 1998, but it expired before I could get the code down. I have not had the time to take it. I would like to get it. But oh well, by the time I get around to it, there will probably be no code anyway, so why bother? You can call me lazy, I dont give a s$$$! It's the way I feel about it. Go ahead, Woger..... Make my day!!

W4NTI mentioned a few weeks ago, that if K1MAN wanted a war, he will get one! It's funny that W4NTI wants to keep the radio wars going!

That's I restored the B.A.R.F. - Gives them something else to complain

I heard N4CND use the vilest language just the other night on 3.901 when W4AMP tried to reason with him.
N4CND needs to be removed for his use of profanity just a few nights ago on 75 meters.

Nobody said it WAS a USAF callsign, you fucking IDIOT.

USAF callsigns are like "Mainsail," "Sentry," "Nightwatch," or one for B-52's, "Gumby."
NORAD's old Colorado Springs callsign was "Ringmaster."

What a retard you are, Jim-Boob.

I just came across a 4o channel cb and remember seeing somewhere that you could convert it to a 6 meter rig.This is a handheld and I hope someone can help me.It is a Radio Shack TRC-217. Any help would be appreciated.
Thanks
Rob

BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHHAHAHAHAHAHAHA>...What band and UTC time am I supposed to have transmitted this on, fuckwit?

Since I keep a DETAILED logbook of all my transmissions, you better have all your ducks in a row.And you'll have to grow or rent some testicles since the FCC doesn't accept anonymous COWARDS' reports.

And who did you get to read that Part 97 to you, Jism-Boob the drug-addict?

You made one very big mistake Wiseman, and that mistake gave yourself away as the unidentified jammer on 3901. All info has been forwarded to Hollingsworth. Your license is toast Wiseman!

BZZZZZT! WRONG!

The Novice, Technician Plus and Advanced licenses are no longer issued by the FCC, stupid.
Those that hold those licenses can retain them or upgrade.

5275. IC-2800h

The ICOM IC-2800H dual band mobile radio has a setting that will mute, what they call, the sub band (the band that you are not transmitting on) when the receiver of the main band is active. However, when you transmit, the sub band is NOT muted which is very annoying.

Does any one know if the IC-2800 has a setting that will mute the sub band while transmitting on the main band? And if so, what crazy combination of buttons you have to push in order to set that feature?

Ken.

You can't go one post with out mentioning child pornography, why is this? Are you like rikihoho and trying to deflect attention from his own sickness???

I just pointed out that you spell lamed someone and have the same type of mistake, that is a PKB.

I do not know Burnore.

You really seem to be fixated on pedophilia, I do not think that is

Lack of ability to read your own regs noted:-

"97.9 Operator license grant.
(a) The classes of amateur operator license grants are: Novice, Technician, Technician Plus (until such licenses expire, a Technical Class license granted before February 14, 1991, is considered a Technician Plus Class license), General, Advanced, and Amateur Extra. The person named in the operator license grant is authorized to be the control operator of an amateur station with the privileges authorized to the operator class specified on the license grant.

(b) The person named in an operator license grant of Novice, Technician, Technician Plus, General or Advanced Class, who has properly submitted to the administering VEs, a FCC Form 605 document requesting examination for an operator license grant of a higher class, and who holds a CSCE indicating that the person has completed the necessary examinations within the previous 365 days, is authorized to exercise the rights and privileges of the higher operator class until a final disposition of the application or until 365 days following the passing of the examination, whichever comes first."

Roger, I'd have to take exception to this. I've had my callsign for almost 10 years now. I have yet to upgrade. The main reason is the code. It is not an intelligence issue. Pure and simple, it's a question of allocating the time. In order to pass the 5 wpm one must daily practice until mastery is achieved. Until recently I had not been able or willing to make that commitment. Again, not an intelligence issue.
As for now I am "just" a Technician, like my 13 yr old son. But soon we shall both be Generals ... and then who knows ...

I'm thinking of asking for grant money to study the connection between bigotry and obnoxiously crude and anti-social behavior on USEnet.
Thesis: the nastier and more small-minded the bigot, the worse the behavior, till you finally descend into the sewer with run-off like this.

Sure. Good old W4AMP. Trying to reason with him? After the sick, sad, crap this hillrat said about Oris in the past? The sick and flthy things AMP called Oris' wife and daughters? One does not "reason" with AMP. This is how he plays his sick game. He tries to act ever the nice guy, THEN he stabs you in the back, over and over and over.
Have you ever heard the sick, obscene language AMP used against Doc, AF2Y?

Not really worth the trouble. First off you would have to rebuild it and the final stages might not make it to 52Mhz. Second..you will have to "FM" it RX and TX. Next you would have to install some kind of offset osc or switching to get the 500/600Khz offset for RPTR use...and after all this you have a 4 watt rig. Do yourself a favor..just buy the Alinco 20 watt 6 meter rig..it's a bargain for the money...Eddie

hey rob
i wouldnt waste the money on converting it that HT is only an AM transserver and there just isnt much 6 meter AM stuff those articale you seen where to convert a SSB rig to 6 meters and with the price of the MFJ 9406 under $300 new and under $100 used its hard to justify spending the money to convert an old CB radio also if you have an HF rig already tentec sells a transvert for around $150 i think it is you can find those used as well for under $95 good luck

If there is such a "cheat sheet", this will only increase the problems for legal hams. If such a sheet is produced, you can bet it will include the Uniden HR2510 and HR2600, both of which are popular among freeband CB operators in modified form.

I run an HR2600 in my vehicle. This particular radio has NOT been modified in any manner. I am operating it legally, for it's intended purpose. I can just see some traffic cop spotting my radio and going ga-ga with his newfound "authority."

Amateur Radio Antennas Made By Amateur Radio Operators
Our Mission Is To Bring You Quality VHF / UHF Antennas
At A Great Price
we feature a complete line of ready to use J-Antennas. The frequencies we stock and that are not considered special order are 1.2 ghtz, 70 cm, 1.25 meters, 2 meters/70cm, 2 meters/1.25 meters/70cm tri-band, 6 meters, and 10 meters.
We will make an antenna for any frequency from 10 meters to 2.4 Gigahertz to fill any need.(What is considered a special order antenna) they would be antennas for sound systems, marine or aircraft frequencies, commercial FM frequencies, cell phone frequencies, any antenna not listed as standard stock ham band antennas !
Where you need a "J" antenna, we will help!
We have sold over 9000 antennas to date !
AS SEEN IN WORLDRADIO !
STARTED MAKING ANTENNAS ABOUT 1994
THESE ANTENNAS HAVE BEEN USED FOR THE PAST 4 SUPERBOWLS, NBC STUDIOS IN HOLLYWOOD, ALSO CBS AND ABC...USED AT LAST YEARS MTV MUSIC AWARDS, ALSO THE TV
SHOW , DAYS OF OUR LIVES , AND THE ROSEY O'DONELL SHOW.
WE MAKE THE "J" TYPE ANTENNA IN COPPER, AND A ROLL UP STEALTH

5303. Why Roger Is Like He Is

Roger is like he is for many reasons. It would take a psychologist to list them all, but here are some educated guesses from an observer.

1. Roger's daddy either died or ran off while Roger was very young. Roger harbors a deep, resentful hatred toward men, especially authority figures since he grew up having nobody to play catch with. He may have had a step-daddy that also ran off before Roger reached his formative teens, thus doubling the anger.
2. Roger married young. He was looking for a mother figure. He was not good at making a marriage work because he was used to his mommy catering to his whims and wishes. The marriage did not work simply because no woman could quite measure up to his doting mommy. His wife packed up after realizing the futility of trying to compete with Roger's mommy and left. She has since remarried and is very happy. She has no use for Roger and rarely talks to him unless it is absolutely necessary.
3. Roger lives in a relatively small town and as such everybody knows everybody. Roger keeps up an outward appearance of being a "good boy" and he takes his mommy shopping and to church. Roger hates to do this, but he must keep up appearances.
4. Roger would love to lead a more adventurous life, but he cannot. He is stuck in small-town America with small-town gossips and he deeply resents every minute of it.
5. His anger grows day by day because he is still tied to the umbilical cord, and as much as he would like to go out on his own he has not the financial resources nor the gumption to do so.
6. He realizes that life is quickly passing him by, that he will never again be able to meet and marry a good woman, and that he is stuck forever in a backwater, nondescript village with nowhere to go.
7. Roger is frustrated. Roger is angry. Roger is borderline psychopathic, if he has not already crossed over.
8. Roger uses the newsgroups to vent his anger. Roger is akin to a "closet Kluxer" who must vent his spleen somewhere, someplace, and often.

Roger Wiseman takes a bit of understanding. He is to be humored. He is to be pitied.

We hear from a friend that Roger's ex-wife is doing quite well now, married to a r-e-a-l man who treats her like a wife and not a substitute mommy.

Woger, why don't you marry an older woman, 10 or 15 years your senior. We hear they make great substitute mommies.

Maybe not, but it's easy to walk into a truck stop that sells the things, take a few polaroids, and issue them to the beat officers for comparison. They're still not going to catch the guy with a modified 'normal' rig, but they'll be able to spot the 'export' radios.

As far as other services, there's only one mobile FRS rig that I'm aware of, and for any service requiring a license, they can look at the license.

OTOH, if you're using an export CB as your mobile 10m rig, I'd recommend having a copy of the applicable sections of Part 97 in the glovebox anyway.

If you're hauling explosives on a federal permit, don't you think the highway patrol can insist on seeing proof? Do you think a local cop is just going to ignore your full-auto .50BMG because the license required is a federal one? They can arrest you for violations of federal law too.

If you read your regulations carefully, you will see you are prohibited, by licence, from broadcasting such content on any transmission system licensed by the FCC. Which includes the transmission system known as Usenet....

True, IF you hold a valid ham license, you are automatically exempted from these new CB laws. If your a CB'er, the FCC has given enforcement authority to the local police.

An antenna alone probably wouldn't be, unless it has neon lights on it, or maybe a coon tail, or maybe two of them on a big rig, or maybe a "10-4 Good

Again, the new CB enforcement laws automatically exempt anybody holding a valid ham license, regardless of what equipment they may be using. This exemption is clearly spelled out in the FCC ruling, which must be incorporated into all local ordinances providing local enforcement. There's no need for all the paranoia (if you are a licensed ham operator).

Now Orass, you are the one who used profanity the other night on 3.901. One ham named Bill out in St. Louis said he'd never come back to the frequency because of your actions. You're stuck in the spin cycle, Orasssssss.
I'm sure somebody taped it and sent it in.

Poor on the dole wanker, can't aford a new regulations book?
Novice, Technician Plus and Advanced will not be issued after April 15, 2000.
However, the FCC has allowed the frequency allocations for these licenses to remain in effect.
You must go back to your National Health doctor and have him increase your dosage.

well you must not be listening much there has been some wonderful openings on 6 this summer/fall granted its not like 20 meters but thats the appeal its a great challenge to work as mant counties as possible

There were FM Walkie Talkies that were considered CB's that operated on 49 MHz, which people have converted to 6 Meter use. This is what you have probably heard of.

It's not practical to convert an AM 40 channel CB HT to 6 Meter use.

Are you an amateur? Assuming your a tech, you might want to explore the 70CM (440 MHz) band. There may be some repeaters in your area, and will have more activity then 6M. 6M is one of those bands where you have to wait a month for 15 minutes of use, but those 15 minutes are fun. Another choice might be the 220 MHz band, as its starting to get some activity.

As for equipment, there are some nice dual band (2M/70CM) radios that you can get for under $200, like the Icom W32:

http://cgi.ebay.com/aw-cgi/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=1305333657

or Tri banders (6M/2M/70CM) like the yaesu VX-5R:

http://cgi.ebay.com/aw-cgi/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=1304754723

If you plan on getting you General ticket, and want a nice rig that has 6M on it, look at the Alinco DX-70TH. It's a 100 W, 160M thru 6M mobile rig that typically sells for under $400 used:

http://cgi.ebay.com/aw-cgi/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=1305466082

The DX-70T is the same rig, but only has 10 watts on 6M.

RADIO HABANA CUBA
DXERS UNLIMITED

MID-WEEK EDITION
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 2001

By Arnie Coro CO2KK

Send your comments, questions and ideas to: arnie@radiohc.org

Hi amigos, radioaficionados! Welcome to the mid-week edition of your favorite radio hobby program, coming to you on the air and on the web! I am Arnie Coro, radio amateur CO2KK, your friend here in Havana and host of this twice weekly program devoted to the promotion and development of our wonderful and fascinating hobby: RADIO!!!

And here is item one.... as year 2002 is less than a month away, scientists are working hard to forecast how HF propagation is going to behave next year... so far all opinions yours truly has heard coincide: YES, it's going to be yet one more year of very interesting propagation conditions despite the fact that the solar cycle's activity will certainly be moving down...

Item two: The idea of building a homebrew converter to connect ahead of an already existing receiver caught the attention of many Dxers Unlimited's fans, who already own medium sized portable radios with digital readouts that do not have a well designed and built front end...

So, at the request of many listeners, I will tell you today how this old timers trick works so well and how you can dramatically improve the performance of any receiver by building a wave converter, an item that once was popular among beginners as way of receiving HF signals on an AM broadcast band radio, by tuning the AM radio to the high end of the band and making the homebrew converter feed its output around 1.6 megaHertz to the table top AM radio...

Item three: December 12th will mark an important anniversary for the history of radio, and a Canadian radio amateur is requesting a special permit to use a homebrew spark transmitter on the 80 meter band to celebrate Marconi's first transatlantic transmission...

Margarita Delgado is my sound engineer and producer, this is Dxers Unlimited's mid-week edition, stay tuned or keep your computer connected to our streaming audio feed, I'll be back in a few seconds...

This is Radio Havana Cuba, the name of the show is Dxers Unlimited, this is a radio hobby program for both beginners and experts amigos!

Now here is item two in detail: A well-designed front end is essential if you want to enjoy good short wave reception, and let me tell you that unfortunately very few radios these days have among their features what professional engineers will describe as a well designed front end. Miniaturization, automated manufacturing techniques, cost cutting measures all add up to make most of today's receivers front ends not as good as they should be...

Here is one example: Today's super power stations and crowded bands demand a degree of front end selectivity that is next to impossible to achieve if you don't use an input radio frequency attenuator, followed by highly selective tuned circuits. The need to use those radios at locations within short distances of high power AM broadcast band and FM transmitters, plus a myriad of radio frequency interference generating devices adds to the problem. Those are the reasons why the part of the radio that goes from the antenna input connector to the output of the radio's first mixer is so important in order to achieve the best possible performance.

Now let me add that designing and building a front end that will tune from the AM broadcast band all the way up to the top end of the 10 meter amateur band, that is almost 30 megaHertz, is no easy job, and among the difficulties involved the most important one perhaps is bandswitching of the tuned circuits, something that can be done using from the classical plug-in coils of the early days of radio, to modern latching relays activated from the bandswitch...

I must add that a homebrew short wave converter using plug-in coils is a joy to operate and do a lot of experiments. The plug-in coils can be made very easily using short sections of PVC pipe and jumper wire or enamelled insulated wire for the windings... and they can be glued to old vacuum tube's bakelite bases. Here I look for dead tubes, carefully remove the glass bulb, clean the bases and then solder the coils to the pins...

The homebrew plug-in coils cost next to nothing and will provide you with ample possibilities for experimenting. Many years ago converters were popular, and several manufacturers in Europe and the Americas made converters that made possible short wave reception using automobile radios. Those were the days of AM on the amateur radio bands, and 10 meter band converters were among the most popular ones. Anyway, as several Dxers Unlimited's listeners said in their e-mail messages, homebrewing a short wave converter for use ahead of an already existing medium sized modern digital readout portable radio may prove to be a quite rewarding experience...

Stay tuned, I'll tell you more about homebrew short wave converters that have benefitted from both the SUPER-REGENERODYNE and my DREAM RADIO designs...

This is the mid-week edition of your favorite radio hobby program, the one and only show that provides the most up to date HF propagation updates and forecasts... Now let's talk a little more about this excellent project, building a converter to place ahead of your already existing radio receiver, so that the radio will act as a tuneable intermediate frequency.

Among the many advantages of such a homebrew project are that you can target a specific range of frequencies and optimize the front end... For example, those of you interested in monitoring the AM broadcast band will be amazed by the degree of performance that may be achieved by a well-designed converter working ahead of today's typical medium sized portable radio with a digital frequency readout... The AM broadcast band front end, built with high Q coils and classic air spaced variable capacitors will certainly improve your reception a lot, something that can be observed when running AM band DX tests during the local daylight hours.

As a matter of fact, AM band Dxers should keep a log of the daylight ground wave coverage on each AM band channel, as a surefire way of comparing the efficiency of different receivers on weak signal reception. The typical homebrew converter may achieve much better results than most receivers, as you, the builder, will optimize the front end in such a way no manufacturer can afford, except when dealing with professional receivers costing thousands of dollars!!!

Again, a well-designed signal attenuator, the appropriate use of high pass and low pass filters as required, an effective gain control, the use of low noise radio frequency amplifiers and mixers, and low phase noise local oscillators will give you a front end that when connected to your present receiver will provide outstanding results... For example, using my Grundig Satellite 700 receiver as a tuneable intermediate frequency in the range from 22 to 24 megaHertz with a converter that upconverts the 0.5 to 2.5 megaHertz range to that higher frequency, I can listen to AM broadcast band signals during the local daylight hours that are impossible to pick up with the Grundig Satellite 700 tuning directly on the AM band, but that come out in the clear when using the UP CONVERTER, provided with a well-designed low phase noise crystal oscillator that operates on 21.5 megaHertz and has a much cleaner spectrum output than the Grundig's phased locked loop local oscillator....

But that's not all, amigos -- the high Q homebrew front end coils, tuned with the two big air spaced variable capacitors are also much better performers than the miniature coils and capacitors used in the commercial tabletop receiver.... This is my second AM broadcast band UP CONVERTER and I am very pleased with both of them, so if you want to know more about this circuit, just drop me an e-mail to arnie@radiohc.org and I will include you in my technical mailing list!!!

A Canadian radio amateur is planning a very special celebration, here is the information about the 80 metre spark transmission on Marconi anniversary "Atlantic-leap 2001." David Wilson VE3BBN in St David's Ontario near Niagara Falls, is seeking approval from Industry Canada for a special event transmission using a home made spark transmitter. The event will take place on December 12th 2001, at 9 pm local eastern time, (0200 UTC), to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Marconi's historic transatlantic transmission of the letter "S" from Poldhu, Cornwall to St John's, Newfoundland in 1901.

The frequency will be 3.550 MHz, the output power approximately 20 watts, and the signal bandwidth 20 kHz. Radio amateurs in all countries are encouraged to listen and to provide signal reports.

To listen to the spark transmission your receiver should be set to the AMmode to get the most signal possible. David plans to transmit 60 times on the minute the following message "MARCONI S," then rest for about 45 seconds and repeat the sequence.

QSL messages should be sent to VE3BBN@rac.ca and reports should include name, QTH, signal report and distance as the crow flies from Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

And now, my friends as always at the end of the show here is Arnie Coro's exclusive and not copyrighted, in the public domain HF plus 6 meters propagation update and forecast...

The national truck stop chains are selling these as "10-meter radios." As such, it is totally legal to sell them to anyone who has the money to purchase. No license is required. No crime has been committed here.

No, I will not. I have a FEDERAL LICENSE to operate my radio...and I'll be damned if some local beat cop is going to have anything to say about it.

If he pushes the issue, he'll find himself in court...defending his department against a harassment and/or wrongful arrest lawsuit.

Trust me on this one.

The reason for this has to do with public endangerment. Name one person who's life has been endangered by a radio transceiver.

On paper, this sounds good. But in the real world of overzealous local cops, looking to make their arrest quotas for the month, it won't work this way.

Want proof? Look no further than states which have mobile scanner bans and amateur exemptions. How many hams have been harrassed and had their scanners confiscated? Plenty. You're guilty until proven innocent. To prove your innocence and get your property back, you need to go to court (often at considerable expense) and "tell it to the judge."

This will work the same way.

Hello Rob,

There are some really nice rigs out there now that cover six meters. Some inexpensive, some not so inexpensive. There's a new single band six meter mobile by Ranger Communications. It's a model RCI-5054DX. It runs a good $300 brand new though, but I'm not sure what your looking to spend. There are other multi-band radio's nowadays, but they run much more in cost. There are also many used single band six meter radio's on the market too, so you'll have to keep your eyes open for what you want. An example would be the Yaesu FT-100D or the Icom IC-706MKIIG. They both incorporate 160 meters all the way through 70 centimeters. The nice thing is they have plenty of power on each band and they operate in all modes. The downside is they cost plenty too. But when you think about all your getting they really are a good deal. You get an HF, 6 meter, 2 meter & 70cm radio all in one! But again, only you can determine what you can spend. That's where most people opt to go for a cheaper setup. But you'll have to decide. Good luck to ya!!

Actually they can. It is the type acceptance plate on the back of the radio. If it is not there, then make the arrest. Let the lawyers settle the differences.

He pulls you over. Sees the radio, asks for a ham license. In most states it is already illegal to have radios that can listen to police bands in cars if you do not have a license so they just "expand" the law a bit. No license then you and the car are off the street.

Let the lawyers settle this. The police have radio techs who can determine if a radio is illegal. And the police might even start having military style signal intelligence units to monitor radio traffic, to include cell phones.

In the post Sept. 11th climate be careful that you are not labeled a terrorist or an anti government activist. That can get you dead.

And the local police have full rights to affirm that you are legally qualified to pursue a hobby on a federal license. After all they do so with those who hold federal firearms licenses such as FFLs or Class III tax permits.

That is what lawyers are for. If you can not afford good legal help then you should not own guns or radios. Besides these are no longer hobbies for the little guys, only the rich.

The most popular conversion I have seen is for a Cybernet chassis conversion to 6m. However, it is fairly complex conversion. For $300.00 you can buy the new RCI 5054DX and get a compact all mode rig that will do everything you could ask for, except cost the same as an Icom, Kenwood or Yaesu......

CB's are easily convertable to 10 meter rigs but 6 meters is a big stretch.
If you want something to convert to 6, I suggest you look for an older low bad business radio. There are still some around. This will be much easier to convert and give you FM capabilities.

Roger, don't know how long back you go in the 14313 wars, but those in here who go back several years will recall KA4MUJ of The 14313 Mike & Judy Show.
Poor Mike was not too swift in the brains dept., but he was a deaf & dumb blind supporter of KV4FZ. The Mooooj, as Mike was known, was the best friend Herbie ever had. Mike would support Herbie, even when the clear facts showed otherwise. Anyway, Herbie ended up fucking Mike and stealing money from Mike, but all the way to Mike's death bed, in Mike's eyes, Herbie was still always right. And you are going the same way Roger. You are one to never let the clear facts deter you from your preconceived opinions. You will blindly follow your faulted beliefs to the bitter end and defeat. You are going down the exact path that KA4MUJ followed.

Pure bullshit. Jimmy, Oris, Doc, Rich and all the rest. Riley ought to be FIRED.He's a Wyatt Earp with the aim of a cockeyed monkey. On Haps page I see letters on top of letters. Big shit. Twenty still sounds like a toilet and so does 75. Where is Sheriff Smiley Riley when needed? Out fishing. Sitting there at his desk waiting for squealers, ass kissers, liars and bitch snitches to tip him off to whose doing what to who. What a crock. Smiley ain't worth his weight in used Kleenex.

Regarding six meter activity --

There is plenty of six meter activity. The past three or four weekends the band has opened up very nicely, from Michigan here to Alaska, Hawaii, and even into Europe. A friend of mine worked a number of stations in Europe over the past two weeks. That's all on SSB.

On FM, there are a number of places to find activity, such as 52.525 simplex. I monitor this frequency all the time, and over the course of the last couple of years have worked 20 or more states right there. There are also repeaters on six meters around the United States.

For me, six meters is my favorite band. I enjoy all modes, mostly AM and SSB, as I have a number of vintage rigs I like to get on the air. They call it the "magic" band, and over the 8 or 9 years I have been using it, I can certainly agree with that.

The W8MMQ Radio Mods Page has recently been updated. This list contains over 1,200 radio mod files, including some pictures.

http://www.qsl.net/w8mmq/mods/

If you can't find the mod you're looking for, try the /qrz_mods directory.
There is a large list of mod files there that have not been sorted into other directories.

Maybe I need to clarify myself... ;)
I know lots of people who enjoy working 6meters...
I was mostly wondering why a beginner's wanting to 'go there right off the bat' before even getting a license..... It's a fun band for some, sure..
But if it's challenging for old-timers, well....
Sort of like going down the "killer-slope" before even trying the bunny-hill..

I started in Oscar Satellites with an automated Station consisting of a FT-736R, Kansas City Tracker/Tuner computer interface, KLM Twist Oscar antennas with polarity switchers, and a 6m module added to the FT-736R. By coincidence, I decided to try 6m one day during an opening and contest, occurring simultaneously. At the onset, I didn't even know what a grid was. I knew my Lat/Lon, and soon discovered it was a rare grid due to over 75% being in the ocean. Add that to the fact that it hadn't been represented by any active hams in quite some years. Over 2 hours later and 150 contacts, I managed to clear the first pile-up. Considering how nearly impossible it would be to experience the same "popularity" on HF within the CONUS, I can only say that 6m is the magic band and one that helped me "cut my teeth". I soon found that Satellites were more boring than HF, although more dependable for keeping skeds. I then moved onto weak signal terrestrial work on SSB and digital formats. It is hard work, requiring an understanding of propagation, weather fronts, proper antenna installation and orientation, coax loss at higher frequencies, proper grounding and RF shielding and demands courteous operation at all times. I soon found that the "Cream" did surely "Float to the top", as the best operators were above 50 MHz. However, your mileage may vary; you may be content to only work HF due to the minimal amount of effort necessary in setting up a station and the fact that you will make more contacts by mistake that you would make on purpose above 50 MHz. There is a lot of this going around, and it's affect on the hobby is becoming more increasingly noticeable......

In other words, Shoot High, accept nothing less and help preserve the future of Ham Radio by keeping abreast of technology and finding new ways of communicating effectively. BTW, you won't find this on HF, and it is unlikely you will make a big difference by relying on the repeaters.

If you are serious on converting CB to 6m, I have a few mods here on file that are quite complex, but are supposed to yield satisfactory results. If you feel that you will enjoy 6m AM operation, I would recommend the RCI 5054DX, due to it's design incorporating High Level AM Modulation, and the ability to have the dual output section operate in a true linear fashion by modulating only the Driver on AM. SSB reverts back to AB1 and the AM Audio quality should be heads and shoulders above the regular approach to AM by the other manufacturers.

You can also look for HF offerings to be appearing soon in the American market, based on "Export" chassis 10/11m rigs with either one more or one less stage of up-conversion to put them in the Ham bands. I know Maycom has a 40m rig out slated for sale under $300.00 and it incorporates the same design as the RCI 6m rig does. This is one of the benefits of the efforts spent to police 11m with valuable Ham Radio assets; the influx of affordable gear into the Ham market by manufactures who had too much invested in their production process to shut down due to outside pressure. I couldn't say if these will be as "tight" as a Kenwood/Icom/Yaesu; but at 1/4 to 1/3 the price.....

Bullshit. None of my ham radios have a "type acceptance plate"
